BUYERS AND SELLERS OF

REAL ESTATE, STOCKS & BONDS.

J. C. CUMMINGS, Sales Dep't.

Our facilities for handling your property are perfect, as we are large advertisers all over the country. Right now we are having considerable inquiry for farms in this and adjoining Counties, and owners of farm lands in the Piedmont section who wish to dispose of their property will find that we are in a position to make quick and satisfactory sales.

Now is the time to list your property with us and we will proceed at once to give attention to all properties entrusted to us.

Address all communications to J. C. Cummings, Sales Department.

Farmers' Union Bureau of Information.

Conducted by the South Carolina Farmers' Educational and Co Operative Union.

Communications intended for this department should be addressed to J. C. Stribling, Secretary, S. C.

There is Running In It.

If we farmers don't run the speculator out he will keep on running the farmer in the hole.

If cotton farmers don't come together and agree upon terms as to how much we are willing to pay for handling our cotton until it is distributed among consumers of cotton, then the same old gang of speculators will continue to do this job for us and name their own price for it, and collect just about all they may want for this job.

Who is to Blame For It?

If farmers do not come together in the farmers' organizations and try to protect their own interest, in their own way, then it is clear that all that class of farmers that refuse to organize is the real obstacle in the way of building up a strong combination of farmers with sufficient strength to down any and all combinations against our common interests as farmers of the cotton.

If you have joined in with the Farmers' Union and done your best to uphold our common interest in obtaining profitable prices for our products, then you will feel good over this matter whether you have done it or not, but do not, for there is great comfort in knowing that you have done your duty.

That Chinese Boycott Hammer.

The cotton bear element is now circulating the news that all American spinners, that supply the heavy cotton goods trade to China, are now turning their attention to finer goods, and, in consequence of this, are using only about half the amount of cotton they formerly used in this Chinese trade.

Consumers and speculators are using this fact to hammer down prices when, in reality, it makes little or no difference whether England and America makes the cloth for the Chinese trade; in either case American cotton will have to be considered in this thing just the same. Really, we want some of our smart cotton men to tell us the difference about who makes the cotton goods if our American cotton has to be considered in the supply of the raw material for this Chinese shirt. Now, if these cotton bears will show us that the length of their skirts are without common sense, then there might be some logical reason for producers to become alarmed, but so long as Chinese babies and others are born naked this American cotton will have to be considered as constituting about what we mean by the raw material that goes into their clothing, and we are in doubt as to whether it makes very much difference as to who makes the cloth.

Dr. Mason, of Charlotte, seeks information through our Farmers' Union Bureau, and he gets what he wants, which is encouraging in our work.

These letters of Dr. Mason and Mr. Babham are right along in the progressive path that leads to a system of diversification of crops and the improvement of our lands. The reason is in order to fortify our positions as farmers to protect our interest, which rest largely in profitable prices for our cotton.

Mr. J. C. Stribling, Pendleton, S. C. Dear Sir: In "The State" some time ago I noticed where some one had originated a variety of cow peas so that it had the desirable quality of giving a large yield of peas, at the same time did not shed its leaves. Will you be kind enough to ask if he will not publish in your "Farmers' Union Bureau" how he developed this pea, so that other may do likewise. The reason I ask this is because the writer of the article in question stated at the time that he had no seed for sale.

Very truly,
R. E. Mason, M. D.

We would like to hear more from this man about these peas; this is in the line of our work.

J. C. Stribling, Chairman committee.

Answer to Dr. Mason's Inquiry.

Col. J. C. Stribling, Pendleton, S. C. Dear Col: Dr. R. E. Mason wishes to know something of the hybrid peas that do not shed their leaves. He or any one can have just such a pea on their own farm if they will follow simple directions to wit: Take equal parts of the little iron, the hardest pea known, and the old-fashioned speckle or shingley, mix, and plant in a patch to themselves. This can be planted any time from April 15 to 15. Give seed from this patch, and plant again in three or four years you will have the hybrid. In that time the shingley will be as hard as the little iron, and the little iron, I can assure you, will not be any softer than when you first began the experiment.

When the hybrid has been formed, the vines will be more luxuriant than the parent plants, and will grow and thrive on land too poor to sprout cow peas. The yield of cow peas will grow better on land that will sprout cow peas.

The hybrid will not blight and is not later than the shingley. For hay the best pasture for any pea known, but for pea pastures there are other better peas.

Getting a hybrid pea is easy enough. Nothing on the farm will cross easier, except melons. Getting a perfect hybrid pea is a vexing and laborious undertaking. I think such a thing possible. First breaking is one of the great questions of the day and in it is wonderful possibilities.

Yours very truly,
A. W. Brabham.

Col. J. C. Stribling, Pendleton, S. C. I have read the newspaper clipping which you enclosed, with much interest, and agree with you most heartily. We have got to teach our farmers the importance of planning their crops and improving their soil without being so much a heavy expense in buying fertilizers.

As you know, I have been working very hard along the same line you are in, trying to organize the farmers and to get concert of action on their part, to try to get a fair price for any product which they may have for sale. So far as I can see, I don't think it makes so much difference whether this is accomplished by the Farmers' Union or Southern Cotton Association; what we are trying to do, is to improve the condition of our country, and I bid God's speed to any organization that is gotten out on a high plane with this in view.

If ever I can serve you in any way in the future, please do not hesitate to call upon me and I will do so with pleasure.

Very respectfully yours,
F. H. Hyatt, Treasurer S. C. Association.

For days millions of robins flew south-bound over Yuba, Nevada, and Placer counties, California. At night they alighted on trees, shrubs and rocks and at daybreak resumed their flight. Nothing has ever been seen in California like it.

It is said there is almost an epidemic of meningitis in Atlanta this spring. Already there have been thirteen deaths from this disease at the Grady Hospital since February, and other cases are reported from various sections of the city.

S. Burdette, president of the Eufaula National bank of Eufaula, Ala., was shot and killed in his own yard on Wednesday night by an unknown assassin. He was one of the wealthiest men of the nation and carried life insurance to the amount of $250,000.

A burglar entered the room of the hotel Hampton Terrace, Augusta, Ga., on Wednesday night, occupied by Mrs. Chas. F. Clark and her daughter, of New York, and stole $4,000 worth of jewelry, including two gold watches set with diamonds, five diamond rings, locket, pins, etc.

Six deaths, many injured and great property damage are the result of a tornado which swept through Texas and across Kansas last Thursday night. Most of the damage is reported from the village of Briggs, which was completely wiped out. Stanford and Buxton, Kansas, suffered from the storm.

Although petitioned to do so by 21,000 persons Gov. Henley, of Indiana, refused to grant a pardon to David E. Sherriek, former State Auditor, who last week began serving a term of from 2 to 21 years in the penitentiary for embezzling funds of the State. He had made good all of his shortages.

Following the disappearance of W. H. Bell, the cashier of the Del. bank of Leland, Miss., and an investigation of the books of the bank by the directors, which it is alleged, developed that $5,000 of the bank's funds are missing, the doors of that institution were closed Wednesday evening, and Jack Stinson, of Leland, named as assignee. An application for a receiver has been filed. The bank is capitalized at $84,000, and the deposits amount to $25,000.

STATE NEWS.

A Spartanburg boy had a splinter removed from his foot, and from which he had suffered for eight months.

Reports from the celebrated Ridge section of this State indicate that the peach crop will average about sixty per cent.

The wife of John Childers, a Lee County farmer, committed suicide by drinking a strong solution of lye. She was in a delicate condition and her mind was affected.

Comptroller-General Jones has expressed himself as being very much pleased with the prompt manner in which the corporations of the State have reported and paid their franchise tax.

Mrs. Emily Taylor, of Walterboro, has been awarded $1,000 damages against the Atlantic Coast Line for being put off at the wrong station through the negligence of the conductor.

Chester County Alliancemen are considering the propriety of using their share of the State exchange fund—over $700—to provide transportation, etc., for the Confederate veterans of that county to the State reunion in Columbia.

The sixth annual convention of the State Bankers' Association will be held in Greenville May 10th, 11th and 12th. Governor Hayward has been asked to respond to the toast, "Raising for Governor; Reminiscences by One Who Got In."

Three children were buried to death in Union County a few days ago. Their parents looked them in the house while they went to work in a distant field. Persons discovered the house to be on fire, but reached the place only to see the roof fall in upon them.

The State Supreme Court has affirmed the judgment of $40,000 in favor of Mrs. Dorothy Brickman against the Southern for the death of her husband, Engineer Brickman, who was killed in the wreck on the Fishing creek trestle, in York County, nearly three years ago.

The fight for the new county of Calhoun, which it is proposed to slice from Marion with Dillon as the county seat, is being revived, four years having passed since the last election was held. The principal point is as to whether the new county would leave Marion with the constitutional area. Both sides are studying up the law on the subject.

President James A. B. Scherer announces that Dr. D. K. Pearson, of Chicago, offers to give $25,000 to the endowment fund of Newberry College, on the usual terms. Dr. Pearson has long been known as a particular friend of the distinctively Christian college. This proposition crowns his 86th birthday and signals the semi-centennial of Newberry College.

The tea farm at Summerville, S. C., the only one of its kind in the western hemisphere, is able this year to send 12,000 pounds of tea to market. With the kindly assistance of the government of the United States this farm has grown to a point where it can offer serious competition with the best grades of tea shipped from China, India, Formosa or Java.

The Greenville News says that after a hard fight and in spite of numerous obstacles, Hugh Prince has won in his efforts to rebuild the old Carolina, Knoxville and Western railway, and actual work has begun. Mr. Prince announced that not only had he succeeded in successfully financing the deal, but that the way was clear for the completion of twenty-six miles.

Though fourteen counties in the State have voted out the dispensary under the Bric Act, the business for the first three months of this year was only $135,822 less than the same months last year. Commissioner Tatam states that the sales would have been $50,000 heavier had the stock not been short in a number of important particulars the first part of the year before the new board took charge.

In the United States circuit court at Charleston John W. Carter, 80 years of age, of Mullins, S. C., was sentenced to serve one year at hard labor in the prison at Atlanta, on the charge of forgery, in the prosecution of a pension claim. He was a member of a company of the First South Carolina regiment in the Spanish American war, and he forged the name of six of his comrades. After indictment he confessed to the crime and was given the minimum penalty of the act. His hair and beard are white and he is bent with age, but the law is no respecter of persons.

State Senator Eugene S. Bleaso, charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Joe Ben Coleman, in October, was acquitted last week after a trial lasting one day. No more dramatic scene has ever been witnessed in the Saluda court house than when Bleaso told in tears and sobs of his friendship and love for Joe Ben Coleman, their associations for many years, his exertions to secure Coleman a position, and then of the ruin of his home and the appalling weight of shame and dishonor the information of his wife's infidelity had brought him. After the conclusion of this dramatic scene the situation was rendered even more dramatic when the defendant swooned as he was leaving the stand and became limp as death. He had to be carried to the jury room, where he remained during the entire time of the arguments, attended by a physician.

Close Shave for Fast Mail.

Washington, D. C., April 16.—The fast mail appropriation of $142,000, which the Southern Railway annually receives from Congress, was once more passed by the House of Representatives Friday afternoon, but it got through by the narrowest shave it has ever known, the vote on the motion to strike it out of the post-office bill being 100 to 102.

For the past month, or even since the postoffice committee incorporated the item in the general appropriation bill, it has been the opinion of Southern members that the subsidy would be stricken out this time. There has been an earnest effort made on the part of the Southern railway's friends and the friends of the fast mail train, with the result that the few votes necessary to save the appropriation were won over.

The item is not yet safe, as the vote Friday was taken in the committee of the whole house. This is usually the deciding vote, however, and unless some members change their vote when the item is voted on formally it will pass Congress.

Representative Moon, of Tennessee, made the motion to kill the subsidy for the fast mail train.
