OUR CITY REPRESENTATIVE ON THE JOB.

Despite the fact that the general topic of discussion these days is "hard times" our City Representative, Rev. D. P. Bishop is bringing about satisfactory results by way of getting new subscribers. We find too that the bulk of business being done is among the humble people like ourselves—the same class that renders the most support to all other businesses, as well as in the church. This class can always be relied upon and this is the lesson which all business men have learned.

These people don't mind paying the pitiful sum of $1.50 for a year's subscription to a paper published in interest of their people. It's a large number of the other class, with which newspaper and other business men have the most trouble in making collections of honest bills.

We welcome these honest and reliable humble class to our subscription list at all times and we congratulate Rev. Bishop on selecting the honest ones.

We solicit the continued co-operation of our subscribers for Rev. Bishop.

Aside from being a good solicitor Rev. Bishop is a worthy young Baptist minister who would render valuable service to a good church in need of such a man.—Manager.

WHAT THEY HAD IN THE BANK.

And still the end is not yet, in the disclosures to be made since the veil was torn aside at Tulsa. But for the riots, we would never have been able to gather an idea of the amount of money that Negroes accumulate and hoard in the banks.

depositors have withdrawn over one million dollars since the riot. The officials of this bank are reported as saying: "We did not know that the Negroes had so much money in our banks until they started drawing it out."

There are eight banks in the City of Tulsa. If the Negroes had over one million on deposit in that one bank, it will be safe to estimate that they had two million dollars in the other seven. All black folks do not put their money in banks. We are wondering how much more could be added to this amount if we could have gone into the old socks and what not that were hidden in the in the homes of the black folks of that city. One Negro reported that the looters got $15,000.00 out of his safe; $1,000.00 worth of Liberty Bonds were reported lost in another rooming house and when we add to this grand total the diamonds and other valuables in the way of jewelry which has almost a full valuation upon it, we will find that the Negroes of Tulsa could have cashed in a cool $4,000,000.00 and never have touched their property and their business.

There are two big lessons to be learned from the financial disclosures about the Negroes in Tulsa: first, that it is a bad proposition for banks to permit any sort of disorders in a community that would frighten away from their doors so much capital; secondly, the Negro should see that as a group we have in most every community through our combined wealth, enough money to do most anything. The amount of money per capita, that the Negroes have in banks will range a little higher than that of the average white man for the reason that the white man is busy putting his to work. The Negro with his lack of confidence in co-operative effort is permitting the white man to do with his money what he is afraid to do with it himself. The lesson should come home to Negroes in every community in America. We have served our apprenticeship in poverty. We have reached a day and a time when we can put across any sort of financial program if we will but add to our dollars little more confidence. —The Black Dispatch.

REPORT OF THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES' AUXILIARY.

During the past month the Auxiliary handled 7 new cases, 3 old cases, 1 out of town inquiry, and have in files from the month before 50 cases, 34 interviews were made, 23 telephone calls, 8 letters written, 138 visits made, 2 telegrams sent.

Sometimes we are called upon to do most unusual things as in the case of Uncle John.

This very old gentleman is one of the old school, polite and brimful of information, always ready to oblige and never ready or willing to ask a favor. worked as long as he was able. Friends seeing this jovial old gentleman declining sought the Charities in his behalf. His needs were met by loving relatives that probably would never have known his condition.

Boys we all know will be boys and their love for adventure sometimes causes them to leave home unless they have some one at the new home to go to. The Charity Organization Society is the friend in need.

Such a case was handled by our Society through the Society in another State and two boys returned to their parents at smaller cost than keeping them there.

Often persons coming from other localities, lose their money some by not knowing how to spend it, others have money taken from them, these always find their way to us and are sent on their way as soon as a hearing can be had by telephone or telegraph. During the month 3 such cases were handled.

Physically handicapped but willing to do most anything, though not able to launch that something we often find. Six such persons went through the Auxiliary and the courtesy of the reporting two others were granted extension of time in paying for licenses.

Often persons are sick. Doctors cannot reach their complaint at their home, hospital and surgical care are not in their reach. One such case came to us and through the courtesy of Dr. Heyward, a Specialist, Dr. R. W. Gibbs and Mr. Geer, a bacteriologist, he was given the best of care. Two laboratory tests, 3 X-rays and constant attention.

There is always a way to do what one really wishes. A mother of 3 boys, none old enough to be of much service, through an arrangement of the Associated Charities, the education of the boys have been arranged. The mother surrendering her insurance for this purpose.

Through the Associated Charities one young man with a very pronounced case of TB was placed in the Richland County Sanatorium and is now on the road to recovery.

RICHLAND WOMEN OPPOSE LYING

The Record.
Opposition to mob violence was expressed in a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Richland County League of Women Voters at a meeting in Columbia Tuesday afternoon. The league instructed its secretary to send an open letter throughout the State, making it known that this organization is opposed to mob violence and lynching and in favor of allowing the law to handle all crime.

The resolution was prompted by the lynching in McCormick county Sunday, when hundreds of citizens took the law into their own hands, despite the fact that court was to be in session the next day.

GLADYS COLEMAN OF RIDGE SPRING, S. C.

I have seen many children, white and colored, but the most remarkable little child of them all is Gladys Coleman, daughter of the Rev. J. W. Coleman, who is pastor at Batesburg, Johnston, Jonesville and Saluda.

Gladys is only eleven years old. She accepted Jesus Christ two years ago under the preaching of Dr. D. F. Thompson. She is a member of the Sunday school and attends the public school. Gladys owns a horse that her father gave her and which she rides back to school. She is quiet and docile as an old woman 75 years old, polite, watchful and graceful. It is remarkable to see this child plowing in her father's field. She can hitch the horse perfectly to the plow, busy or wagon, she can hoe cotton, milk the cow, feed the stock, take care of the pasture, cook and clean up the house.

Gladys is devoted to her father, mother and the cause of the Lord. What will she be in the end, that depends. She has made a remarkable progress: she would rather work than play and is contented when alone, if it be in the field or at her books. Richard Carroll.
