Carnegie as a Prophet.

He Says Britain Must Form States of American Union.

New York Special to Baltimore Sun.

Andrew Carnegie, in an interview, expresses his admiration of the will of Cecil Rhodes, but says the provisions did not surprise him greatly, as he was somewhat acquainted with the ideas of Mr. Rhodes.

"Green, the historian, tells us," declared Mr. Carnegie, "that the future of our race is to be found not on the banks of the Thames of the Clyde, but on the Hudson, the Ohio and the Mississippi. Lord Rosebery has just stated, in his recent address to the students of Glasgow, that, for the sake of a united race, he would be willing that the capital be transferred to Washington. He is one of Cecil Rhodes' trustees, very properly. He is also a trustee of the Carnegie fund, very properly, and I suspect he does not differ much from the race imperialists.

"There is no other destiny possible for the United Kingdom. She must look across the Atlantic to the children of her own blood and finally enter the Union as six or eight States—Scotland, Ireland and Wales, each one, and England divided into two, perhaps three."

"What do you think of Mr. Rhodes' references to a closer union of Germany with the English speaking nations?" was asked.

"A great man has arisen in Germany," replied Mr. Carnegie. "The Emperor. The only trouble about taking in Germany at present is that President Roosevelt and the German Emperor are so much alike, that I am afraid we should have to sacrifice one of them."

A DOCTOR'S BAD PLIGHT

"Two years ago, as a result of a severe cold, I lost my voice," writes Dr. M. L. Scarborough, of Hebron, Ohio, "then began an obstinate cough. Every remedy known to me as a practicing physician for 35 years, failed, and I daily grew worse. Being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, I found quick relief, and for last ten days have felt better than for two years." Positively guaranteed for Throat and Lung troubles by Crawford Bros., and J. F. Mackey & Co. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Oil for the Children.

Give them oil—cod-liver oil. It's curious to see the result. Give it to the peevish, fretful child, and he laughs. Give it to the pale, anæmic child, and his face becomes rosy and full of health. Take a flat-chested child, or a child that has stopped growing, give him the oil, and he will grow big and strong like the rest.

This is not a new scheme. It has been done for years. Of course you must use the right oil. Scott's Emulsion is the one.

Scott's Emulsion neither looks nor tastes like oil because we are so careful in making it pleasant to take.

Roosevelt in Dixie.

The President Cheered to the Echo in the Cradle of Secession.

Special to Greenville News.

Charleston, S. C., April 8.—President Roosevelt has been given a great ovation in Charleston today and tonight.

He arrived this morning on a special train over the Southern railroad from Washington at 9:45 o'clock.

Thousands of people gathered at the Line station to welcome the President, but they were doomed to disappointment. The program had been changed; instead of coming direct to the city, the President and his party had been taken first to Chicora Park to inspect the Navy Yard site. There they boarded the cutter Algonquin and made a trip through the harbor and out to the Jetties. As the ship steamed down the river a presidential salute was fired by the Cincinnati, the Lancaster, the Topeka and the Forward, all of which had all their bunting flying in honor of the nation's chief magistrate.

Luncheon was served on the Algonquin near Fort Sumter during which short addresses were delivered by President Roosevelt and Mayor Smyth. The harbor excursion ended at 4:30, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt driving first to the residence of Mayor Andrew Simonds and thence to the St. John's hotel where they will stop while in the city.

The streets were lined with thousands of spectators who cheered frantically as the President drove by.

The program for the night included a banquet to the President given by the City of Charleston hotel and a reception by Mrs. Roosevelt to the ladies of Charleston at the St. John's hotel. The guests at the former were limited to 164 and those at the latter to 500. President Roosevelt was welcomed to the city officially by Mayor Smyth and the President responded in a speech in which he spoke at length of the reunited country over which he rules, commended the exposition and the South which it so well represents and the pleasure he had in coming to Charleston. ## Negro With His Throat Cut Found by Fishermen in Abbeville.

Special to The State.

Abbeville, April 9.—Today at about 2 o'clock some negro fishermen who were fishing on Long Cane creek about 5 miles from Abbeville made a gruesome find. It was the body of a negro man with his throat cut from ear to ear. The wound appeared as if it had been done with an axe. The body had evidently been in the water for several days, as the skin was coming off the body where exposed. The body is supposed to be that of Morgan Belcher, who disappeared two weeks ago. There is no clue so far as to the perpetration of the deed.

PRESIDENT'S DAY.

HIGH WATER MARK IN ATTENDANCE AND ENTHUSIASM REACHED AT THE EXPOSITION WEDNESDAY.

Forty Thousand People Welcome the Chief Magistrate of the Nation—Imposing Ceremonies at the Auditorium—The President Makes a Memorial Speech.

Special to Greenville News.

Charleston, S. C., April 9.—40,000 people welcomed the chief magistrate of the nation to the South Carolina Inter-State and West Indian exposition today. President's Day marked, as it was expected to do, high water mark in the successful and great undertaking in which South Carolina and Charleston are deeply interested. President Roosevelt is now in Summerville, S. C., before returning to the national capital, and his visit here has been everything that the people of the city and directors of the exposition had hoped that it would be. No untoward circumstance of any kind has marred the success of the occasion, and from the day that the President set his foot within the city's limits until he waved farewell to the cheering crowd at the grounds this afternoon, his visit was all that his hosts could have wished it to be.

The parade in his honor through the streets of the city this morning was one of the most brilliant and elaborate military spectacles that has ever taken place in the history of Charleston. Over 3,000 uniformed men representing every branch of the national and state military service were in line. The President rode for miles through the city's streets between solid walls of humanity, which cheered him to the echo from the beginning to the end of his triumphant progress.

At the exposition grounds in front of the auditorium he reviewed from a specially prepared platform the soldiery which had been a part of his escort and subsequently he presided at the exercises in his honor which were held in the auditorium itself. Addresses of welcome appropriate to the occasion, were made by President Wagner of the exposition and Mayor Smyth of the city of Charleston, and Governor Aycock of North Carolina. President Roosevelt himself responded in a speech which will be long remembered, not only by the people of Charleston, but by those of the entire South. He declared with an emphasis that was in no wise stinted, that the wounds which had existed in the nation were all healed, and that there was today a perfectly united people.

Governor Aycock's address was a particularly happy one and he himself was given an enthusiastic reception by the vast audience which assembled in the auditorium.

THE SWORD PRESENTATION.

When the President had concluded his speech, former Governor Hugh S. Thompson of South Carolina came forward and in a most graceful and appropriate address, requested him to present to Lieut. Miles Jenkins, on the part of the people of the native State, a sword. President Roosevelt complied with
