THE EMIGRATION TO THE SOUTH.—While there is a great deal of talk about the Mexican emigration scheme, the departure of hundreds of persons from the North to cities of the South goes steadily and quietly on. Professional men, mechanics, and indeed men representing every department of industry, are hurrying Southward to try their fortunes. Richmond, Charleston, Savannah, Norfolk, Mobile, New Orleans and the other principal cities of the South are the chief attraction, but as soon as the war shall have actually closed, many of these pilgrims will make their way to the interior. On Saturday we were informed that an advertising firm newly established in this city received $3,800 to pay for advertisements to be inserted in Southern papers. It is stated that the demand for carpenters in the South is already greater than the supply, while masons, plumbers, wheelwrights and painters are very scarce.—New York Commercial and Advertiser.

A few evenings since a lady in Peotia attempted to extinguish a kerosene lamp by blowing at the flames from the top. The result was, the oil ignited and the lamp exploded. In an instant the lady's dress and the books and papers on the table were in flames. Fortunately no fatal damage was done, though the lady, and a gentleman present, were burned in their hands and faces in their efforts to extinguish the flames.

The Lynn Bulletin says shoe buyers are numerous, and orders are coming in faster than they can be filled. The stock of goods on hand is very light, and there is no prospect at present of an accumulation.

Always take the part of an absent person who is censured in company, so far as truth and propriety will allow.

HEAVY ROBBERY OF SPECIE—$200,000 STOLEN.—A few days since two of the officers of the Richmond banks, whose assets were removed from that city upon the evacuation in April, reached Washington, in this State. They were empowered by the authorities to remove their effects, consisting of three hundred and twenty thousand dollars in specie, to the capital of Virginia. Procuring teams and a guard of twelve men, these gentlemen set out upon their return home, intending to take the railroad at Chester, South Carolina.

At the end of the first day's journey, they encamped on the grounds of Mrs. Morse, eighteen miles from Washington and three from the Savannah river. The officers retired, and the guards fell asleep.

About midnight a party of twenty mounted men, who were evidently aware of the value of the train, suddenly dashed upon it, and the guard surrendered without firing a gun or making the slightest show of resistance. The freebooters immediately went to work bursting open the specie kegs and heaving themselves to the glittering contents. One fellow, it is related, had a large leather haversack, which he filled, but just as he was mounting his horse the straps gave way and the precious metal fell clinking to the ground. He eagerly scraped up the gold and sand, leaving a number of pieces, and placing the coin in a bag, rode off. The next morning a negro teamster found five dollar pieces scattered in profusion all about the ground.

Some two hundred thousand dollars were stolen, leaving about one hundred and twenty thousand. With this amount the bank officers journeyed on, sadder, but wiser men. Upon reaching Abbeville, S. C., they offered a reward of twenty thousand dollars for the recovery of the property.

The robbers are supposed to be paroled soldiers, who followed the train from Washington. It is singular, that in the present demoralized state of the country, the gentlemen in charge made no secret of their valuable possessions; nor did they use any extraordinary measures of precaution to preserve their property.

After the services at noon in a country church, in walked a woman in a gray cloak, accompanied by two half grown up urchins, with eyes and mouths both fearfully agape, and the trio took their seats, in all modesty, near the door. By-and-by the clergyman gave out his text—'Jesus I know, and Paul I know, but who are ye?' The grey cloak was agitated. The text was energetically repeated, and the minister's eyes seemed cast toward the party seated behind the door. Our friend in grey stood up, and with the voice of a shepherdess on a Westmoreland Fell, replied to this piteous question—'Please, sur, Ise Betty Jones, o' Wessieddale, an' thus is our Rob an' our Peggy, and we'se ga'an to Penrith to see our Nancy, and we thowt we'd just come in an' see what ye were waken, and git a rest.'

REBEL PRISONERS.—The alacrity, says the Louisville Journal, with which nearly the whole of the rebel prisoners, throughout the United States, are taking the oath of allegiance, is one of the very best indications of the speedy return of true peace and harmony. About 500 at Camp Douglas took the oath on Friday last, and were furnished with transportation to their homes. There are over 7,000 prisoners still in camp, who will be released as quickly as the necessary rolls and papers can be made out.

The Journal is also informed that of over 7,000 non-commissioned officers and privates confined at Fort Delaware, all, with the exception of three, have expressed their willingness and desire to return to their allegiance.

Henry Ward Beecher terms the city of New York 'a nest of robbers, a den of thieves, whose example familiarizes our citizens with pillage, and prostitutes the morality of our youth.'

It is a mournful picture, and tells a sorrowful tale, that anecdote of the little Scotch girl who asked her mother what heaven was like. 'My dear, it is like a perpetual Sabbath.' 'O, mamma,' said the child, 'how dreadful!'
