AN INDEPENDENT LEGION .- We had heard of the effort of Colonel Hampton to raise an independent Legion of Cavalry. From the subjoined paragraph from the Charleston Courier, we perceive that the proposed legion will embrace the several arms of service. This will be a fine op-portunity for all who desire to take a promincut position in the service of their country :

AN INDEPENDENT LEGION .--- Col. Wade Hampton, a gentleman and cavalier, whose character needs no addition, title or en-dorsement, has received from Montgomery tull authority and a Commission for re-cruiting, enlisting and organizing an Independent Legion to comprise in judicious proportions Cavalry, Artilery and Riflemen, or, if prefered Infantry. The Companies of each arm will be re ceived as Companies, under their own offi-cers, and the Legion will be independent as far it can be. It will be considered sub ject to call at any time and for twelve months, if necessary, and for any portion of the Confederate territory. Captaing of Companies who wish hon-
