WASHINGTON, May 5 .- In the Senate, to-day, a resolution was adopted, asking information about measures taken to secure indemnity for the recent outrages at Tampico. The Oregon State Bill was discussed. The original resolution authorizing eral Appropriation bill was debated on, WASHINGTON, May 6.—In the Senate, to-day, the repeal of the Fishing Bounty was discussed, and a bill to establish the Mexican boundary was reported.

The House passed the Logislative Executive Judicial Appropriation bill. The resolution abrogating the Clayton Bulwer Treaty passed to its third reading by a vote of 97 to 86.

The Minnesota bill discussion was re-

WASHINGTON, May 8 .- SENATE .- The Senate is crowded to excess.

Mr. Hammond pronounced a brief eulo-

He said the arrows of death had entered often of late among the high places of honor within his own state. He offered the usual resolution, requesting sonators to wear crape on the left arm for thirty days, and to attend the funeral of Mr. Evans. Mr. Benjamin followed in a strain of elequent eulogy. He spoke of the deaths of Mr. Butler, Governor Hamilton, (who was drowned) and the deceased,

Mr. Hale fellowed, saying it was not often he mingled his voice with those who delivered funeral culogies. He then paid a high tribute to the character of Mr. Evans, who, he said, reminded him of his ideal of a Roman senator. Like a shock of corn fully ripe, he had been gathered from these scenes and had sank down full of honors.

Mr. Wilson next added his tribute to the virtues and character of the deceased, saying his long association with him in committee brought out the beautiful qualities and traits that he was possessor of, and which he (Wilson) could appreciate more fully than in open Senate.

The Senate here took a recess until the hour of the funeral, two o'clock. House. -The House, on meeting, took a recess until one o'clock, when a message was received from the Scuate announcing the death of Senator Evans. Mr. McQueen delivered a culogy on the public and private character of the deceased. Mr. Bocock, at the request of the South Carolina delegation, also bere his testimony in a feeling and touching speech, to the vir-

The usual resolutions of respect were then adopted, when the House adjourned to attend the funeral.

The Occupation of Mexico.

The attention that the thinking minds of our country is bestowing upon the subject, the Richmond South republishes a letter from Gen. Worth, in which he proposed occupation at the time of the war. The following was his plan, suggested to Gov. Marcy, who was at the time Secretary

"The details of occupation are comparatively unimportant. I mean by occupation, permanent conquest and future annexation Harmonize the occupation with our system ments, appoint civil Governors, and go protracted drinking spree. Through all the other ceremonics which we racticed with regard to the formation of Territories, and their subsequent admission into the Union as States. Each of these might be constituted into a military district and assigned-subject to civil ruleto competent military officers to aid the terri government in the execution of the laws and the preservation of order. Forty thousand men would be sufficient for this purpose, to be supported by the country occupied, and it can be demonstrated - applying our admirable system of accountability and administration in financial affairs -that so far from imposing burdens, it would lighten those under which these people now groan, fifty per cent. Under their system, or the want of it, notoriously seventy-five of every hundred dollars, received through the customs, and other innumerable sources of taxation, goes into the pockets of the vagrant military, or other equally vogrant employees. In the next generation the military might be withdrawn. The advantages flowing to the Mexican people, as well as to ourselves, from this ultimate incorporation, in everything which concerns security of person, property and the prosperity of commerce, are too obvious to invite comment."

How would it have affected our own interests? What an amount of patronage it would have placed in the hands of the Government? What an immense army it would have required? Then, in this vast amount of territory, we would have conflicting interests. Civil wars would probably result. Some ambitious General, availing himself of home troubles, would seek and obtain a pronunciamento in his favor, mid like some Roman pro-consul struggling for the imperial purple, would gather his pro-vincial forces, enter the country, with the approval of some party, and seize the reins of government. It seems to us that our

the President to employ necessary force to obtain justice from Paraguay, passed by a re informed that Mr. Jones, contractor of yoth of twenty-five to fifteen. The work on the Blue Ridge Railroad in In the House, the French Spoliation Bill way, and has commenced arching it. was again introduced. Central American affairs were discussed. The Minnesota bill making good progress with the Stump was postponed until to morrow. The Gen House Tunnel, ("Mammoth Tunnel,") and it is confidently believed by some of the "far seeing ones," that this, the ne plus ul-tra of Southern Tunnels, and the great "hobby horse" the opposition party have rode so hard, and to so little profit, will be completed before the cars reach Walhalla. We have understood (but we cannot affirm it to be true) that the contractors of this job have said that if the Railroad Company should fail to got money enough to com-plete the job, that they have the available means, and that the job shall be completed at as early a day as possible. We are informed that the contractors along the line are men of energy and determination, and gium upon Mr. Evans, narrating the history are well calculated to get through the work of his life and the circumstances attending with as much scientific skill and dispatch as any set of men in the Union.

ACQUITTAL IN KENTUCKY.-The trial of Hardesty for the shooting of Grubb, occupied three days of last week at Burlington, Boone county, Ky. It will be remem-bered that a sister of Hardesty was seduced by Grubb, and that Hardesty told the seducer that he would give him six months in which to make his choice between marrying the girl and being killed. The six months expired, and Grubb not having married the girl, Hardesty met him, and on sight shot him. The evidence showed that Grubb was armed also, in expectation of the attack, but was shot in the act of drawing his weapon. The trial was ended last Thursday, and the verdict of the jury was not guilty. The following is the substance of the judgment pronounced by Judge Nutall upon the verdict of the jury in behalf of Hardesty: "Sir:-You have been indicted by grand jury of your country upon a most heinous charge. You have put yourself upon your country and your God for deliverance. You have had a fair and impartial trial before them, and they have both pronounced you not guilty, and so say I. may not be proper for me to express my sentiments, yet, nevertheless, I will do it. Young man! had I been wronged as you bave been, I would have spent every dollar I had on earth, and all that I could have begged and borrowed, and then starved upon the track of the villain, but I would have imbrued my hands in his blood. Go hence without delay. You are acquitted."

DUEL IN NEW ORLEANS .- The Sunday Delta says: A meeting took place on 1st May, at 10 o'clock, upon the Metairie Ridge, just below the Half-Way House, between Messrs. T. S. McCay and M. C. Edwards. The weapons used were double barreled guns, loaded with ball; the distance forty pages. Four shots were ex-changed. Mr. McCay, on the fourth fire, received the ball of his adversary in the left leg, below the knee. The parties theu left the field. Mr. McCay's wound is slight.

I never felt more solern than I did on Monday.— It seemed to me as if God was speaking in the storm, and admonishing us against the star of the land. Think you, that God does not deal with us as he did with the children of Israel? I believe that he does, and that bi warnings are every day in the land, but a heed them not, and we are rushing on to disunion and anarchy, and to the overturning of the best government which God ever gave to man. The Northern fanatical fury is likely to have the effeet of bringing ruin down upon themselves and others.

The Christian Soldier. - -

The life and example of a good man should never be lost to his follow-men. On the contrary, they should be held up before the eyes of the word for instruction and imitation. - In this way the good and great, The plan suggested is a very bold one. It is such a one as we might expect from a soldier. So far as Mexico is concerned, it may have resulte! favorably to her interests. But that is not the only consideration.—How would it have affected our own inter-Christian."

The profession of arms has seldon bee so beautifully adorned and so nobly illus trated as it was by Havelock. His whole life exhibits service to God and duty to his country, and deserves to be held in grateful memory by men of every country. His fame, it is true, belongs to England, but

On the battle fields of India, he bore himself gullantly, and his escutcheen, ever pure and bright, even in his long, varied, vincial forces, enter the country, with the approval of some party, and seize the roins of government. It seems so as what our Government is purely one of peace. When our army reaches a size to dare to sttempt interference in our Government affaire, military factions will arise, and under the popular enthusiasse which military cenius everywhere excites, particularly in America, will entirely subvert our form of government. Leave Mexico to time. Let us bewart of the folly of attempting to save a decided and bright, even in his long, varied, trying and eventful life, was never stained by an act of dishonor. He need his end with Christian calmassa, and the peace of God shad its blessed influences over his last moments. To use his own language: "For more than forty years I have so railed my life that when death came I might face it without feer." And when at last he felt that his hour had come, no "test d'armee" hurst from his dying lips, but said he to his son, "Come, my son, and see how a Christian calmassa, and the peace of God shad its blessed influences over his last moments. To use his own language: "For more than forty years I have so railed my life that when death came I might face it without feer." And when at last he felt that his hour had come, no "test d'armee" hurst from his dying lips, but said he to his son, "Come, my son, and see how a Christian calmassa.

But we must bring this article to a close. Our object has been to direct public attention to the life of a Christian soldier. His mission was a high one. For Havelock, as for our own Washington, it was reserved to show how the faithful soldier of his country may also be the faithful soldier of Christ-how the conqueror of princes and armies may achieve the still greater conquest of himself-how the victor of a hundred battles may become the still greater victor over death. Most truly and forcibly has his reverend biographer said, in the closing pages of his volume :

"HAVELOCK SPEAKS, AND HE SAYS THAT WHATEVER A MAN'S SECULAR AC-TIVITIES, HE OUGHT TO FEAR GOD." [South Carolinian.

ARCHDEACON JEFFRIES, a missionary in the East Indies, states that for one really converted Christian as the fruit of the missionary labor, the drinking practice of the English have made fully one thousand drunkards in India.
