FARMERS UNION BUREAU.

Conducted by S. C. Farmers' Union

Address all communications intended for this column to J. C. Scribbling, Pendleton, S. C.

Notice.

For good reasons National President R. F. Duncanson, of the Farmers Union, has called off the cotton price-making meeting in Atlanta called for August 2nd. Said meeting to be called to commence in Texarkana, Arkansas, 5th of September.

Deceptive Growth of Cotton Stalk.

From every quarter comes reports of the over growth of cotton stalks which experts know that this extraordinary large supply over production of stalk has been made at the expense of the fruiting possibilities of the land. Therefore the flattering show of large stalks in some sections is very deceptive and may lead many to overestimate their crops. It is not stalks with forms 12 inches apart that counts, it is the thick set bolls from two to three inches apart on medium stalks that indicates a fine crop.

The Rallying Farmer.

We have before us great stacks of newspapers and letters from all over every State in the South. A glance over the news from the cotton fields of the South as written by the real farmer himself, is very encouraging, indeed, as to the determination of farmers to come together and take charge of their own interests.

In our sister State, Georgia, we note that they have now in the Farmers' Union over 45,000 members and their meetings already published numbers for August, 72 different places. This educational campaign of the Farmers' Union is now on in earnest in all the cotton States. These farmers have gone into line all over the cotton territory in a systematic way that bids fair to create the coming like a real revolution in the management of our whole cotton interests.

From every State comes the glorious news of large enthusiastic meetings and the springing up of Farmers' cotton watchhouses in all the cotton States. The cotton farmers have stopped digging in the fields for awhile and are digging and throwing their fortifications ready to defend their interest.

The cotton farmer has learned to watch both the bughole and the spicket of his business. He no longer continues to pour in the good stuff at the bughole and never look out for the leak at the spicket. The Farmers' Union man of today has been educated up to the point where he understands that there is two important features of his business—one is to produce good crops and the other is to get good prices for that good crop.

Where is the good of producing good crops, if the good crops bring the farmer actually less money and profits than poor crops have? The unorganized cotton farmers have for years been spreading before the cotton watchhouses and speculators of the world a great and grand feast while cotton growers themselves have stood around this festive table with a gag in their mouths placed there by each other.

Therefore, will you ever learn the lesson, the one most important lesson before you—that if ever there is anything done for the interest of the farmers, that farmers themselves must help each other. Never go about seeking to men in other occupations to help you when you have not tried to help your own interest by joining with your fellow craftsmen, your brother farmer.

Crop Lists and Cotton Report Lists.

All along we have been doubting that it was true that quite a number of our cotton planters had sold their crops of cotton before they had planted it, and had since selling out been engaging themselves to aid the gang of crop liars. But after some careful observation and investigations by others we are forced to admit that there is more of our cotton planters engaged in this very rotten and demoralizing work than we had any idea of.

This is a statement coming from one of the best conservative men in one of the best cotton counties in South Carolina. Last week we met a country man who had sold his crop of cotton before he had planted it. He was a lawyer that is often times engaged to work on the shady side of lawsuits, and the other was a real jolly drummer who was having a good time but had never been in cotton in any way before.

Another regular cotton crop reporter in this same county is the drunken son of a wealthy business man of the city who sent his son out to the country for reformatory purposes. This reporter has three times himself and has pledged every planter and is endorsed by the United States Government who furnishes the large franked envelope for the return of this expert cotton planters report, which was handed in to a planter in our county.

Holy Moses, what will become of a country whose chief industry is placed in the hands of such cheap judgment farmers. It is your fault that these conditions are here among us.

We have in our county reports from buyers in the cotton growers making their reports to each other like these are doing. And the best way to stop the leakage of Government money is for producers of cotton to see to it that these reports are made by men who have been proved guilty of selling out the interest of the whole South for some that have gone to the United States Government.

They Won't Stick.

A member of another Union while talking to a member of our Union a few days ago, said that he was afraid that the farmers wouldn't stick after they had met and put a price on their cotton.

(Here, Brother Scribbling, take a few drops of this campfire. Maybe that will keep you from "throwing up.") No "they won't stick." Now wasn't that fellow playing some sweet music, after knowing that cotton went from seven cents to ten and a half in July, of the same year? And didn't he know that our man knew that this rise in the price was brought about by the farmers "a stickin' it?"

Say, Colonel, don't you think you could cut the "doubt" "bolls" after that fellow's music, while you remember that the Union met at Texarkana last September and put the price of eleven cents on their cotton and that standing shoulder to shoulder they are still getting that price? Poor fellow, we don't know what impression he wanted to make on our man, but the kind that he did make was that a member that is always talking about the other fellow not sticking, is always the very first man to kick out of the line. Now, from what we can learn this fellow has listened so much to the man that don't belong to the Union, till he is not only real bilious, but he has even caught the "itob." So we would advise him to stay away from town, get out of the Union for awhile, and forget him from what we had a box of Farmers' Union Pills and take three after each meal, thereby getting his stomach right. Also get a box of Farmers' Union Salve and give himself a good greasing and quit scratching so much. If the other fellow is well of the above diseases let him go back to his Union and try and be a man.

Our Union met last Saturday evening, the 21st and priced our cotton, and our price, just what we can get for the price they set, first, last and all the time.

W. L. Casey, Secretary Five Forks Union No. 1.

THE POLICE ELECTION.

Big Batch of Candidates for Chief and Privates.

In a few days the new Mayor and Aldermen will assume the reins of the city government and immediately after that fellow's music, while you remember that the Union met at Texarkana last September and put the price of eleven cents on their cotton and that standing shoulder to shoulder they are still getting that price? Poor fellow, we don't know what impression he wanted to make on our man, but the kind that he did make was that a member that is always talking about the other fellow not sticking, is always the very first man to kick out of the line. Now, from what we can learn this fellow has listened so much to the man that don't belong to the Union, till he is not only real bilious, but he has even caught the "itob." So we would advise him to stay away from town, get out of the Union for awhile, and forget him from what we had a box of Farmers' Union Pills and take three after each meal, thereby getting his stomach right. Also get a box of Farmers' Union Salve and give himself a good greasing and quit scratching so much. If the other fellow is well of the above diseases let him go back to his Union and try and be a man.

It is presumed that Chief Murphy, with the other members of the force, will stand for re-election, as it is pointed out by the admirers of the present force that they are models of efficiency and eternal vigilance, but this counts for little in the eyes of the "outs" who want to become "ins," and they, too, have friends who are said to be urging their claims with unwonted vigor and earnestness. It is rumored that strong pressure will be brought to bear to encompass what is generally termed a general shaking up in the police department with the view, as urged by the advocates of this measure, of combining physical, intellectual and moral qualifications in the selection of these guardians of the peace. It is suggested that the next year being a convention year in the city, will bring hundreds of visitors to Anderson, and that the average visitor forms many impressions of a town's pride by the class of officers that are foremost in the scrutiny of the public eye, and for this reason, among others, they desire that a police force be elected that will reflect credit upon the city in the eyes of visitors as well as to inspire pride on the part of home folks. Their argument is a good one, provided they will back it up by a class of aspirants who will fill the requirements laid down by them as it is claimed by them they will. At any rate the fight promises to warm up and live between now and the inauguration of the new city government.

News From Neighboring Towns.

(Honea Path Chronicle.)

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tribble of Anderson, who have been on a two weeks pleasure trip to Charleston, stopped over a few days with friends and relatives here on their return here.

Greenville is talking of voting $200,000 for street paving.

The County Fair.

The prospects for a brilliant and successful County Fair in October are getting brighter every day. The splendid work done by the Fair Association and by its able secretary, Mr. W. E. Earle, will be a revelation to even the people of Anderson who have not kept in close touch with the movements of this very worthy organization. The premium list is said to be the most liberal as well as the best assorted one ever offered before by any County Fair in the South and one that offers the greatest inducements for entries in every class and contest that has ever before been held by this association. Enough entries have already been signed that will insure some of the best and most exciting racing events ever given in the State. The track has been put in excellent condition and is now one of the fastest courses in the country. Ample provision has been made for the display of agricultural, products and of industrial and of manufacturing interests, and special attention will be given to the proper display of these important elements of the county's prosperity. The poultry and stock exhibit will be away above the average, too, for no section of the South boasts facilities superior to Anderson County's for poultry and stock raising and those facilities are being rapidly developed to the highest stage of perfection. The county fair will be a matter of State pride and The Intelligencer congratulates the Fair Association for the splendid success it has in prospect.

The following are the premiums offered the cattle department:

Jersey cow, first, churn $10, Sullivan Hardware Co. Second $2.50 worth Stock Powders, Evans' Pharmacy.
