We conclude our report of this session of the Court, with the eloquent and well-timed address of his Honor Judge Lyons delivered to the Jury at the close of the Session. It is as follows:
THE DUTY OF THE JURY—I take pleasure before discharging you, in expressing my gratification at the conscientious manner, in which you have transacted the large amount of business brought before you this term. You have shown yourselves to be above partiality or injustice to any persons, and you have upheld by your decisions, the traditional wisdom of trial by jury, when intelligence and honesty rule. Whether our juries in the future will constitute the exponent of human justice, will be doubted. I am sure they will not be if they be formed after the caprices of Puritanical ag. criticism, which delights in turmoil and aggression. If our Juries are to be composed principally of ignorance, superstition and poverty, then is our country doomed; treachery will become a farce, and those institutions, which were intended to be a barrier against tyranny, will be turned into the most potent engines of despotism and destruction. However improbable to our shortsighted vision, it may be possible, that out of the impending ruin, so evident to thoughtful minds, the beautiful Temple of Liberty may arise, and afford us timely shelter.

But one thing has occurred at this term of the Court, in any manner the harmony of our proceedings. When, through the instrumentality of military orders, a person of color was drawn to serve upon the Jury, you at first hesitated to answer to your names, and take the usual oath. This action upon your part I am satisfied was instigated by no hostile party to the negro race, for we know that our former slaves have had no other friends, although we do not run about the streets to persuade them of the fact. But your action was the initiative protest of Southern gentlemen, against the stupendous follies of armed fanaticism. You could not be expected to look with steady eye, and with unblanching cheek upon the first public instance of the impending danger.

Our Thanks.
Are due to Mr. MORGAN KELLER, of St. Matthews' Parish, for a specimen of his success in the culture of Sugar Cane this year. The Cane presented to us were over 8 feet long, and Mr. K. informed us that he gathered 8 two horse wagon loads from 1 of an acre of ground. That is ahead of Cotton, in its profit to the planter.

More Sugar Cane.
Mr. J. W. BARDER, also of St. Matthews' Parish, made 55 gallons of Syrup from the Cane grown on a piece of ground 100 feet long by 75 feet in width, besides reserving 150 Cane for seed, &c. The spot had been a cow pen, and Mr. B. also added a small quantity of guano. The Cane was very similar in size and appearance to that of Mr. KELLER, mentioned above, and the Syrup was excellent, as we know by the best test—taste.

The Championship in Turnip-raising
Must be awarded to Mr. HENRY RICKENBARGER of St. Matthews Parish, who has presented us this week with the finest specimens of this vegetable we have ever seen. The weight of the largest one was six pounds, and a dozen of the largest were of four different varieties—Yellow Stone, Yellow Globe, Large Norfolk, and a fourth, the name of which Mr. R. does not remember. He obtained the seed several years ago, and has succeeded in raising them from their own seed ever since. This last variety he says is a fine hardy Winter Turnip, which remains perfectly sweet and sound during the whole winter, and until late in the Spring, and grows to better perfection than any other kind he has ever planted. These turnips, although so large, are perfect throughout not at all pithy, and we have found them to be the delightful and sweet. We advise our friends to learn from Mr. R. the secret of such great success.

Report of the Charleston Cotton Market for the Week Ending Nov. 21.
Reported for the Orangeburg News by W. WALTON SMITH, COTTON FACTOR.
Our market opened this week with an active demand, but at easier prices, in some sales to the extent of 1/2 decline on closing quotation of last week. The demand continued good throughout Saturday and Monday; but buyers were able to purchase on still better terms. On Tuesday the market was stiff, with an improved feeling, and an advance of 1/2. The demand on Wednesday was quite active, and a large business was done at an advance of 1/2 to 1/4 on prices of the day before. On Friday the market was very quiet, and the advance of the day previous was lost. Sales for the week, about 1800 bales.
