We have a North-Herald, of the 2d, from which we gather that Gen. Grant and Sherman have gone to Washington to confer with the United States authorities on the subject of a definite settlement of terms of peace. There appears to be no doubt, says the Carol, that the Yankee President rejected the terms made by the generals, on the ground that he would not treat with rebels in arms. We assume that the Generals will succeed in their efforts to persuade the Federal authorities to the acceptance of the terms agreed upon. We shall publish, on Monday, the article of the Carolinian.

The editorial department of the Herald says that a treaty was ratified on the 26th ultimo between Grant and Sherman and our authorities. We are to return to the Union, and our rights, under the Constitution, to be guaranteed as they were. Both armies to be disbanded: Slavery is not to be interfered with. In fact, the proclamation of emancipation by Lincoln was mere brutum fulmen. Even if we regard the United States Supreme Court, with doubt, as an arbitrator, they are bound to regard the proceeding as unconstitutional. "President Johnson," says the Herald, "is ignored in the matter." The above facts are reported by Major Drummond, Hardee's Chief Commissary, and he is considered trustworthy.

Jea. E. Johnston's army, most of them, are expected to be in Newberry by Friday.

President Davis, suite and escort, passed through Laurens District, on Saturday last, 29th ult.

Uninterrupted telegraphic communication has been resumed between Charlotte, N. C., Washington and New York cities. We suppose that the uses of the telegraph on these routes will be chiefly absorbed by Government agents and objects for the present.

We shall make full extracts in Monday's paper.

General Weitzel's general order in Richmond commands that the President of the United States shall be prayed for, in place of "the so-called President of the Confederate States;" yet, as good Christians, we are required by the law to pray for every body.

One of our last exchange papers' rumors, was to the effect that Gen. Kirby Smith was marching upon New Orleans with a heavy force, and that the French had already captured it from the sea. These Frenchmen, like the flea, are every where, except under the particular finger that is sure of them.

Mozuz—This city is announced as having been captured, and the United States flag raised over it on the 12th April. Gen. Grant's troops occupy the city. Our troops began the evacuation on the 10th ult.

A railway connecting Jaffa with Jerusalem is about to be built, with Edglish money, at a cost of half a million sterling. The distance will be forty miles, and the port at Jaffa.

The following is a copy of the "Terms of a Military Convention entered into on the 26th day of April, 1865, at Bennett's House, near Durham's Station, N. C., between Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, commanding the Confederate army, and Maj. Gen. W. T. Sherman, commanding the United States army in North Carolina."

1. All acts of war, on the part of the troops under General Johnston's command, to cease from this date.

2. All arms and public property to be deposited at Greensboro, and delivered to an ordnance officer of the United States army.

3. Rollo of all the officers and men to be made in duplicate—one copy to be retained by the commander of the troops, and the other to be given to an officer to be designated by Gen. Sherman. Each officer and man to give his individual obligation, in writing, not to take up arms against the Government of the United States until properly released from this obligation.

4. The side-arms of officers and their private horses and baggage to be retained by them.

5. This being done, all the officers and men will be permitted to return to their homes, to be disarmed by the United States authorities, so long as they observe their obligations and the laws in force where they may reside.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE, CHESTNUT HOUSE,
PLAIN STREET, Columbia, May 5, 1865.

MR. EDITOR: In an editorial notice in to-day's paper you make the following note and query: "The Sheriff of the District should be here with his posse comitatus. Where is he?" In answer to the query, my office is located for the present as above dated, where I am ready at all times, within office hours, (from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.) to attend to all official duties when brought before me under proper process of law. When in the discharge of these duties I will, when necessary and the emergency requires, summon to my aid the posse comitatus, authorized by law. Respectfully,
J. B. DENT, S. R. D.

GENUINE.

"Oh death, where is thy sting? Oh grave, where is thy victory?" Now is the glory field, but from the loom of his domestic circle, has that tiny messenger summoned to blessed immortality our beloved and respected FROB. W. CURRIE; in the 63rd year of his age. Aurora had not yet spread forth her wings, when the choir of angels chanted their seraph hymn, and opened wide the gates of Heaven for his entrance to eternal bliss. The dear departed was closely entwined in the affections of his household. All year, the massive obelisk is broken; that precious chair never can be filled. Yea at every step, do cherished hearts bleed, that the missing one is not there, when evening's soft light streaks o'er the village green; "the long accustomed voice no longer sounds, but is hushed in the cold embrace of Death." The evening of life had, but for a few short seasons, unfolded itself, and our now-minted friend ended his earthly career. His humanity and civility of manner, generosity of heart, truly unselfish character, and highly liberal character, were more than elevated him in the estimation of a loving community. Dr. T. W. McClellan was born in Marlboro District, South Carolina, and was, for many years, a large and successful merchant of Charleston; at which time he was so fortunate that his philosophy never forsook him. At the commencement of the war, he removed to Columbia, where his untiring zeal and energy established him in the highest confidence of his fellow-citizens; and would he deserve it, for his purity and moral character were unexceptionable. His virtues will ever be a rich legacy to his children, and the choicest boon they could crave. Mr. McClellan was for thirty years a member of the Christian Light Dragoons, a corps that have nearly all perished in their country's cause; but when peace shall have again broken, and quiet reign in the land, his honored name will be cherished and venerated by that noble band of brother soldiers. His attributes as a father, those who loved him most dearly, can best attest; a more devoted and dutiful husband never breathed on earth. Alas! what a blank for best the joy, the soul, the partner of his life; she to whom he would have sacrificed his very existence. "Oh! thou wilt come at evening hour to shed The tear of memory o'er my narrow bed; With solemn temple on my head reclined, Muse on the last farewell I leave behind; Breathe a deep sigh to winds that murmur low, And think of all my love and all my woe!"
