CONVENTION, OR PRIMARY?

One of our correspondents has expressed the desire to know why the congressmen should not be nominated by Primary Election, if the Primary Election is the best mode of nominating county officers. It would be hard to explain why. Personally, we dislike the Primary Election; or, rather, we dislike the canvass that immediately precedes it. It is a very heavy drain upon the political enthusiasm of the country, and we believe that it provokes ill-feeling between neighbors, and causes private enmities that will last a life-time. In our county the canvass has been altogether too long, and it has not been properly managed—in truth, it has not been managed at all.

While we dislike the Primary Election as a mode of making nominations, we cannot close our eyes to the truth that it is more democratic than the nominating convention, and gives more general satisfaction. We cannot, therefore, oppose it. And we do not hesitate to say, that if the Primary Election is the best thing for county purposes, it is also best for the purpose of making congressional nominations. Recent dead-locks in congressional nominating conventions seem to indicate that the people will have to discard the convention and resort to something else, if they want the nominees to represent their choice. By holding the Primary Elections in the various counties composing a Congressional District, on the same day, the congressman could be nominated without additional trouble.

Artemus Ward said, with quaint drollery, "It would have been ten dollars in Jeff Davis's pocket if he had never been born." Just so. And it would have been ten dollars apiece in the pockets of several of our fellow citizens if they had never entered the primary canvass.

Mr. W. W. Russell, the leader of the Greenbackers in the upper part of the State, is pleased with Aiken's nomination and will support him. He is for Blaine, but has no vote for any one, having failed to register.

A DIFFERENCE.

On the day of his election as Governor of New York, Grover Cleveland wrote a private letter to his brother, in which he used this language:

"The thought that has troubled me is, Can I well perform my duties, and in such a manner as to do some good to the people of the State? I will tell you, first of all others, the policy that I intend to adopt, and that is to make the matter a business engagement between the people of the State and myself, in which the obligation on my side is to perform the duties assigned me with an eye single to the interest of my employers."

That means personal and official integrity; and it means that public office is a public trust. The letter was not intended for the public, and it reveals somewhat of the private character of the man who wrote it.

While James G. Blaine held the important and very influential position of Speaker of the National House of Representatives, he lent his official aid to certain legislation in favor of a railroad in Arkansas. He afterwards wrote private letters to certain men connected with the road in a business way; called to their attention the service that he had done them; and told them that, if they would allow him to participate in the new railroad enterprise, he felt that he would not prove a dead-head, as he "saw various channels in which he could be useful."

That means personal dishonor and official corruption; it means that public office is to be bartered and sold for private gain. It means, in the language of Carl Schurz, "official power offering itself for prostitution to make money." These letters, which were not intended for the public, reveal somewhat of the inner life of "that man from Maine."

WHAT THEY ARE MAKING.

Each of the Railroads in this State has, in common with the business people, felt the exceeding tightness of the times. A comparison of the earnings of the different roads for June '83 and June '84, has been made with the following result: Of the seventeen roads, only four show a trifling gain; one, the Chester and Lenoir, of $1,750, while the Cheraw and Darlington show the small difference of $7. The other thirteen each have fallen short. Our own road, the C. & G, show the considerable shortage of $2,558. The aggregate increase in the whole State is $2,503, and the decrease $28,994. This is a melancholy rendering. We summarize this from that admirable paper, the News & Courier. Those of our readers who are unfamiliar with the names of these roads are informed that they are the Atlanta and Charlotte Air Line, the Ashville and Spartanburg, the Augusta and Knoxville, the Central of South Carolina, the Charleston and Savannah, the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta, the Cheraw and Chester, the Chester and Lenoir, the Cheraw and Darlington, the Cheraw and Salisbury, the Columbia and Greenville, the Laurens, the Northeastern, Port Royal and Augusta, the South Carolina Spartanburg, U. & C., and the Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta.

The Fifth Session of the State Normal Institute, which began its interesting work on the 15th ult., closed its labors last Thursday. The results were satisfying. There were over 200 regular attendants, who gave good heed to the 200 lessons embraced in the 100 hours of instruction. Mr. Mark L. Carlisle and Mr. E. Girardeau Chandler, stood the test of a two days' rigid examination, in order that they might secure their endorsement from the highest authority, for they were already authorized to teach.

The Indianapolis Sentinel is in hot water. It published an attack upon Blaine, in which it assailed the honor and good name of his wife. The man from Maine promptly sued the paper for $50,000 damages. The Sentinel deserves to be kept in hot water. It is bad enough to nose about and unearth private scandals that affect the candidate exclusively, but to invade his home and seek to blight the fair name of his wife is simply infamous.

Good friend, before you fall out with your neighbor because he refuses to vote for your choice, just reflect that it would be as reasonable and proper for him to fall out with you because you refuse to vote for his choice. This is a free country, and no man has a monopoly of civil or political rights and privileges.

JOURNALISTIC.

Mr. James W. Ogilvie, editor and proprietor of the Horry Progress, has engaged Mr. Robert B. Scarborough as assistant editor. Judging from his sensible salutatory. Mr. Scarborough gives promise of a useful career in the ranks of journalism. We wish we had space to quote in full his article, which glistens with brilliant gems of truth and logic. In it he says: "Journalistic life is an attractive one to many; and while we may covet its honors and distinctions, we dread its burdens. Many have arisen to fame and renown through this avenue of life, while many a bright intellect has been eclipsed in the effort to acquire distinction as a 'Knight of the Pen.'" May the Progress progress.

The Sumter Advance has entered upon its fourth volume. It says it "leaves the port most auspiciously for the voyage of another year." One of its editors, Mr. P. E. Parmalee, is known to many in Newberry, where he once lived. We are glad of his success, and hope that he and his co partner, Mr. Darr, may realize their fondest future anticipations. In short, may the Advance advance and have a smooth sail on the journalistic sea, with not a troubled wave to roll across its peaceful breast.

The Columbia Register enters its tenth year with prospects bright and encouraging. It gives us more than a passing thrill of delight to note this fact. If man and paper ever fought bravely under adverse circumstances to secure and maintain a firm establishment, that man and paper are Charles A. Calvo, Jr., and the Columbia Register. They have climbed over almost insurmountable difficulties. Not one man in a hundred would have had the patience, and the perseverance, and the courage that Mr. Calvo has shown. He deserves great praise and hearty support. It is no little work to build up a daily paper. The Register is a better paper now than it has ever been, and we hope it will have increased prosperity.

CARD OF THANKS.

I return my thanks to the citizens of my native County for the generous support given my candidacy for Clerk of Court. Especially do I thank, and feel grateful to, the good ladies of the County for the deep interest they were so kind as to manifest in the success of one whose privilege it has been to serve them in a different field of labor for over a quarter of a century; and I beg to assure all my fellow citizens of Newberry County that it shall be my constant aim and highest ambition, by faithful discharge of duty, to endeavor to deserve the confidence reposed in me by my nomination to the responsible position of Clerk of Court. My Fellow Citizens, grateful to you all for the honor conferred, it shall be my highest ambition to deserve your confidence and esteem, in public as well as in private station.

Respectfully,
J. Y. McFALL.

A RELIGIOUS REIVVAL.

BROOKSVILLE, MISS., Aug. 12, 84

Messrs. Editors: This little town to-day is as quiet as possible after the close of the late revival meeting in the Baptist Church, which was one of uncommon interest, as it exceeded all previous ones in the depth of feeling it excited in the breasts of all kinds of people. Mr. Grey, a young Baptist preacher not known here before, preached every sermon during the meeting of two weeks, two sermons each day, and moved the hearts and consciences of the people as they were never moved before, perhaps; and yet his manner was quiet though earnest, not denunciatory but pleading and persuasive, never once holding forth the terrors of the law and future punishment. His success was most gratifying, as he held the large congregations, composed of all ages and denominations almost suspended by his words. Twenty-three persons were united to the church, some by letter and restoration and eleven by baptism. The rite was administered in the church last night before a very large audience, after an earnest and solemn charge to the converts. The music and singing and the selections were quite good.

The houses of business were closed during the hours of service every day during the second week of the meeting.

On the first Sunday in this month a colored Methodist Bishop, Lane, was invited to preach in the Methodist Church by the pastor at 5 o'clock, p. m. The church was filled mostly with the white people, but the colored people had a limited space allotted to them. The preacher, in some preliminary remarks, modestly deprecated criticism upon the grounds of the want of early education and training of himself as well as the rest of his race, and said he did not presume to be able to edify the white people. His text was Phil. iii: 8. He used good language and was even eloquent towards the last of his sermon. The connection, or logical sequence I suppose I might call it, was very well preserved throughout his sermon.

There has been no rain here for nearly two weeks now, and the farmers would like to have a moderate rain. Yours, S. P.

Our preacher says he could scarcely hear himself preach last Sunday for the hacking, coughing and spitting of the congregation, when a dose of Brewer's Lung Restorer just before going to church would have prevented it. Remember this next Sunday

Aug. 21—1t

The second Primary Election will be held on the second day of September. After that day, we hope that there will be no kickers, mugwumps, no political sore-heads, and, above all, no independents in Newberry County. Let us forget personal preferences and private disagreements, and roll up a handsome majority for the nominees. It was impossible to nominate all the candidates, however anxious we may have been to vote for all.

A FREMONT REPUBLICAN.—Henry C. Bowen, proprietor of the New York Independent, writes to Gov. Cleveland as follows: "I have been a Republican since the Fremont campaign of 1856, and from that day have always voted with my party. Had the late Republican convention at Chicago been wiser in its action I should have remained steadfast in the party. But it has gone astray and I cannot follow in its path. I most sincerely rejoice in your nomination, and assure you that I shall do what I can with voice and pen to secure your election, as I have your nomination."

The Elberton NewSouth says: 'A considerable number of gentlemen from South Carolina have been over on the Georgia side recently for the purpose of purchasing lands. Several fine plantations have been conditionally sold and at low rates. The high price of lands in Anderson, S. C., compared with the prices asked for similar or better quality of land here has become a strong inducement for them to sell out over there and reinvest on the Georgia side.'

Chattanooga claims to have increased a population 20 per cent. in the past twelve months. During this period the tax aggregate increased over $1,000,000, and is now over $6,250,000, having doubled in the past four years.

If Beast Butler remains in the field as a candidate for the Presidency, he will seriously interfere with the Democratic chances. He is a power in New York.

The Japanese have no equivalent for the English word "hell." That's what bothers the Jap in this country when he wants to say how hot it is.

The Southern Exposition.

One of the new features of the Southern Exposition, at Louisville, Ky., will be a Grand Competitive Military Drill, to take place Aug. 26th, 27th and 28th. A level space around which is a circle of seats capable of seating 15,000 persons, has been especially prepared for the Drills. It is known that half a dozen of the crack companies of America will participate, and localities, merit, and friendly rivalry will lend unusual interest to the occasion. The first prize is $3000, second $1,000, third $500, certainly sums worth contending for. The entire State Guard of Kentucky will go into Encampment in honor of these great drills, and it is estimated fully 100,000 persons will witness the...

Another new feature is the introduction of European fireworks furnished expressly for the Southern Exposition by James Paine, of London, the recognized peer of all other manufacturers of fine fireworks. The concluding device of the fireworks display on the night of August 21st will be the Arc de Triomphe and Fois de Boulogne (one hundred and fifty feet in length) as exhibited during the Fetes of the Emperor, and is said to be the most successful device ever displayed in Europe.

The famous device of the Sacred White Elephant will be produced on the same night on a grand scale. The huge beast will walk with natural and life like movements across the grounds.

Among the many other devices selected for the same night are the Falls of Niagara (thirty feet long) and the Fiery Dragons, which move along the ground. After the grand final device will be a flight of two hundred and fifty of the largest size rockets made. Each of the ten displays to be given by Paine, will terminate with a final device, already in preparation are colossal fire portraits (size fifty by thirty feet) of the Presidential candidates and of local celebrities. A grand naval combat (size of vessels one hundred and thirty feet), the Temple of Fame, at Athens, changing to the abode of Pluto, taken from designs in the British Museum, the Bombardment of Alexandria, etc., will be shown.

The display will be given at the south end of the building on the space formerly occupied by the cotton field and seats are in position capable of seating 15,000 people. A large iron mast is now being erected in the center of the field, and will illuminate all the surrounding country. The lights on the same are so arranged that they can be immediately extinguished by a switch in the building, thus securing instant and perfect darkness for the fireworks displays.

For the Campaign for 50 Cents.

To bring THE WEEKLY NEWS within the reach of everybody, it will be furnished free of postage, to all subscribers, from this date until January 1st, 1885, for fifty cents, cash in advance.

Fifty-cent subscriptions can be sent in at anytime, but will, in every case, expire on New Year's day, 1885, as the fifty-cent campaign rate is intended for the special benefit of the people during the Presidential canvass, and to get them in the habit of reading the best weekly newspaper in the South.

THE WEEKLY NEWS will be enlarged shortly to twelve pages. It is unequaled in value to Southern readers, and should be read with avidity by all persons who want to know what is said and done in the South in an election year. There is "no North, no South" in the scheme, and subscriptions from Maine and Michigan will be as welcome as subscriptions from Tennessee and Texas.

The series of sketches entitled "Our Women in the War," a History of the War as seen by Southern women, will be continued for about a year.

In fine, THE WEEKLY NEWS is many papers in one. It is a Story paper, a Political paper, a Chess paper, a Fireside fun—and—fancy paper, above all, a Straight-out Democratic newspaper, devoted to the cause of reform.

Fifty cents from date to January, 1885. No commissions will be allowed on this campaign rate, but the cost of transmission may be deducted.
