A CARD.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE THIRD CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT, COMPOSED OF ABBEVILLE, EDGEFIELD, NEWBERRY, FAIRFIELD, LEXINGTON, RICHLAND AND ORANGEBURG: FELLOW-CITIZENS: At the solicitation of my friends, I have been induced to appear before you as a candidate to represent you in the Congress of the United States at the approaching election.

In taking such a position, I am well aware that your right to know clearly my opinion on all political subjects is unquestionable. I now proceed, briefly, to give you my views on such topics as, in my judgement, mostly interest you at this time. I intend to speak to you plainly, for I want to be understood by everybody.

Before assuming any position, however, or placing myself on any platform, it will be well for us to take a passing glance and trace, hurriedly, the deep and woeful ravages made by the bloody and desolating tract of "civil war" upon our once prosperous and happy land. What a picture lies spread as we take this backward turn. What a picture of contrast, engrained as it were, by the iron wrought pencil dipping with the stream of gory red that has deluged our mountains and plains, hill sides and glens, during the four past and lengthened years of "civil war"; then the storm felt lashings, whether of adverse winds, the lightnings sudden violence, or the wallings, in thunderous echoes, of many bleeding hearts, do but add new terrors to the terrific scene passing beneath our vision. I repeat again, what a sad picture of contrast, this, to the sunny South of by gone days, blooming in prosperity; whose very mountains and hills echoed their gladdest tones, and whose lovely vales and gentle streams smiled with piteous comfort and flamed in joyous accents along, and whose light winged zephyrs breathed but happiness.

It is heart sickening truly to take even this cursory view of the picture, but we must well survey our surroundings before deciding to take a future step. Furthermore, besides the deep regrets for happiness fled, and loved ones gone, there is an evil of much less depth which, perhaps, may become of wide extension and beathing upon the welfare of our nation, and which demands some consideration therefrom. This is the low state of approaching bankruptcy that seems weighing us downward. Let the platform of action of every man be one for the good of the people, both as a nation and a State. While I am decidedly opposed to repudiation, I am equally averse to compelling the debtor to pay the full amount of debts contracted during the recent war. The practical maxim now with every one should be, "I am in favor of a fair and equitable compromise, and, in no way, to add oppression to misfortune." The Legislature will enact some law to the general satisfaction of creditor and debtor, and save us from the consequences of a repudiation that would inevitably ensue from a course favoring only the few.

The emancipation of slavery by the Government of the United States, and the acquiescence in this movement by our own State Convention, has brought us now to a stand of deep thought, as to what measures next to adopt to better our condition. Various are the opinions that have been suggested as to what shall be done with the negro. I can suggest no other plan for the present than for the negroes to be apportioned out to each State in the Union according to representation, or population; or colonize them in some newly acquired territory.

I am also opposed to conferring the right of suffrage on the recently freed negroes, because I know them to be incapable of exercising such a privilege, and because I consider this a dangerous element to introduce into the system of our Government. I well know that this question belongs properly to the decision of each State, but I am confident it will be brought before Congress, as the restles of Abolition party; flushed with successive victories, are ever ready to enter into new fields of agitation.

The people of the North have always had some negroes among them, but never, to my knowledge, have they ever raised these negroes to an equal station with themselves. If one Northern State has ever had a colored Governor or Lieutenant-Governor, or if one of this noble race has ever been honored with a seat in the Legislative body, either State or Federal, it is unknown to me.

In the State of Illinois, the late home of President Lincoln, there is a law extant prohibiting any more negroes from settling in that State, and the right of suffrage is withheld from those already there. And a similar law exists in Ohio and Indiana, and perhaps other Northern States. "Truly, consistency is a bright jewel." If the negro race occupy an inferior station North, why not place them in their right place South. The very infirmity of the race is most obvious to the mere physiognomist, and what the Creator has made black, man can never make white. Then, why not allow the South the right they assume to themselves? This very innovation upon the right of their brotherhood laid the foundation of the recent war deep and wide. Yet the Abolitionists boast loudly, that the opening of this dreadful war hangs not upon their shoulders. Had not four-tenths of the Northern States violated the Federal Constitution, as regards the fugitive slave law, the Southern States would not have been driven to the state of desperation that has well nigh brought ruin upon them.

It is true the South was precipitate in the secession movement, and my humble judgement and feeble voice disapproved of the measure. I have ever taken for my motto, "Equal rights to the South, as well as to the North; and if the golden rule, "To do unto others, as you would have them do unto you," were laid down as the cornerstone of the building of our national Constitution, peace would forever dwell with us and war stay far, far away. So long as the Government was in the hands of the Democratic party, our country was safe, prosperous and happy; but when the helm was wrested from them by overwhelming fanatism, the ship of State was badly wrecked, and well nigh destroyed forever in the whirlpool of anarchy.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For United States Congress. We are authorized to announce R. C. GRIFFIN, esq., of Abbeville District, S. C., as a candidate for the United States Congress, at the approaching election, in the third Congressional District, comprising the Districts of Abbeville, Edgefield, Newberry, Fairfield, Lexington, Richland and Orangeburg. Oct 24'65—1c

NOMINATION. We respectfully recommend to the voters of Fairfield the name of JAMES S. STEWART as a candidate for the office of Clerk of Court.

The present condition of that office requires business talents of the first order, to give system to the papers and records thrown into disorder by Sherman's men. Mr. STEWART'S long experience in business, and as a bank officer, together with his well known integrity of character, eminently fit him for the duties of the office of Clerk of the Court. VOTER. Oct 24'65—1c

Mr. Editor: The time approaches when it will become necessary to choose proper persons to fill the various civil offices within the State and in looking about, it is the duty of every citizen to exercise the right of suffrage with an eye single to the good of the country. The officer of Clerk of the Court of Common-Pleas, should be filled by one of intelligence, education and of genial manners, and we can, amongst our fellow-citizens, select no more fit person than Capt. SAMUEL B. CLOWNEY, who possesses every quality of head and heart requisite for this important position. Capt. Clowney is well known throughout the District. He was elected to this office in 1861, and resigned to take his place with his friends in the tented field, where he remained striving and doing his duties as a true soldier until the end of the war. In civil as in military life, his character and conduct has always been marked, and all who have known him bear testimony to the fact that he is in every sense a gentleman. As he deserves his reward for patriotism and fidelity in the times of trial, let soldier and citizen unite in electing him at the proper time. BROAD RIVER. sept 26'65—1c
