It is a good idea now while farmers have comparatively some idle time for them to go around among their neighbors and compare the system of conducting your farm with theirs. There is much to learn by such comparison which will benefit any farmer. It will develop new ideas and show you where you can make improvements on your past management.

Reunion of Company F.

The reunion of Company F, 24th Regi-ment S. C. V., according to announcement, held their first re-union since the war at held their first re-union since the war at Moffettsville, in Corner Township, on Wednesday, 12th inst. The day was all that could be desired, despite the fact that Old Sol's rays were felt very perceptibly. The fact that this Company was raised entirely in that section made the people feel a deeper interest in the occasion, and nothing was left undone that would tend to the comfort and pleasure of the veterans, thirty-seven of whom, with their old Colonel, were present. The crowd in attendance was variously estimated at from 600 to 1,000 persons. A neat stand had been erected for the accommodation of the speakers and numerous seats provided for the audience.

When the hour for the addresses to be delivered arrived, the survivors of the

When the hour for the addresses to be delivered arrived, the survivors of the Company were formed in line, and, under command of Capt. C. S. Beaty, marched to the stand, Sergt. J. W. Sherard carrying the battle-flag of the 24th Regiment at the head of the Company.

Addresses were delivered by Maj. John B. Moore, Messrs. R. P. Clinkscales and A. J. Watt, and Gen. Ellison Capers. These addresses were very interesting, and were highly appreciated by all present.

After the addresses a bountiful and most sumptuous dinner was spread, which every one enjoyed most heartily. After dinner, the survivors of Company F, spent the afternoon in carefully revising the roll, Gen. Capers calling the name of every man on the list, and making a record of the date of his mustering into service, his wounds, death, or other features of his

The Company went into service in Jau-uary, 1862, with over one hundred names on its roll, and from that time on to the surrender one hundred and sixty-five men served in its ranks. Of these sixty-eight were killed in battle, mortally wounded, or died of disease during the war; thirty survived their wounds; thirteen have died since the war, and fifty-four are still living. Of the latter some twelve or fourteen have removed from the County or State, and the rest are living in the County. There are few names on the roll op-posite to which there is not the record of Messrs Simpson, Roid & Co. have placed on our table a liberal sample of their new brand of cigars, "Wachovia"— a genuino 10 cent Havana cigar, which they are selling for 5 cents. These reunions of old comrades bring up the trials and dangers through which they have passed and the sense of duty done, filling the mind with the most

The presence of Gen. Capers, in whom there beats no nobler or more patriotic heart, was very gratifying to the survi-vors. He commanded the 24th Regiment for a long time, and the interest he mani-fested in the reunion evinced the fact that he had not lost any of his old patriotic zeal, nor had he forgotten what a gallant band of followers he had in the great struggle. His speech is very highly com-plimented by all who heard it. We regret that we have been unable to obtain a report or synopsis of the speech for publi-

The Teachers' Normal Institute for this

County closed its session last Saturday. The exercises throughout the week were attended by a large crowd of interested attended by a large crowd of interested spectators, who, together with the teacher-pupils, seemed to deeply regret that the exercises could not be prolonged several weeks. Indeed, the only objection we have heard urged against the Normal was that its session was not long enough. Our worthy School Commissioner will know better next time how to please the teachers. As this was the first Normal we have ever had in the County, it was we have ever had in the County, it was more of an experiment than anything else. It was a success, and the benefits to be derived from it cannot be foretold. The practical knowledge and new ideas gained by those teachers in attendance will be received in the second and rapid the second in the second second in the second se by those teachers in attendance will be perceived in the improvement and rapid advancement of the pupils under their charge for years to come. Those teachers in the County who did not attend missed most excellent opportunity for selfmprovement. We again extend our congratulations to Col. Clinkscales for the success that has crowned his efforts. His zeal and interest in the educational cause increases every day, and now that he has made a success of the first Normal, we know he will arrange to have one every Summer as long as he remains in office.

On Friday afternoon the City Council extended an invitation to the officers of the Institute to take a drive over the city. The invitation was accepted, and that

The invitation was accepted, and that afternoon several carriages were in readiness, and the officers enjoyed a delightful drive, in charge of Mayor Tolly and Aldermen Fant, Farmer and Mauldin.

The same afternoon a large number of the teachers who had been in attendance upon the Institute met and passed the following resolutions:

Roberts' Improved Cotton. Last Monday morning we had the cleasure of visiting the farm of Mr. Jas. H. Roberts, about two and one-half miles West of the city. Mr. Roberts bought this plantation, which contains 108 acres, this plantation, which contains los acres, a few years ago. Every one who knew the place considered the land almost worthless, as it was about worn out and had merous deep gullies running in almost every direction. By judicious management and a liberal use of fertilmanagement and a neeral use of lettle izers, he has succeeded in getting the land up to a good state of cultivation, and today has as fine a crop of corn and cotton on it as is generally seen in this country.

The main object of our visit, however, was to see Mr. Roberts' cotton crop.

was to see Mr. Roberts' cotton crop. Three or four years ago Mr. Roberts and his father were walking over one of his cotton fields, when they noticed a fine stalk with unusually large bolls on it. They were so favorably impressed with the appearance of the stalk, that they concluded to keep its seed separate from the rest. This was done, and next season Mr. Roberts planted a row of considerable length with these seed. At the same time he planted three other popular varieties in as many rows along the side of it, putting in considerable fertilizer and using the same amount under each. When this commenced to mature, he induced several prominent farmers to look at it. They at once noticed the difference duced several prominent farmers to look at it. They at once noticed the difference between his cotton and the other three varieties, and gave it the name of "Roberts' Improved." Mr. Roberts had many applications for the seed, and last year sold his entire crop at from $1.50 to $2.00 per bushel. He has twelve or fifteen acres in this cotton this year, and good judges say if the seasons continue favorable he will average a bale to the acre, some of it yielding a bale and a half. It is undoubtedly the best cotton we have ever seen growing in this County. In one field we picked out an average stalk and counted ninety bolls on it, besides the squares and blooms. Nearly all the stalks have four and five limbs almost as large as the stalk itself. These limbs are large as the stalk itself. These limbs are fruited right out to the end, and the bolls on an average are as large as hen eggs, the majority of them containing five locks In one field Mr. Roberts has made very fair test of his seed with the Peter-kin variety. Side by side he has planted two rows of his cotton and two of the Peterkin variety, putting the same amount of fertilizer under each and givamount of lethizer timer each and giv-ing both the same attention. The most careless observer can go into that field to-day and tell at a glance that Roberts' Im-proved is the best cotton. On some land in this County we have no doubt that this cotton would yield two bales to the acre. Mr. Roberts is a progressive young far-mer, and we venture that at no distant day his seed will be a very popular varie-ty all over the South. It will repay any one to go out to his farm and see his pres-
