THE SMART SET.

Coming back to add new laurels to those already gained in past seasons, "The Smart Set," is announced for the Columbia Theatre on Monday night Feb. 17. This season the management of that justly popular attraction announces an entire new production, keeping only the title and that clever comedian, Salem Tutt Whitney and his able companion in the production of continuous laughs, Homer Tutt, and of course, a chorus of dark-skinned beauties in keeping with the well-established policy of having the niftiest chorus of any musical show on tour. The scenic production is new and more elaborate than ever, the costumes are superb creations of a master mind, and the story is built to display the best abilities of the army of entertainers with that show. The music is by T. L. Corwell, whose work is well known throughout the breadth of the country, the story is by the comedian himself and in originality is rivaled only by the ability of the author as an entertainer, and must therefore be the acme of excellence. The company claims to carry the best singing and dancing chorus in America and having held that place unchallenged in past seasons, it is safe to say that this season the reputation will be more firmly established than heretofore.—Adv.

THE WONDERFUL KNOWLEDGE TO CURE DISEASES BY HYGIENE.

KNOWLEDGE COMES FROM UNDERSTANDING. SO GET UNDERSTANDING. IT IS THE GREAT WELL SPRING OF BETTER HEALTH TO HIM OR HER WHO HATH IT.

I will be in Columbia, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 14 and 15, and will be in the Carroll building from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., each day of the conference, and at my office in the Carroll building, 916 Washington Street from 10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Get ready and bring your money with you if you want to leave feeling good. Tell your sick friends of my coming. Have it announced in your church, Sunday and public schools—and in that way do a little mission work for the sick and afflicted in your community by simply speaking of me.

Prices run from $7.50 to $20.00 according to your troubles and long standing. Special troubles cost $5 and $10 extra. All you need to do in writing me is just to state how your troubles affect you, and how long and I will send you the price. If you cannot read well it will pay you to come and see me. And I will do you just like I have done and am still doing Bishops, leading white and colored ministers, lawyers, bankers, mayors, chiefs of police, clerks of court, merchants, conductors, farmers, etc.

My suffering friend of either sex, if you can afford to recognize what the above class of people have tried and are endorsing after one month to twenty year's experience, See or, write me today.

Mr. H. N. Vincent the popular and very efficient P. O. clerk has succeeded in getting a transfer to the carrier force. He has been assigned to route 6 and will go on about the first. Henry has made a "cracker-jack" clerk, and we believe the same will be said of him as a carrier.

Mr. Tandy Williams, the popular porter of the Gresham hotel at Spartanburg made a flying trip to Columbia Tuesday. He was in such a big hurry that he could not find time to look up the Indicator man, but snatched time enough to stop at Pinckney's tonorial parlor to get John Twitty to shape his hair and also to send Mr. Twitty whizzing diagonally across the street. Mr. Williams is an all-round good fellow and his many admirers were delighted to have him for a few hours in the capital city.

Down at the Union Baptist church a few nights ago, the members tendered a reception to Mrs. Lilla B. Hall, the charming, vivacious wife of the Rev. Dr. R. B. Hall, the wide-awake and justly popular pastor of that church. Quite a crowd had assembled. After remarks suited to the occasion, by Deacon Wilson and Mrs. Fields, Prof. John R. Wilson, formally presented Mrs. Hall to the waiting friends. It was the wife of their own esteemed pastor. Mrs. Hall was received and treated as such. The delicacies which caused the tables to groan were too numerous to mention. In the short address Mrs. Hall made, acknowledging courtesies received she gave additional evidence of her superb, innate refinement and charming manners. She may well be regarded as a distinctive addition to Columbia's colored religious and social life.

The season of Lent has cast a gloom over social affairs, but still there were a few small entertainments both this week and last. Miss Jackson of Asheville and Mrs. Robert Jeffers, who was Miss Zenobia Lindsey, were the honored guests of several functions. Mrs. Hipp was hostess to them on Thursday afternoon of last week, and Mrs. Henry Vincent gave in their honor a small whist party of four tables on Friday evening. Mrs. Vincent served an elaborate buffet supper. The prize winners were Mrs. Jeffers, Miss Sylvia Pryor and Miss Daisy Jackson and Messrs. Monroe Lindsey and E. H. Wiley.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the week was Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. John Cornwell and Miss Cornwell were "at home" informally to their friends. The entire first floor was thrown en suite. Five games were played, the winners being Mrs. Vincent, Miss Ethelind Thompson and Messrs. R. H. Paul and Henry Wallace. After the games a delightful repast of two courses was served. Among those present were Mesdames E. M. Levy, N. Jerome Frederick, R. O. Jeffers, Aiken Nix, H. E. Williams, Alonza Hardy, H. N. Vincent, David Meens, Misses Fannie and Olive Shelton, Ethelind Thompson, S. B. Gantt, J. O. Poinsette, Estelle Perrin, Sylvia Pryor, Evelyn Naudin, Rosalie Johnson, Kate Lindsey, Daisy Jackson and Daisy Myers. Doctors Henry Cooper, B. F. Thomas, Messrs. Louis Gaten, M. Lindsey, Henry Wallace, T. L. Owens, R. H. Paul and Joseph F. Bomar of Spartanburg.

Mrs. Spencer Barre entertained Wednesday night after the recital of Mme. Booker. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Barre's hospitality were Mme. Booker, Mrs. Jeffers, Mrs. Frederick, Misses Daisy Jackson and Kate Lindsey, Dr. Hardy, Messrs. H. Wallace, M. Lindsey, J. Bomar. Misses Ruby Bolden, Nellie Barre and Coral Smith served deliciously brewed punch. At midnight the hostess served a tempting supper a la buffet of several courses.

MADAM BOOKER READS AT SIDNEY PARK.

Columbia has seldom had the pleasure of hearing a reader of the calibre of Madam Dayse Booker, who gave a recital at Sidney Park church last Wednesday evening. The four selections that the reader gave showed her versatility and were as follows:

The Blacksmith's Story, Dunbar's Encouragement, a selection depicting a little mischievous girl, and the dramatic poem of Itaiian life called the Confessional. The histrionic ability displayed by Madam Booker was markedly apparent in each selection. Perhaps her Negro dialect did not always ring true but any deficiency along this line was more than made up by the delightfully humorous activity.

In the "Confessional," the character Nina runs the gamut of the emotions, love, jealousy, hatred, fear, revenge, contrition all of which the artist portrayed most convincingly. Mrs. Jeffers assisted by Miss Daisy Jackson and Dr. Henry Hardy of Spartanburg rendered several musical numbers that received hearty applause.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT WESLEY.

Last Sunday was a memorable day for Wesley's congregation and friends, because of the two interesting and unusual services that were held in the beautiful edifice on Garvais street. In the morning Rev. C. C. Scott, the pastor, preached a special sermon, the theme of which was "Housebuilding and House-keeping" based on the text "Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not live," II Kings 20-1. The sermon was replete with wholesome advice presented

Prof. J. D. Baldwin departed from this world a few weeks ago and by his death his friends feel a great loss, but we feel our loss is his gain.

His place is vacant in his home
Which never can be filled,
His smiling face we see no more
Until we meet on the golden shore.
We know thou art peacefully sleeping,
Abel, sleep and take thy rest.
We loved thee dear,
But Jesus loved the best.
Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low,
Thou no more will join our number,
Thou no more our sorrow know.
Dearest friend you have left us here
Thy loss we deeply feel,
But 'tis God that hath bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.
Yet again we hope to meet you
When our work on earth is done.
Then in heaven with joy to greet you,
And with Jesus forever dwell.

A FRIEND.
