Barton Robinson, more familiarly known as "Old Santa Claus," is the name of an aged negro who lives between Pelzer and Williamston. He has recently celebrated the 99th anniversary of his birthday, and some of his white friends at Pelzer had his hotograph taken. He is as erect and straight as an arrow, and enjoys remarksbly good health. Barton was born and reared near Ninety Six, in Abbeville County, and belonged to the Blake family of that section. He is truly an old time darkey, strictly upright and honest, extremely courteous and accommodating, and possesses the esteem and confidence of all his white friends, who will never let him suffer for the neces aries of life. On last Wednesday it seemed that the entire country had come to town to see the Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' Great Show. The crowd was estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000. Many of the older citizens say it was the largest crowd ever seen in Anderson. Excursion trains were run from McCormick and Walhalla, and they were crowded with passengers. The weather was delightful and everybody seemed to be in a good humor. The crowd was very orderly, and the police had very little trouble. The dispensary was closed throughout the day. Ten thousand people witnessed the afternoon performance of the show, and two or three thousand at-tended at night. The exhibition and menagerie were both good, and everybody en-loyed it. The circus men say Anderson s a good show town.

rison is an old Anderson boy, and his many friends here will rejoice to hear of his good fortune.

Mrs. Eliza Smith, wife of Mr. N. T. Smith, died on Thursday, the 19th inst., at her home in Garvin Township. She was about 73 years of age, and had been in feeble health for several months, though was not confined to her bed until a few hours preceding her death. Heart disease was the cause of her death. Mrs. Smith was a most excellent, Christian woman, and was greatly beloved by all of her friends and acquaintances. In her immediate neighborhood she will be greatly missed, for as long as her health permitted she was ever ready to go and minister to the sick and needy. In early life she joined the Methodist Church, but after her marriage she moved her membership to the Baptist Church with her husband, and at her death was a devoted member of Welcome Church. She had long since prepared to meet the summons of death, and when it came she rejoiced to go and be with her Saviour. Mrs. Smith was the mother of thirteen children, eleven of whom-six sons and five daughters-with a devoted husband, survive her. On Fri-day morning the remains were interred in the Churchyard at Sandy Springs, Rev. J. J. Beck conducting the funeral services in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives.

The Woman's Library Committee of the Tennessee Centennial Exposition are arranging to have a big exhibit of the literary products of Southern women, and Anderson will be represented in it, as will be seen from the following paragraph, which is clipped from the Nashville Daily Sun of the 19th last.: 'At Atlanta and other expositions the management were unable to utilize the large number of poetical clipoings from the writings of many Southern women, owing to the inconvenience in handling the manuscrip's. The Library Committee of the Tennessee Exposition have determined to exhibit these manuscripts, and have accordingly adopted a method by which they can be arranged in a nest and attractive style, and at the same time be more carefully preserved. Every contributor is required to arrange their contributions in a neat and attractive scrapbook or tablet so they can be arranged uniformly and referred to with conven-ience. The first tablets were received yesterday from Anderson, S. C. The dona-tors are Misses Kil and Brad Cornish, who, under the nom de plume of Kil and Brad Courtland, have written many beausatin covers, surmounted by a large cotton blossom, which adds much to the attractiveness and beauty of the exhibit."
