

Waiting.
 Long lines of white divide my raven hair,
 The first approach of gradual decay;
 These glossy curls with which he used to play
 In that far time when I was young and fair.

And am I not still fair? They tell me so.
 What though the color from my cheek took flight
 Upon that awful, well-remembered night,
 When first I heard that he I loved lay low!

But peace has come. My heart is almost light,
 And many think that time has cured the wound;
 Like him, who with his eyes upon the ground
 And halting accents, wooed me yesternight.

He thought I had forgot thee. O my love!
 What knew he of the dew that drops unseen,
 And keeps thy tender memory fresh and green,
 Until that day when we shall meet again.

What knew he of the vows that make my life
 A long sad secret, ne'er to be revealed—
 A fast-closed rasket with thy signet sealed—
 A widowhood ere yet I am a wife?

Oh, when, at last, thou ask'st beneath thy breath
 If I would wait a maiden for thy sake;
 And, conscious of the answer I must make,
 Smiled, ere I whispered, "Ever, love, till death!"

So I have waited—and I still will wait
 (For Hope is infinite and Mercy wide)
 Till kindly Death restore thee to thy bride,
 And my lone heart no more be desolate.

Wait thou, O heart;—again the morning sun
 Slow through the vanquished mists his pathway wins;
 Again, once more, my round of life begins.
 Thank God that I can say, "Thy will be done."

 can be taken only according to law.
