Charlie Brundrick, a young farmer residing near Little Mountain, Newberry County, committed suicide by drinking the contents of a vial of laudanum. No cause can be ascribed to his rash act. He left a wife.

The statement is made that a majority of the qualified voters of Cherokee County have signed a petition calling for an election to vote the dispensaries out of that county. There are dispensaries at Blacksburg and Gaftney.

The State of South Carolina has been sued for $192,500 by an Abbeville man for constabulary seizures. Notice was received by the attorney general Tuesday morning of the filing of the suit, which is for the return of two mules, a wagon and two sets of harness.

A young man of St. Matthews, Orangeburg County, named Walter Hildebrand, aged about twenty, shot himself with suicidal intent on Friday because the girl he was in love with did not seem to return his affections. Doctors were called and think he may recover.

The next Legislature will elect a successor to Judge D. A. Townsend as presiding judge of the seventh judicial circuit. Judge Townsend will stand for re-election. He is now serving his third term. Spartanburg has two candidates for the bench—both members of the general assembly, Senator D. E. Hydrick and Hon. C. P. Sanders.

The eleventh annual meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which meets in St. Louis on October 4-8, is attracting interest among the South Carolina members of the order, and the indications point to a large representation from this State, as delegates and onlookers at the great gathering.

George Burton, a drayman, was killed in Greenwood the other night by an engine on the C. & W. C. road. Burton was drunk and lying down on the track when an engine going to the tank after water passed over him. His right leg was cut off in two places and his left leg crushed. Burton was about 30 years old and leaves two children, his wife having died several years ago.

The railroad commission will in a few days take up an important matter in regard to the telephone service in this State. Since the general assembly has placed these concerns under the commission's jurisdiction there have been several important questions to be settled, and the commission is moving slowly in settling these, as their decisions will be used as precedents.

In the court of common pleas at Charleston, alimony proceedings have been begun by Mrs. Eliza Cooley against her husband, asking also for an order of separation, alleging that her husband has ill treated her. Judge Dantzler has referred the case to Master Mitchell to take the testimony. The couple were married in 1892 and the alleged cruel treatment did not begin until 1901. The defendant is alleged to be worth $20,000.

A very curious-looking and strangely formed pig was brought to the Mayer drug store this week. The pig was small but perfectly formed with the exception of its eyes. Instead of being possessed of the two usual optical organs there was one single eye placed squarely in the middle of the forehead. The head was of ordinary shape, and the skin on the head was well formed, but there was only the one eye underneath a single eyebrow.—Newberry Herald News.

In a fierce hand-to-hand fight in Richardson's beer dispensary at Greenville Lum Ward landed with his teeth on the nose of John Collins, face. The men were arrested and released soon after under bonds of $25 for a later appearance in court. Dr. Bramlett dressed Collins' nose and stitched it back in place. The nose was hanging by a thread as the cartilage had been bitten in two. Dr. Bramlett, after putting the nose back in position said it might unite and heal, but that the chances are slim.
