Miss. R. S. Albergott's Seminary for Young Ladies.

The weather is too hot in midsummer diligent and successful literary labor: and it is, We would call attention to the Pros therefore, with good judgment, that it has been chosen as the "vacution" by the accomplished nary. We are confident that the young ladies renewed eal for their studies in the fall ; and a bright career of scholastic prosperity.

What Say Ye, Fruit Growers? We have on exhibition at our office a small branch from an apple tree in the orchard of W. T. McKEWN, Esq. Upon this small branch with an offshoot, together only 24 inches in length, are 23 apples : and Mr. McKuwn informs us that this a fair specimen of the pro ductiveness of his orenard this year. This yanicty is called by the name of the Curtis," and besides being very prolific, is a remarkably sweet and juicy apple. It suits our soil and climate admirably, and we commend it to the Wormste; --attention of farmers.

This will convey a pretty fair idea of the state of the crops here, since the late rulins. But our people, black and white, are working with a vim, and "God helps them, who help BRICKS per M....... 8 50 themselves." through which will make the il

The quarrel resulted in the dist Comfiture of Mr. LARKIN, who, not satisfied with one heating, followed up his opponent for a second castigation, and succeeded in obtaining it . The parties, we understand, were bound over to keep the peace.

Root Beer.

Mr. Andrew C. Dibble, will please accept our thanks for two bottles of ROOT BEER, which had the effect of reminding us of the halcyon days of childhood, when we used to haluxuriato in the "Sax-a frax Beer," purchased from old maumas with our spare pennics at Charleston corners. It is an exhibitanting, in wigorating, and withal, a Temperance Drink.

* A Delightful Summer Beverage.

We beg to return our thanks to Mrs. W. W. HEGARE for a bottle of very fine Ginger Pop. unade under her own direction, according to a recipe, which our friends have no doubt observed in the column of the Carolina Times, We congratulate Mrs. LEGARE upon her succoss in preparing so invigorating and healthful a beverage, and we recommend our lady readers to try the experiment likewise. Here is the recipe, which we clip from the Times of this week

"We can recommend the following as a cheap and very pleasant mixture to those, who object to burning out with ardent spirits—6 quarts of it costing about 40 cents.

Jamaica Ginger Root 2 oz., well bruised. Tartarie Acid 2 drachms.

Sugar 1 pound. The rind of 1 Lemon. Yeast 1 Tablespoon full. Water & Quarts. Put the Ginger, Cream Tartar and Sugar in 6 quarts of water and boil 5 minutes, then strain and pour into an earthen vessel, int which you have previously put the Tartaricacid and Lemon rind; let it remain till lukewarm; then add one tablespoon full of yeast and stir well; strain again, after which bottle for use. The sudden stagnation of trade in Europe, owing to the late German war, and recent disastrous financial crisis in Europe, has caused the fallure of a large number of Jewelry houses in London and Paris, obliging them to sell their goods at a great sacrifice, in some instances less than one-third the cost of manufacturing.
