A Beautiful Simile.

Returning home at night from the funeral, had before, how suggestive it was of apt and water, according to the quantity of the milk. beautiful resemblances to one who, by growth If you have six or eight quarts, pour in two of in grace and knowledge, is ultimately "made complete in Christ." As the moon, originally and all the unpleasent taste will be removed. Let dark in herself, shines by a borrowed light, the milk stand just long enough to have all the passes through various phases of illumination, beginning with a narrow cresent, which broadens longest, and not wait for the milk to thicken, as nightly, until the whole disk is luminous with the reflected glories of the hidden sun, so in like manner, the Christian-he who was "sometime in darkness is made light in the Lord-" not all at once, but by degrees, according as he comes to reflect more and more the pure splendors of the Sun of Righteousness waxes to the full, and at length appears in the unclouded firmament, "walking in brightness," his course and conversation in Heaven.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DISCONTENTED .- In the days of the Old Brewry, at the Five Points, New York, a woman and her only daughter, a skin is taken from the animal, stretch it tightly child of five years of age, occupied a loathsome corner on the first floor. It was the custom of to dry, I apply an equal mixture of fine salt the mother, after having covered the child with and alum, thoroughly pulverized together, unrags which had been collected during the day, til the skin is slightly whitened by the mixto place a few broken boards, dignified by the title of "door," in such a position as probably skins until I want them for use, (which is alkept the horrible place half a degree ways a few weeks from the time of applying warmer than it would have been without such a shelter. On one occasion, after the mother ly wash them in warm soap-suds, let them dry, had adjusted the boards for the night, the child, probably experiencing some sensation of comfort, said: "Mother, what does poor people and will continue to be. do, that's got no door to cover them ?"

Rules for Cow Management.

Cows should run dry six weeks before calving-if milked closely toward calving the calves will be poorer. A seow newly come in should not drink cold Henry Livingston, Ex'or of Will of Barnet Livingwater in cold weather, but moderately warm slop. Calves intended for raising should be taken from the cow within a few days, and they will be less liable to suck when old. Feed doubly the size at two years they would have attained by common treatment:

Heifers thus treated, may come in at two years old, and will be better than neglected animals at three, and one year of feeding

Hearty eaters are desirable for cows, and they may usully be selected while calves. A dainty calves will be a dainty cow,

Pearsons who milk should keep their nails cut short-animals are sometimes hurt with sharp nails; and are unjustly charged with restlessness.

Old cows should be fatted at fifteen years.

The dairy-man therefore, who has fifteen cows, should raise a heifer calf every year to supply vacancy-if the herd is thirty cows, he should rase two calves, and so forth.

. Heifers dried up two early after calving, will always run dry about the same time in after years-therefore, be careful to milk closely the first year, until about six weeks before calving. Spring cows should come in while they are Bundays in each month. Santee, 2d and 4th Sun- yet fed on hay, and before they are turned to grass, which will be more likely to prevent caked bag and milk faver.

Importance of Bulk in Feed.

Although the presence of a sufficient quanti ty of nutritive matter in the feed is naturally the most fundamental matter for consideration, its bulk is scarcely less important. The function of digestion requires that the feed shall properly fill the stomach; and however large the supply of nutritive matters may be, their effect is imperfectly brought about if the feed be too small in bulk; and it actually becomes more valuable if diluted with weedy fibre or some other inert substance. On the other hand, if the feed be too bulky, the sense of repletion causes the animal to cease eating long before it has obtained a sufficient supply of nutritive matter. It is most necessary, therefore, to study the bulk of the feed, and to consider how to mix the different substances in such a manner as to adjust the proportions of nutritive matter to their bulk. If we examine the nature of the mixed feeds most in vogue among feeders, it will most generally be found that very bulky feed is combined with another of opposite properties. Hence turnips, the most bulky of all kinds of feed, are used along with oil cake or bean meal; and if, from any circumstance it becomes necessary to replace a large amount of turnips by the latter substance, the deficient bulk must be replaced by hay or straw.

Making Butter.

A correspondent of the Rural American says she puts no water with the cream, nor does she rinse the butter as many do, considering that the water destroys the sweetness of the butter, and causes it to become raneid much sooner. She also thinks that she obtains more butter in cold weather by heatings the milk, removing the cream the next day and heating again, when she gets nearly as much cream as the firt skimming. The churning does not occupy over fifteen minutes, and the butter comes out | thews. in good order, and yellow, even in the coldest weather.

Another writer says: When the milk. as at its full, and I felt, as I never is brought in, pour into the pail boiling water, and let it stand till it is done steaming. cream rise, which will be 48 hours at the no cream "Il rise after the milk is sour; then as you skim your milk put it in a clean, stone vessel, and not cover tight, stiring lightly every time the cream is added, and the night before churning stir Ethoroughly till all is even, and never let it stand an hour after it is fit to be churned. If it is cold, add hot water gradually till of the right temperature.

Curing Lamb Skins.

A correspondent of the Country Gentleman gives the following directions: As soon as the on a board, flesh side out; then before it begins ture. I then take no further notice of the the mixture.) I then take them and thoroughand rub them soft with my hands. After rubbing they are soft and pliable as a kid glove,

Another receipt is the following, as we find it in an exchange: Wheat flour, 20 parts; alum, 8 parts; salt, 3 parts. Puluerize, mix and rub this compound over the skin, after nailing it out tightly. In about two weeks rub the hide together and dress off with a
