Devoted to Agnientture, Fortigulture, Domestin Cconomn.

Tite Titerature, Politics, and the Aurrent News of the Bay.

UNION TIMES

TIME TO ME.

Time to me this truth hath taught,

'Tis a truth that's worth revealing: More offend from want of thought,

Than from any want of feeling.

If advice we would convey, There's a time we should convey it;

If we've but a word to say, There's a time in which to say it !

Many a beautious flower decays,

Though we tend it e'er so much : Something secret on it preys, Which no human aid can touch !

So, in many a loving breast, runs & Word, or accent wrong,

Pains the heart almost to breaking.

Many a tear of wounded pride, Many a fault of human blindness, Had been soothed, or turned aside,

Time to me this truth hath taught, 'Tis a truth that's worth revealing;

More offend from want of thought, Than from any want of feeling:

By a quiet voice of kindness !

UNION C. H., SOUTH CAROLINA, APRIL 20, 1877.

insurance unknown.

sult.

TERRIBLE HOLOCAUST.

LETTER FROM HON. D. WYATT ALKEN. COKESBURY, S. C., April 9, 1877. Messrs. Hoyt & Co., Anderson, S. C. GENTLEMEN-Your note of the 6th inst.

was received Saturday afternoon, and as requested I reply at once.

You write me thus: Give us for publica tion your views as to President Hayes Southern policy ; whether it is proper that Democrats should seek or accept office at his hands, and what will probably be the result upon the destiny of the two National parties from this change in policy by the Republican party ?"

At present it is difficult to define President Hayes' Southern policy, but as the latter portion of your inquiry implies that, by consent of party, he will assume a conciliatory policy towards the South, I think we should unhesitatingly accept every Federal appointment profered us country does not belong to the Republican party, neither should any of these National ap-pointments be construed to be partisan pre-ferences. I imagine a United States District Attorney in the South nowhere finds Republican rather than Democratic laws to be administered, because, forsooth, he holds office by the will of a Republican President. Neither does a collector of the ports at the South recognize any thing peculiarly Republican, rather than Democratic, in his revenue collections because a Republican guards the threshold of our National treasury .--For the same reason I can see no partisanship in the office of post master, or mail agent, or any other strictly National appointment.

If in accepting an appointment a Southerner (Dem.) were required to compromise in any way his political creed, of course he should reject the proffered position. For this reason I regretted to see a Southern man, regarded as a Southern Democrat, go into the Cabinet. Not that he would compromise the South, but because he would of necessity be a mere figure-head, or become identified with the administration in party feelings The Cabinet are the President's counsellors, and should be in sympathy with him in all his political views. His Southeru appointes are agents paid for doing ser-vice to our common country, unbiased by party exactions, and in the case of Demo-oratic appointees unswerved by party affiliation.

I believe President Hayes received his office through fraud, but I am far from believing that he is himself a fraud. And what effect his policy (which seems to foreshadow that of the wrong man in the right shadow that of the wrong man in the right place) may have upon the two National par-ties, I am unable to foresee. Should it shatter both of them throughow the North it would be a God send to the South. We for the remainder of the fiscal year; and all the send to the South. We for the remainder of the fiscal year; and all the send to the South. We for the remainder of the fiscal year; and all the send to the South. We for the remainder of the fiscal year; and all the send to the South. We for the remainder of the fiscal year; and all the send to the se a under no oblig erably corrupt and anti-Southern to the core. True, we have hosts of friends at the North. but we have more enemies, and as many of either can be found among the Democrats as among the Republicans. None of them believe that we have accepted in good faith the Amendments to the Constitution, and they have a mistrust as to our loyalty to the Union, which can never be obliterated but by time.

I have ever found more congeniality amongst Northern Republicans than with Northern Democrats, and I believe an avercan or peculiarly Democratic in the platform of either party North to-day. But establish confidence between the races at the South, and at once a platform of principles will be promulgated by parties North, bidding for Southern co-operation, and we will then have the privilege of choosing the lesser evil, for I have no idea that during this generation any National party North will consent to a platform entirely acceptable to the South.

THE WEEKLY

Trusting that I have been at least sufficiently explicit to show you exactly my position upon the inquiries you propoundcd, I am, gentlemen, with much esteem, Your obedient servant, D. WYATT AIKEN.

ON THE BIGHT TRACK.

WASHINGTON, April 7 -The following to the United States District Attorneys by son of the former Minister to Brazil, was the Attorney-General to be sent on Monday: Sir: As I enter upon my official dutics I find that the appropriation for the expenses of the United States Courts for this fiscal year is rapidly approaching exhaustion, and that Congress denied all the applications that were made by my predecessor for an increased sum to bear these expenses, the duty is thus forced upon the officers of this Department to retrench all possible expenses.

To a great extent the attorneys of the United States are responsible for the expenses incurred, and naturally the call is made upon them to stop all expenses that can with propriety be stopped. I urge upon you the exercise of extreme caution and economy. There is nearly a full quarter of the fiscal year still to run, during which time expenses must be kept to a minimum point. I hope to have your hearty co-ope-ration in the work. Your discretion and economy will be shown in the subposning of those witnesses only who are important and necessary to a case; in holding them only so long as they are needed; in setting for trial none but important cases; those which the course of justica and the interests of Government absolutely require to be tried; in dismissing, by advice of the court, the petit juries at an early day, and in urging upon the grand juries but a short session ; select very few cases for trial, those only best supported by evidence, and in which all legal questions are likely to arise; the other cases should be allowed to lie over, the parties not being discharged.

As far as lies in your power the trials be-were advised a month ago. Knowing this you will be forewarned in ample time to avoid the contracting of expenses that cannot be paid.

CHARLES DEVENS, Attorney General.

windows in the upper stories were crowded with shricking men and women, whom it seemed impossible to save. A few were rescued by ladders placed on Fourth street portico, but on the other three sides of the building, bounded by Fifth, Walnut and Film stacking the windows. Mr. Peter Blow, sleeping in his room on the sixth floor, and ucceeded, after strenuous exertions, in escaping with his life and a broken arm .---The building was six stories in height, and Mr. Blow thinks that the majority of inmates of the two upper stories of the building must have perished. Two men unrecognized were killed by jumping from the third story windows, and a third one was badly mangled. Five women were rescued from the sixth story on the Fourth street side by the heroic efforts of firemen, who, after ascending the patent ladders, succeeded in getting a rope to the half suffocated creatures. It is supposed from forty to fifty were burned to death directly, or first suffocated. The fire originated in the store room in the basement. It first came through the ground floor, north of the office, ascended the elevators and rotunda and spread over the sixth story, occupied by employees, mostly women. The smoke was so dense in some of the halls that the gas jets were extinguished, which rendered egrees, even to those most familiar with the building, a matter of great difficulty. The density of the smoke in the halls drove many guests the women and children, with nothing but, their night clothes on, were thus taken from the burning building. Some, frinted from fright, and others sank exhausted to the ground from nervous prostration. The lad-ders generally were too short to reach to the fifth and sixth stories, but by hoisting some of them on the one-story balcony on the east side and the two-story balcony on the north side of the building, these floors were possible way economy must be enforced upon the officials. I call your attention the cir-cular issued on this head by my predeces-sor, and reiterating their injunctions. I add that no money will be furnished to the marshals to conduct the business of the courts beyond the amounts of which they were advised a month ago. Knowing this of saving many lives. While this save others. Philip Gerald, a boarder at the hote, was brought out alive, but en-DETAILS OF A FEARFUL CONFLAGRATION. tirely beeft of reason. At a quarter-past Sr. Louis, April 11 .- The Southern 2. or about half an hour after the fire was Hotel was burned at 2 o'clock this morning. discovered, the entire roof was ablaze, and Appalling loss of life, which was at first the flames were rapidly descending to the lower stories. A half hour later the floors and interor walls began to fall. The roof supposed to be 200, but is now reduced to 50. Many were killed jumping from the third, fourth and fifth story windows. Kate fell in. There is now nothing left of one the fines hotels in the country, except the Claxton, the actress, who so narrowly es-caped from the Brooklyn horror, brokeboth Walnut treet front and parts of Fourth legs jumping from the third story. The fire originated in the upper stories. The and Fifth street faces. Loss on the building and contents from $75,000 to $100,000;

THE GREAT WALKING MATCH.

Lies some canker-grief concealed, That, if touch'd is more oppressed, Left unto itself—is healed. O'Leary's Victory-500 Miles in 144 Hours-The Western Champion Wins. Oft, unknowingly, the tongue

Inaten beeween. Edward Payson Weston of New York and Daniel O'Leary of Chicago, ended at Agricultural Hall at 12 o'clock tonight. The pedestrians started last Sunday at midnight to walk six days (144 hours) for a wager of £2,000, or $10,000 gold .-Owing to the backers of the men being prominent noblemen, great interest was mani fested in the affair, and thousands of pounds have been wagered by all classes on the re-

A VICIOUS FISH-Right whales frequent y find their way into the Bay of Fundy, At the start Weston was the favorite at and are there captured. The bay is also a 5 to 1, but after the first 48 hours walking. favorite resort for the thrasher and the the odds fell slightly, O'Leary having obswordfish. I have heard old coasters say tained a lead of 15 miles. In the first, 48 that they had seen thrashers forty-five and hours Weston covered 179 miles, seven fifty feet long, moving with great velocity on miles more than in his contest with O'Leary the surface of the water, their heads raised in America, and O'Leary covered 196 miles, beating his record in America by six miles. On Wednesday O'Leary covered 98 miles and Weston 96. In 72 hours Weston had walked 32 miles further than he did in his contest in America, while O'Leary had beaten his previous performance by 23 miles. On Thursday, the terrific pace O'Leary had kept, told against him, and betting advanced on Weston. Odds of 100 to 70 pounds being offered in his favor. 'O'Leary now began to complain of dizziness and finally left the track for several hours

Thus encouraged Weston increased his pace and was soon on even terms with a dewided lead and was several miles ahead .--After the first 84 hours walking, Weston was eight miles ahead, but O'Leary, who had recovered, started in and did such fast walking that he was greeted with tremendous cheers. On the fourth day Weston covered 98 miles to 76 for O'Leary; in the 96 hours O'Leary had completed 370 miles and Weston 373. Weston had beaten his record with O'Leary in America by 69 miles, while O'Leary had beaten is own record by 20 miles infles. The brilliant records of both men and the context, and attracted an immense multitude to bliggton and encouraged by the presence of thursday of spectators, O'Leary exer-ted himself to cut down Weston's lead, and by Friday morning had accomplished a total of Allo wiles. Weston hours 17 miles of 410 miles, Weston being then 17 miles behind, having stopped to rest at 390 miles. All day yesterday the rush into Agricultural Hall was tremendous. O'Leary still garding the fact that it did not reach more than twenty feet, he let himself down hand than twenty feet, he let himself down hand over hand. Those below, who saw his po-sition, turned away their faces to avoid wit-nessing the sickening event that was inev-itable. Finally he reached the end of the below and the below and below an the water in the vicinity being red with blood. About every fifteen or twenty min-which Myer's charger, ridden by himself, only accomplished 66 miles Friday, making his total for the five days 439 miles, beating blood. About every fifteen or twenty minhis five days American record 39 miles .utes the whale would disappear in an attempt O'Leary covered 83 miles, giving him a toto escape from his enemies ; but they would quick!y pursue him and force him to the tal of 453 miles, and beating his record for five days in America by 33 miles. To-day surface, where the combat would be rethe hall was packed with a surging throng newed. and cheering was incessant. Both contes-These two sea villains, the swordfish and tants struggled gamely, and Weston spurted thrasher, invariably kill the whale when frequently to avercome his opponent's adthey get him into close quarters; and as vantage. O'Leary's backers were jubilant and offered lon codds on him, with no ta-kers. At 1 o'dock, O'Leary had accom-plished 492 miles, and Weston 477 miles. soon as the combat ceases, which can be clearly seen by the whale's body floating, motionless, the thrasher will proceed to clear water, where, raising his serpent-like head During the afternoon Weston rested two in triumph, ten, twelve and fifteen feet above the surface, he will continue for fifteen and sometimes twenty minutes lashing the sea into a foam.

NUMBER 15.

A PACING RACE.

From 1830 to about 1848 there used to trade in stock to South Carolina a Kentuckian named Wm. Myers, commonly, and by himself, called Bill Myers. During the last years of his trading he made Abbeville one of his points. He was a jolly and rollicking fellow, and besides those looking to his coming for a fine horse or a pair of them, his arrival was hailed with joy by the 'boys,' for he was 'one of them,' although in his last visits he had reached over his fifty birthdays by several. He was full of jokes and stories, telling them well and without, at all times, special regard to truth ; so that he secured the title and auswered to it of 'lying Bill Myers.' He used to tell of his first introduc-His first visit was in 1830 during the height and excitement of nullification. He was at home a Henry Clay Whig, but in South Carolina abroad he was like St. Paul-'all things to all men' to advance his cause (to wit, selling fine stock.) He supposed from his reading that South Carolinians were all Nullifiers and he came down to be for a season one of them. He crossed over the Soluda Gap and his first stoppage was at Hodges, where he found a crowd, and raising his hat he sang out, 'hurra for Nullification,' and the first he knew a huge fellow bawled 'hooray, for Ben Perry and the Union,' and struck him. He got out by 'explaining' from a severe thrashing. He concluded he had got the wrong end of the story, and prepared to correct himself at ouce. Going down into Laureus he came upon a cross-roads store and grocery where he found a crowd assembled, and alighting and walking in to the 'wet' and he shouted raising his hat : 'hurra for Lleury Clay and the Union,' which brought in front of him a flinty little fellow muttering between his teeth, 'whee ray for Jim Yarby and nullification and dang your buttons,' and gave him a dig under the short ribs. Quite astonished again he asked leave to make an explanation, which was that he 'was a Nullifier all over,' and which he confirmed by a treat to all such. After these two lessons he never developed his political status until he had sounded the ocality and then he fell in with the majority, looking well always to his personal safety. Myers dealt only in the finest stock and his sustomers were the aristocracy who always had opinions. He always had fine pacers and trotters, and to introduce them he was neither averse nor afraid to stake a little on hem. About 1843 he brought with others a pacer for which he asked $300 (and I think sold him for that to John Campbell Martin) and challenged with himy for a pace Abbeville. The challenge was accepted for fifty yards by two nabobs and patrons of the 'short turf' from upper Trickem, one of was Eli Jenkins Davis, a prince of that realm, with the privilege of substituting a pacer with two legs and two arms, a hugo fellow with bare feet and coperas breeches, named George Washington Scoggins, present. The gallant Kentuckian 'did'nt want a safer bet.' The stake was $25 on each side and would have been any higher amount the Trickemites could have borrowed.---They piled all they had or could get. The ground was measured in the flat on the Anderson road above Judge Wardlaw's. At the signal Scoggins struck on his hands

ten and twelve feet above. Bay of Fundy fishermen, in speaking of them, say they are the greatest of sea villains. Twenty odd years ago one of these sea monsters got caught on a sandbar, where he was left by the rapid falling of the tide in the Cumberland branch of the Bay of Fundy, and was killed by the people on shore after an exciting struggle. He measured forty-six feet in length. As Capt. Nemo says, the head is flat and serpent-like, the eyes almost red. with ugly white circles over them. Indeed, nothing could be more repulsive than the head of this sea monster. The only other sea villain they are known to fraternize witl is the swordfish. Both are well known to old coasters and fishermen as the deadly enemy of the whale ; and it is the common belief that they hunt ir couples, and on find ing the whale make immediate war,' the swordfish attacking beneath and the thrasher on top.

The common belief is that the thrasher has a huge weapon, very like a sledge hammer, protruding from his mouth, with which he administers on the whale's back those terrible blows you can hear ten or twelve verlooking the Bay of Fundy, and witnessed three of these terrible battles between a whale and his enemies, the swordfish and the thrasher. The swordfish did his deadly work underneath, while, as Capt: Neme says. the thrasher coiled himself half over the whale, and applied the blows with his pon-derous tail. In the distance, however, the thrasher seems to raise and let his weapon fall very much as a blacksmith's helper handles his sledge. You could see the weapon rise and fall; you could hear the blows disage representative of the Republican party North is more nearly akin in feelings, sentiment and thought to a Southern Democrat than a similar representative Northern Democrat. Carpet-baggers, scallawags and negro politicians belong to neither party by any kind of political right. They are mere barnacles that have befouled the Republican party. Once rubbed off, they will sink in the slough of contempt, to be forgotten, but not forgiven.

No hencet man, unless totally ignorant (as most Northern men are) of Southern fairs, can for a moment believe that, upon principle, Mr. Hayes can maintain himself is office and recognize the Nicholls government in Louisiana. The very same fraud that placed him in the Presidential chair would install Packard Governor. And yet we know that the very political existence of that State depends upon the installation of General Nicholls as Governor. Sooner or later Mr. Hayes must see this, and must inevitably recognize the Nicholls governinevitably recognize the Nicholls govern-ment. When this is done, the South will be a political unit. If, then, the Southern dience say "of course, but why didn't we States so legislate as to convince the colored population that the laws recognize no distinction on account of color or race, there will, in my judgment, be a political revo-lution throughout the North in less than four years as potent for good to the South as was that between 1861 and 1865 for evil to our distressed country. Not that there will be war again-far from it; for the recent presidential election proved that Northern Democrats will not fight Northern Republicans, however willing either party might be to fight Southerners. But in that event parties at the North will be so divided, and so clamorous for Southern patronage, that the South need only stand firm and united, and she will hold a balance of power that will be effective in restoring this Government to its wonted purity, and the people to prosperity. Prior to the war the leaders at the North, both civil and military, were Democratic, and every Confederate soldier knows that the Southern armies met no reverses until the ranks of the Federal army were recruited with Democrats. Floating upon the tide of military success the Democratic and tide of military success the Democratic and Republican leaders embraced each other, abandoned the distinctive principle sof their former parties, and amalgamating elements from both produced a party whose shib-boleth was "down with Southern Reb," "up with the nigger," and "hurrah for the best Government the world ever saw." Crush out these ideas, and the identity of the parties North are, in my opinion, destroyed --There is no principle peculiarly Republi-

HAMPTON'S PHOTOGRAPH.

Hampton, like the great Lee, is remarkable for the strength and perfect symmetry of the man, morally and physically. His speech, without ornament or effort, is exactly his thought. So simple and so truthfal, that the honest man reads it as a child reads the smile of its mother. The man speaks, the whole man, heart, soul and mind speaks, the whole man, heart, soul and mind speaks—speaks the truth, nothing but the truth, and polyady doubts is That is Hamp-tom the second and that was Washington. Perhaps no high natural gift of Washing-ton, or Lee, or Hampton can be properly called transcendent; but the symmetry of the whole man—the simple beauty and never of the perfect perpendence combined power of the perfect proportions combined, is what constitutes this type of man. Like the greatest inventions in machinery, it is so simple that every man understands it as soon as he sees it, and wonders he hadn't discov-ered it long ago ! That is Hampton ! He talks just like any common man, in a plain see it in that light long ago ?'

It has over been so with the greatest men of the ages. It is the power of truth which distinguishes the great man from the charlatan. Good, hard, common, horse sense, and undaunted courage in thought, word and action-in the discovery of truth in the utterance of the truth, and in the execution of his purposes according to truth-distinguishes Wade Hampton from his opponents in this great crisis.

Read his speech ! So simple that a child can understand it; so courteous that the President must feel its power ; so kind and just, that the colored man accepts it ; so true that the arch fiend himself can neither deny or resist it; so plain and practicable that the young men of the country will bow in acquiescence to its wise counsel.-Greenville News.

RIDICULE .- Remember that the talent of turning people to ridicule, and exposing to laughter those one converses with is the gratification of small minds and ungenerous tempers. A young person with this cast of mind cuts himself off-from all manner ot rope, and then, for the first time, he seemed to realize his position. He stopped, threw his head back, revealing a gastly face, and swung slowly to and fro, swayed by the breeze which the roaring flames above created. His limbs swung around convulsive ly, as though to catch upon something ; then he let go, and groans went up from hundreds as he whirled round and round and finally struck on the stone flagging with a sickening thud. He was carried to a saloon across the street and died in a few minutes. I wo other men jumped from the fourth story window-one of whom seemed not to be dangerously hurt.

Stanley Creek, from which he made 6,500 shingles, 150 rails, 50 loads of wood, and there still remains about twenty feet of the huge trunk lying where it the The stump measured four feet nine ind the diameter. and the "rings" marked about 160 years' growth.

LATER .- The fre engines are still playing on the fire. A force has been organ-ized to search for the dead bodies, and several bodies have been taken from the ruins in a more or less burned condition, but have not yet been identified. Also, several dead bodies are at the morgue awaiting identification. Mrs. Moran, a servant, was killed by jumping from a window. George Frank Goudy, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Free Masons of Missouri, is supposed to have perished. Six persons, whose names are unknown, were killed, either by jumping from the windows or were suffoca ted by smoke, and dragged out of the burning building. It is difficult to procure the names of the dead, but it is hoped a complete, or nearly complete, list will be obtained this afternoon. Sidmore Hayden, superintendent of the American Express stables s among the killed ; also Henry Hazen deputy auditor of the Missouri Pacific Rail Company. An Englishman named Adams, said to be a commissioner of education, was identified at the morgue. 'A woman at a fifth story window on Fifth street front became panic stricken, jumped out, alighted on her feet, was carried to St. James Hotel, and is still alive Her husband, who had been standing by her side, then descended by a rope made of bedding. A man named J. E. Wilson jumped from a fourth story window and was killed. Androw Ensmen and Mrs. Scott met their dealers same way. The mortality among the female help of the hotel was great. There were 200 of them, mind outs himself of from all manner of hotel was great. There were 200 of them, all of whom were lodged in the upper story of the building. The panic among them of the building. The panic among them was perfectly terrible. A number jumped from the upper window on Elm street, on from the upper window on Elm street, on Kate Claston. the rear side of the house. Kate Claxton. the actress had another escape, but was uninjured. Among the known saved was H. Kretz, of Texas. Dr. Gorlaet, the German Consul, jumped from a window and broke a leg. His wife was unhurt. Chas. Teenan lost his life while attempting to ly is nothing in it."

ho irs and a half and was almost exhausted. At 3 P. M., O'Leary completed 500 miles, and was then 21 miles ahead of Weston.---

The announcement of the completion of the five hundreth mile was greeted with deafening cheers, and it was almost impossible to restrain the excited crowd from rushing on he track to greet and congratulate the plucky pedestrian. This is the fastest walkng on record.

A LINE TO BUSINESS MEN .- Don't wait for business to wake up, but wake it up. Don't sit down to wait for business, busiess will sit down to wait for you.

Dou't wait for brisk times to advertise, or then you will not need the help of advertising. Don't think your last year's advertising sufficient, for your customers may conclude you expired with the old year.

Don't become disgusted with business or business may become disgusted with you. Don't think because you know where you do business, and what you keep to sell, that all the world knows it as well. Don't go out to see what your advertising neighbor is doing, for if you do you may conclude to spend a little money in advertising yourself.

Don't advertise, for if you do you might have to employ another clerk, and that would be an additional expense and an injury to the community.

Curran was once addressing a jury, when the jadge, who was thought to be antagonis-tic to his client, intimated his dissent from the arguments advanced by a shake of his head. "I see, gentlemen," said Curran, "I see the motion of his lordship's head. Persons unacquainted with his lordship would be apt to think this implied a difference of opinion; but be assured, gentlemen, this is not the case. When you know his lordship as well as I do, it will be unnecessary to tell you that when he shakes his head there real-MAGPIES .- A magpie was in the habit of hiding bits of food, not immediately wanted, in some long grass at the bottom of a row of iron hurdles. This hoard was discov-ered, and often robbed, by a favorite terrier. One morning Mag was observed in great ex-citement, hopping and chattering incessantly, rapidly repeating every word in his vo cabulary at the dog, who was busily engaged in rifling the storehouse. In his search, however, he passed over a tuft of grass in which a picce of beef was concealed ; Mag was at the spot in an instant, drew forth the treasure, and securely fixed it on the highest bar of the hurdles, far above the dog's reach. He then, at a little distance, began pluming his feathers, chattering to himself with a very self-satisfied air, and occasionally hopping back to take another look at his recov ered meat, evidently priding himself in his skill. The conduct of this magpie is quite in keeping with the old adage of "Set a thief to catch a thief." His pilfering hab its are notorious. He is also a sad poacher. Not only the eggs but the young of pheasants, partridges, and other game, are destroyed by the magpie; nor are the unfledged chickens or ducklings of the farmyard safe from his mischievous attacks. In captivity he is very amusing, and notwithfrom a leap ten feet in front, threw out his ran back, and before spurs could bring him again to the starting point the stakes were won by the man-pacer passing out. The Kentuckian threw up his hat declaring he had never won a race that afforded him half the satisfaction as loosing that, and asked leave to add to it a gallon of peach brandy. He said Abbeville was renowned for her Calhoun and other great men, and now he could add his personal testimony to its justice and truth.

It was said by him that he hired Scoggins. and took him to Edgeneld and won back with him double his loss in Abbeville. -Abbeville Press and Banner.

HAD A RIGHT TO LAUGH .- There is a legend affirming that one day nearly a hundred years ago, the snow was seven feet deep on the streets of Detroit. On that day not a woman was seen down town, but next day, when the snow had settled a foot or so, they were abroad as usual. They were out wading through the slush and jumping the pools, and one of them fell "kersplash !" as she passed the soldiers' monument. A man standing thirty feet away began laughing uproariously. He got red in the face, tears came to his eyes, and his hat fell off as he laughed and cried out :

"Went right down like a bag of sandslush a fost deep-starched up to kill-never saw anybody look so chcap-oh ho ! ho ! hol

"You are no gentleman, sir !" remarked

a man who had witnessed the mishap. "Can't help that—ha! ha! ha ! ho!" laughed the other, bending almost double. "You haven't the first instincts of a gentleman, sir," continued the other, growing very mad.

"I know it, but ho! ho! ho! screamed the other. "I know just how she felt as she went down carrying all that style, and I-ha! ha! ha! ha!"

"I don't see anything so very funny in it," captivity he is very amusing, and notwith-standing his thieving propensities, no one can contemplate his dark, arch eye, his in-quisitiveness, his familiarity, and hear his efforts at mimicry, without interest. That he is not wholly devoid of grateful feeling the following anecdote shows: A favorite magpie had been accustomed to receive duity his feed hear to show to receive the following method is must call to be the show to fail twist, and it took duity his feed hear to show to receive dainty hits from the mouth of its mistress. her three hours to curl and twist, a .d pow-One day it perched as usual upon her shoul-der, and inserted its beak between her lips, wade around. Then to fall flat with all der, and inserted its beak between nur ap-not, as it proved, to receive, but (as one good turn deserves another) the grateful bird dropped an immense green fat caterpillar dropped an immense green fat caterpillar muscle right hr ! ha ! hout of me.