AN UNUSUAL ESCAPE

Yorkville, Nov. 17 .- A white mae named Parish, who was recently committed to jail from Fort Mill for stealing $8 from a lady, escaped from the court house ou Monday. He was sitting on the bench with the other prisoners and while the sheriff and deputies were busily engaged, he got up and walked out of the court room and got away. No blame is attached to Sheriff Logan The sheriff has offered a reward of $10 for the capture of Parish, Congested courts and special Judges are making courts and ests of the territory. court practices too common. The Wickersham was reappointed to feeling of intelligent la men will day. soon reach the point of contempt. Lawyers are to blame for long drawn out cases. If one will listen careful to the examination and cross examination of an immaterial witness, he will bear an astounding number of unnecessary questions. What the lawyers need Special to Charleston Post is a school wherein they may learn how to examine and get essential facts by a few questions. At times a truthful man will make a clear statement of the facts bearing on a case and tell all he knows There will follow a long series of questions that tend to confuse the witness and obscure the truth. Then when four lawyers insist on speaking on a small case involving little money and not touching the character of the litigants, it is very absurd. What is needed if a Judge who will restrict the time allowed for argument. *lntelligent jurors who are honest are not influenced by these long arguments. The Courts will be congested as long as present methods prevail. If we had sixteen circuits instead of eight the same condition would soon prevail This general appointment of special judges the year round tends to make the office very common.
