It has been rumored that the result of the late election at Richmond has been set aside and declared void by the military edict of Gen. Terry. This statement has not been confirmed, and statement has not been confirmed, and we regard it as entirely without foundation. Such an act as that would strike away the last prop of republicanism in this country, and the whole labric would fall in irretrievable ruin.

But there is sufficient cause for anxiety in the contemplation of the attitude of the Black Republicant press in regard to the result of the election at Richmond. It same that election at Richmond. It seems that the organs of the dominant party are unwilling to accord to the Southern paople the enjoyment of their preservences in the exercise of the elective franchice. If they are not to be permitted to select the candidates of their being from the conditions of their matted to select the candidates of their choice for the administration of their logal affairs, their franceise is a moss-cry. It would be for better to spare them the expense and trouble of cleations, by giving the appointment of their civil officials to the Federal Executive. It is natural bet the their civil officials to the Federal Exe-cutive. It is natural that the people of the South should yet for men who have served the cause of the Confede-racy.
