DOG DAYS.

The dog days are upon us, The hottest of the year; And candidates are looming up, All o'er the district here.

Some are run by "bosses" --Some are stannch and true; And will not yield their manhood, Nor their politics eschew.

Take warning all ye bosses, And list to what we say; Or at our next election, The deuce may be to pay.

The Newspaper in a Farm House.

People who live in the great thoroughfare, where they have access to two or three dailies and a half-dozen weeklies, do not fully as preciate the value of a newspaper. They come indeed, to look upon them as necessities, and they as cheerfully do without their morning meals as their morning mail. A Surprised Minister.

A certain minister had promised a little boy of his that he should accompany him to the church on the following Sabbath. The little fellow, although not quite four years old, was still old enough to remember the promise. But when church time came it happened that he was sound asleep, and his parents went away leaving him in bed. Some time after he awoke, and calling to mind the promise given him, he hurried down stairs only to find his father and mother gone. Determined not to be frustrated in this manner, he made his way into the street, and crossing to where the church stood, emered the open door. The minister at that moment was beginning his sermon. looking up at him called out:
