

PAINS SHARP AND STABBING

Woman Thought She Would Die. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ogdensburg, Wis.—"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mild Protest. "Gladys," said Mr. Comrox, "what's the idea of these extravagant clothes and the face make-up?" "We can't ignore the fashion. I don't want to be different and conspicuous." "Maybe it's all right. But it does seem to me that in a community that is still peaceable there's no need of so much camouflage."

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN!

Cincinnati man tells how to dry up a corn or callus so it lifts off with fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted off, root and all, without pain. A small bottle of freezone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin. If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

FALL GARDENING IN SOUTHERN STATES

VEGETABLES FROM WELL-KEPT GARDEN.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Because of the South's long summers and falls and short winters, a variety of vegetable seeds may be planted in many parts of that section until October or November, and should produce satisfactory crops of fall, winter and spring truck. If planting locations are chosen with some care, say plant specialists of the United States department of agriculture, the fall garden is a possibility with nearly all vegetables grown in spring and summer in practically all parts of the South except in areas of high altitude and in the more northerly portions of the region.

In many sections of the South, tomato plants have succumbed to the strain of high temperatures and dryness. In some localities they will live and continue to bear until fall, but in others they will not survive. A new crop should be planted now, and it may be profitable to try the experiment of planting both in the open ground, where the plants are to remain, and in frames for transplanting. The frames or beds should be located in a relatively cool, shady place. The same plan of field and frame planting may be used for cabbage seedlings. With this crop promising results have already been obtained by planting several seeds in a hill and thinning to one plant. If the field planting should not survive, however, in some instances, the grower, it is pointed out, is protected by having on hand the frame-grown plants. Ordinarily the seed planted direct to the field will produce an earlier crop than seed planted in a frame and transplanted.

Among the vegetables which may be planted at practically any time during the summer, with fair assurance of success, are beans. Bush squash may also be planted even in the hottest weather if they have not been made a part of the garden at an earlier season. With the beginning of August practically the entire list of ordinary vegetables is open to the fall gardener for choice. Beets, parsnips, carrots, celery, sweet corn, radishes, lettuce and peas may be planted at this time, many of them in succession crops at frequent intervals. Later in the month and during the early part of September, kale, spinach, mustard, turnips, collards and parsley may also be planted. During September onion sets should be put out and in October, and even later, onion seeds may be planted for a spring crop.

Crops for Winter. Among the crops of these late plantings which the Southern gardener will find available for winter use, are beets and the other root crops, such as parsnips and carrots, and kale, collards, spinach and mustard. Many of the plants, he will find, may be carried by slight protection even into quite cold weather without suffering damage. To the crops which will be carried over for development in the early spring should be added salsify or oyster plant, which may be planted practically any time during the late summer or early fall. The following specific directions for fall planting of certain seeds in the South have been prepared by the department's plant specialists:

Beets. Beets planted in the South in August and early September will produce a crop for late fall and early winter use. Where hand cultivation is to be given, sow the seed in drills 14 to 18 inches apart and cover to the depth of about 1 inch. For horse cultivation the rows should be 2 1/2 feet apart. As soon as the plants are well established, thin them to a stand 2 to 3 inches apart. Give frequent shallow cultivation. The beets may be left in the ground through the winter to be pulled when wanted. Varieties recommended: Crosby's Egyptian, Bassano, Early Eclipse and Blood Turnip.

Turnips. Turnip seed may be sown during the latter part of August and throughout September and the first half of October. Sow turnip seed thickly in rows 15 to 18 inches apart, and when the plants reach a height of 4 to 5 inches begin thinning, using the young plants for greens. For good roots thin the plants to about three inches apart in the row. Keep the land well cultivated to keep down the weeds and to leave the surface loose and friable. In a small garden, cultivation with a hand cultivator is the most practicable. Turnips may be left in the ground until needed for the table, or may be pulled as soon as they are mature, and stored in a cellar or buried in banks or pits. The varieties of turnips commonly grown in the South are Purple Top Globe, White Globe, Seven Top, White Milan, and Yellow Aberdeen.

Collards. Collards can be grown in the same way as outlined for turnips.

Kale. Kale can be grown in the open throughout the winter in practically all sections of the South. Sow the seed in September and October in drills 18 inches apart for hand cultivation, and 30 inches for horse cultivation. As soon as the plants reach a height of 4 or 5 inches they should be thinned. The plants pulled may be used for greens. The cultivation for kale should be the same as for turnips. Varieties recommended: Dwarf Curled, Tall Scotch and Siberian.

Spinach. Spinach is one of the best crops grown for greens, and should be found in every home garden. It can be grown in the open during the autumn and winter in all sections south of Norfolk, Va. Sow the seed in the latter part of August, in September, or October, in drills 15 to 18 inches apart at the rate of one ounce to 100 feet of row. When the plants begin to crowd in the row they should be thinned. The larger plants are selected first, and the smaller or later ones are thus given room to develop.

HOG PASTURE IS ESSENTIAL
To Make Gains Economically Porker Need Forage Crop to Graze—Sorghum is Favored.

(By IRA W. CARPENTER, Mississippi Experiment Station.) It behooves every farmer not only during the food crisis but in normal times to keep up a good breeding of hogs, and see that the porkers be made to attain a weight of 150 pounds, at least, before marketing. To make these gains most economically the hogs need a forage crop to graze. Patches of oats, wheat, barley or any of the cover crops now growing on the farm can be utilized until a feed crop can be raised. Next in order is a good permanent pasture.

In case no cover crop is available the crop that will furnish grazing earliest is sorghum, planted broadcast on fertile land. The hogs may be turned on this when the sorghum is six to eight inches high. While the hogs are on pasture or grazing crops they should be fed from one to two pounds of concentrate per 100 pounds live weight. Corn and soy beans planted together will give the earliest fattening crop. For succession crops, peanuts, sweet potatoes, corn and velvet beans, or a later crop of corn and soy beans might be planted.

WEEDS KEEP DOWN PASTURES
Noxious Plants Choke Out Grass Needed for Food Supply for Stock Destroy Them.

It is none too early to begin thinking about the weeds which will soon be choking out the grass in the pastures. If there ever was a time when all the grass possible should be furnished our live stock it is this good year of 1917. With cattle selling for double what we thought a fair price only a few years ago, we surely must not allow the weeds to reduce the pasturage. If it is at all possible to run a mower over the pastures.

TEXAS FEVER HURTS CATTLE
Ticks Can Remain on Other Animals Without Producing Disease—Not Susceptible.

The reason that Texas fever tick can remain on animals other than cattle without producing the disease is because these animals are not susceptible to Texas fever. Numerous experiments have shown that only bovine (cattle) contract the Texas fever, so it is not difficult to understand why other hosts can be infected with impunity.

Twins? Two young boys were discussing the identity of a certain man who kept a store in the neighborhood. "He isn't the slim one, or the one who has whiskers," the first youngster was saying. "He doesn't wear glasses, either." "Oh, that must be Mr. Jones," answered the other. "Who does Mr. Jones look like?" demanded the first boy. "Well," responded the one questioned, "he looks a lot like Mr. Smith. Yep, he does. I think they must be brothers."

Illustrated. "Mamma," exclaimed the little girl next door as she ran into the kitchen of her own home, "mamma, Mrs. Jones has an illustrated tooth!" Her mother laughed. "A what?" she asked. "An illustrated tooth; one that makes your face swell up real big." Her mother laughed again, and harder. "You mean an ulcerated tooth," she corrected. Her father heard of the incident and thought he would question her, too. "Did you say Mrs. Jones had the mumps?" he queried. "No," began the little girl again. "She has an illustrated tooth." Her father laughed, and corrected her. "Daddy," she remonstrated solemnly. "I don't see why you laugh when Mrs. Jones has an ulcer—I mean—illustrated tooth!"—Indianapolis News.
