Beast Butler's Speech.

Butler in Ohio-he develops the Radical plan -How the work is to be done-Force to be resorted to by the Radicals if Mr. Johnson refuses to obey the behests of the Rump Congress.

General Butler addressed an immense audience at Xenia, Dayton and Springfield on Friday, and at Hamilton and Cincinna ti y sterday. General Butler advocated the impeachment of the President, because he sought to bring Congress into public hatred, ridicule and contempt; because he had corruptly used the power of removal and appoinsments; because he had neglected to execute those laws of Congress which were passed over his veto and other laws; because he had defied the constitutional right of the Senate to confirm appointments by placing in power officers whom it had rejected; because he had corruptly used the pardoning power and un lawfully restored property belonging by right of capture to the United States, and because he usurped the power of Congress by terminating the war by proclamations instead of by treaty by the advice of the Senate or a law of Congress. Each of these offences are high crimes and misdemeanors in the meaning of the Constitution.

The speech concludes as follows :

We have been asked the question, "How Heis can the President te impeached ?" Commander in Chief of the army and navy, and the Constitution of the United States says nothing whatever about who shall hold the office while he is being impeached. Therefore, if you begin the impeachment he will order the army and navy to disperse Congress, and he will seize the reins of Government. Where is the remedy ? Here it is : The House of Representatives. under the Constitution, is the grand inquest of the nation-perhaps 1 might say, for illustration, the Grand Jury of the nation. It prepares the bill of impeachment against the President if it sees cause, and it presents the bill of impeachment to the Senate of the United States, which then become a high court of impeachment. and the Chief Justice of the United States sits in that court as its presiding officer. It is thus no longer, for that purpose, the Senate of the United States, but it is the court of impeachment of the United States What shall they do? When the impeach ment is ready the Senate sends out its messenger or sergeant at arms to bring in the criminal, be he high or low. They set him at the bar and read the bill to him. If he plead guilty, then they proceed to sentence him, which sentence is a deposi tion and deprivation of office. When he is brought before the bar of the Senate of the United Stat.s may order him to be imprisoned, or to find bail, or any other proper order that a court may adopt in a criminal case, and when the Constitution provided this mode of trial, did its framers mean that a man who is before the Court of Impeachment as a criminal shall be at the same time chief executive officer of the government? By no means. From that moment he ceases to be able to exercise the duties of that office until he is acquitted. And then comes the case of the inability of the President of the United States to exercise the office of President, so the Vice President must take the office, and there being no Vice President it must devolve on the President of the Senate for the time being. (Applause) If in any of these steps, so taken, according to the constitution, the President docs not obey as a good eitizen the behests of the High Court of Impeachment, then that court, like any other court in the land, can call upon the whole body of the people to aid it in enforcing its rightful authority. (Applause.) And now I serve a notice on Andy Johnson that when a rightful court of the Senate of the United States calls for aid in their behalf, and the people of the United States, "the boys in blue" will answer. We are told that if Congress shall proceed to exercise their rightful authority then there will be tried the strength of the government, that the President will call upon the army and navy, and the army and navy will obey him. Let there be no fear about that, because the army and navy of the United States are not those few men that are in the regular service. (Applause.) I have no desire to disparage either the patriotism or the integrity of the army of the United States, but if the army, as such, or if any portion of it, or of any officer of il, shall so far forget the duties he owes to his flag and to his profession as a soldier as to answer any but the legal call of his country, that small body of men shall be swept from the face of the earth as a cabi net is swept away before the rising of the morning sun. (Prolonged cheers.)

The Louisville Journal says : "We tell the Northern fanatics- as a lover of our whole country we sole: nly tell them, that unless madness has seized upon their hearts and brains, they will not insist on pushing the dissensions between the President and Congress to the fighting point. They may rest assured, that if the fight comes, it will be to them, such a one as they have no account of in either history or tradition. They will find it an infinite ly different thing from the war of the re bellion, dreadful as that was throughout all its annals. They will find themselves a divided people, divided almost equally, divided and mutually hostile, whilst the whole population of the South will be a unit, able to strike for their friends, or to s and afar from the flash, the crack, and the roar of war, as may seem best to them The thick cloud now enveloping the South may be partially litted; but night and storm, surcharged with bloody rain, will close over the North."

THE BEAUTY OF OLD PEOPLE .--- Men and women make their own beauty or their own ugl-ness. Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton speaks in one of his novels of a man, "who was uglier than he had any business to be; and if he could but read it, every human being carries his life in his face, and is good looking or the reverse as that life has been good or evtl. On our features the line chisel of thought and emotion are eternally at work. Beauty is not the monopoly of blooming young men and of white and pink maids. There is a slowgrowing beauty which only comes to perfection in old age. Grace bolongs to no period of life, and goodness improves the longer it exists. I have seen sweeter smiles on a lip of seventy than I ever saw on a lip of seventeen. There is the beauty of youth, and there is also the beauty of ho liness-a leauty much more seld in met ; and more frequently found in the arm chair by the fire, with grand children around his knee, than in the ball room or the prom enade. Husband and wife who have fought the world side by side; who have made common stock of joy and sorrow, and aged together, and not unfrequently found curi ously alike personal appearance and in pitch and tone of voice-just as twin pebbles on the beach exposed to the same tidal influences, are each other's alterego He has gained a feminine something which briags his manhood into full relief. She has gained a masculine something which acts as a foil to her womanhood.

IS A BROKEN NECK CURABLE -A London letter in the Chicago Evening Journal has the following :

The old saying that there is no cure for the broken neck, has just been practically disapproved by a surgeon at Greenock. He was called in to see a young girl who had just fallen a distance of eighteen feet, and choroughly dislocated her neck. When he reached her the face was nearly revers ed, and looking over the back. He prompt ly supported the back with the left knee, took a grasp of the head, and began to pull gradually and pretty strong, where upon the girl's eyes opened and there was an effort at breathing. Increasing the pressure the parts suddenly came to their natural position, and after a minute or two regular breathing was established. Close attention was afterward paid to the case, and after much fever and occasional convulsions, the child recovered and is now as well as over.

GREAT FAMINE .- In the famine districts in India, the natives are reduced to feed on roots and mango stones, which they grind into a kind of flour. This miserable sustemance is whelly insufficient to keep a large number of them from starving, and the fearful spectacle is presented of numerous corpses lying on the highways. They remain unburied, and, proh-ably as a consequence, cholera has broken out, and is carrying off large numbers of persons, In their utter distress mothers are offering their children for sale in order to buy bread. ----

EFFECT OB DE TAX. - The Thomasville Enter prise says that a colored man in that county planted, and latel + had in a prosperous condition, two acres of cotton, from which he promised hinself much profit in the fall, when it should go into market, and tooked with pride every day upon his increasing prospect of wealth. But alas ! some of his friends told him of the tax on cotton recently passed by Congress, and when it was explained to hun so indignant did he become, that he immediately thr w down the fencing, and turned in the stock to devour his crop. Cuff e thinks cotton planters the most ill used of men. If the white men of the South would follow his example for one season only, Congress would return to its senses."

MILITARY SPIRIT AT THE NORTH -- Prior to the late civil war the people of the Northern States were with the utmost difficulty induced to perform militia service. They overwhelmed with ridicule every attempt to enforce their State militia laws, and paid the heaviest fines rather than do duty in corn stalk regiments A wonderful change, however, has come over the Northern people since the war, and they now exhibit remarkable zeal and readiness in the organization and equipment of their milit a. This development of military spirit was stimulated by a resolution of Congress which provided for the distribution among the North ern States of vast quantities of arms and munitions of war, but expressly provided that none should be sent in o the Southern State-. The "m litin fever" is now raging at the North. and from the rapidity with which companies, regiments and brigades are being formed. a foreigner would arrive at the conclusion that we were upon the eve of another great war.
