Song of Jubilee's Men.

From the steady pine branch, the mountain's crest, From the logs of the work, the beams of the poor...

Woe's gathered, a woe's gathered, woe's gathered, To stand for the woe's of a gathering woe...

Bring the summons of battle to Jubilee's men, Our best blood shall crimson the stream of the river...

Bring for a moment will cease to be woe, Through one and the same woe's of a gathering woe...

We tread the woe's of freedom or tread the woe's of woe, Hooker and McCall will fight to woe...

But when the wild woe's of Jubilee's men is heard, At the signal hill, valley and glen, Echo out with an answer of Jubilee's men...

A hundred bold spirits, a hundred bold spirits, A hundred proud charges drawn up to the woe's...

Are waiting the signal that bids them woe, All woe's and woe's to woe in the woe, Let the woe's of Jubilee's men be woe's of woe...

Another woe's of woe, infatigable with woe, For the woe's of woe's of Jubilee's men...

Woe's of woe's of woe, infatigable with woe, For the woe's of woe's of Jubilee's men...

From Charleston.

The Mercury of April 6th, speaking of the gathering of the Yankee naval forces for the attack upon Charleston, says:

During the forenoon of yesterday there was a very decided increase of the enemy's naval forces off the bar, and later in the day the aspect of affairs became such as to encourage the hope that the time for the long expected attack is at hand.

It is not unlikely that we may hear from the enemy to-day. We need hardly add that our land and naval forces are on the qui vive and ready, in every respect, for whatever may occur.

The Courier remarks on the same subject: There appeared to be considerable activity and increase of the blocking squadron Sunday morning. The general impression seemed to be that we might soon have some lively work on hand.

Nothing definite was ascertained, but our military are on the alert for whatever may transpire.

C. L. Vallandigham at Home.

Dayton, Ohio, March 12.—Hon. C. L. Vallandigham, member of Congress, formerly Dayton, Ohio street, arrived at home in this city at 4:30 this afternoon, and, although but two days' notice was had of his coming, received one of the greatest ovations ever given to any man in Ohio.

Before the hour of arrival for the train on which he was expected, his constituents began to flock to the depot by thousands. He was met as every man, woman and child in the district had come out to do honor to this champion advocate of constitutional rights.

Two bands of music enlivened the occasion, while a cannon belched forth thunder tones of welcome, awakening the valley of the Miami as it seldom ever awakened before.

Presently the whistling of the locomotive was heard, and as the train neared the depot, the thousands of persons rushed forward, all eager to catch the first sight of the man who so nobly, gallantly, and fearlessly represented the white man's interest in the Congress that this is adjourned.

The crowd was so dense that it was almost impossible for Mr. Vallandigham to reach the carriage which was in readiness to convey him to the court house, from the steps of which he was carried to his carriage, and being seated, he bared his brow to the breeze, and was hailed with deafening cheers, while the cannon responded twenty-four rounds.

The procession being formed, proceeded to the court house, where the reception speech was made by Hon. David Hook.

Mr. Vallandigham briefly responded.

A FEAT OF DAVEN.

A correspondent of the Chattanooga Rebel, writes for the literal correctness of the following statement, it being taken from official sources:

Two days before the battle of Murfreesboro, First Lieutenant C. C. Write, Company A, 10th South Carolina Regiment, was on picket duty in front of our line.

Having taken a walk in front of our line, he was suddenly surrounded by a party of Yankee cavalry, and ordered to surrender.

Seeing he was overpowered, he gave up his sword. The lieutenant commanding the Yankees then ordered him to the rear.

He started, but noticing the Yankee look-alike, immediately turned and grappled him, calling to his comrades to knock down as many as they could, and to his company to rally to his assistance.

Having succeeded in getting a severe wound d. several of the enemy, and kept them all at bay till his company came up, when he called out to them: "Shoot the rascals—don't mind me!"

They fired killing some and driving off the rest. By the time he had returned to his company, he was charged by a party of large force of cavalry, whom he repulsed with a loss of fifteen killed and three wounded, left upon the field.

Among the Yankees killed was a Major Rosenzweig, of Philadelphia.

FIGHT AT TOSCOMBIA—PART OF THE TOWN DESTROYED.

We have information that a portion of Gen. Dodge's forces from Corinth encamped a portion of Van Dorn's men at Tuscombia, and that the latter were utterly and completely routed.

About 200 of the enemy were captured, together with three horses, one piece of artillery and a large road train.

Our forces took possession of the town, and destroyed all the buildings which had been occupied by the rebel troops, together with commissary, quartermaster and ordnance stores.

Our loss was only two men.

Since the above engagement, it has been reported that there were several other fights in that direction, but nothing is definitely known.

At last accounts, our men were pursuing a part of Van Dorn's men in an easterly direction.—Memphis Bulletin.

THE WAR IN MEXICO.

By way of San Francisco, the Northern papers claim to have news from the city of Mexico to the 19th February, which represents the Mexicans in good condition and spirits, to resist the march of the French towards their capital.

It is stated that they have in their army at Puebla thirty four thousand troops, and at the city of Mexico fifty thousand. Great activity was being displayed in the manufacture of war munitions.
