Does any one pretend for a moment to believe that Aaron Burr would have received the vote of the State, and that too, over one of her own sons, if the people cured of her deafness. It seems that have voted for this bold, bad recklese about three years of age she became very man? Never—never. It could only have deaf of both ears. In conversation it was occurred as it did occur, under the very difficult to make her hear, and she contem whereby the people have no direct agency in voting for the highest office in the Government.

The estimation in which Burr was held among the people was shown by what occurred in Chesterville, when he was on his way to Richmond, Va., to stend his lows: trial. It was stated on his trial by one of
