Green & Walsh for 1871. Our planting friends, we know, will apprece the liberal prepositions contained in the advertisement of Meesrs. GREEN & WALSE for 1871, published on another column. This enterprising house, sympathising fully wish the difficulties which beset the farmer and planter, (the basis of all prosperity) come forward promptly with measures of relief for the erop year upon which generous and might we not say, patriotic propositions. The planters and farmers of the country must be encouraged and metalized, and they, in turn, must stand faithfully to their contracts,-Mutual confidence should at all hazards be proserved and sustained, for in this alone may mu-tual help be realized, in these times of difficulty, which we here with pleasure allude, and we true it may be the spirit of all.

Pain is supposed to be the lot of as poor mor-tale, as inevitable as death itself and liable at any time to come upon us. Therefore it is im-portant that remedial agents should be at hand portant that remedial egents should be at hand to be used on an emergency, when the seminal principle ledged in the system shall develope itself, and we feel the excruciating agonies of pain, or the depressing influence of disease.—Such a remedial secretarists in the Pain Examp, whose fame has made the circuit of the globe.—Amid the sternal less of the poster regions or beneath the intolerable and burning sun of the tropics, its virtues are known and appreciated. Under all latitudes, from the one extreme to the other, suffering humanity has found relief from many of its like by its use. The wide and broad area over which this medicine has spread, attasts its withe and potency. From a small beginning, the Pain Killer has pushed gradually along, making its own highway, solely by its virtues. Such unexampled success and popularity has brought others into the field, who have attempted, under similarity of name, to usure the confidence brought others into the field, who have attempted, under similarity of name, to usure the confidence of the people and tarn it to their own selfishness and dishonesty, but their efforts have proved ruttless, while the Pain Killer is still growing in public favor.
