the State, and no county in South Carolina would have cause to be ashamed that they represented it.

The whole 5th Circuit must be tumbled upside down on account of that stunning irregularity, some little omission which doubtless never affected the result in the selection of delegates? Mr. Hobbs says that the Executive Committee refused to call another convention. If that proves anything, it is that the Executive Committee didn't see the thing as he does. That being the case, the Edgefield Committee was all wrong and Mr. Hobbs right all over. He now stands in the light of arraigning the body of men who had been vested with the right of doing just what they did do, by the people of Edgefield. To give him a shadow of excuse for the course he has pursued, it would have to be assumed that the proposition is true, that a majority of the Democratic party in Edgefield utterly repudiated the work of the convention. This is necessary to sustain his position, taking his views of the whole case to be correct, and we cannot so take them. It is as plain as A. B. C's that he cannot know what a majority of the Edgefield Democrats decandidate, and disclaim allegiance to any party, the mystery would then be unraveled, but as it is, he has placed bimself in a clueless labyrinth.

We wish it were so that we could have the kindest feeling for Mr. Hobbs, but he must give better reasons for threatening the unity of the Democratic party, before we can get our consent to keep silent.

LIBERTY HALL, October 11, 1880. Dear Dispatch.-The Democrats of this part of the county regret to hear that some of those who are numbered with us are so disappointed in the result of the last primary election, that they propose to run independent candidates. We hope upon sober second thought they will take higher grounds. If they should not, however, we have this consolation, that for the most part they are new converts.
