Is there a place that can impart Blest visions to the aching heart? Is there a place whose image dear ~ Can soothe our grief, dispel our fear! That place is home.

The exile, h far distant climes Oft, oft runembers by gone times, And o'er whatever land he roves, Remembers still the land he loves— Remembers home.

Whalever hardships be our lot, Still home's the treasure of the heart; Wratever can our bosoms cheer, Whatever we regard as dear, Is found in home, sweet home.

The Unhappy Reply.

"I do not think it a selfish act if I occupy this whole seat myself, as I am to travel all this long day," said I to a lady nearest me, one sultry morning, as I took the out-of-the-way end seat in the cars at Buffalo for Albany.

"Certainly not," was the reply, as I put my shawl, books, papers, fan, bouquet, &c., in the one end, and nestled myself down on the other. I soon wearied of conversation and reading, and held early interfife. slumber, when a gentle tap on my shoulder, and a "Please, miss!" made me wake with a sudden start.

The car was filled to overflowing, and a newly-arrived party had entered, and a pale little woman, with a fretful baby in her arms, stood asking permission to sit beside me. With more of pity than of pleasure, I shared my or pay than or pleasure, I shared my seat with her, yet I spoke but few words, and sulkily forebore taking the restless little creature to ease her poor, wearied arms; bet I merely smoothed its yellow hair and its pale, baby cheeks, and said Mary was a good and sweet name.

For my own comfort, I had opened the window, that I might more dis-tinctly catch those picturesque views, that flitted by so rapidly that they seemed like glowing pictures, without one imperfection to mar, when my attention was drawn to my companion, who was incessantly coughing.

"I do wish you would let down that window," said she. "The coal smoke makes my cough so much worse."

I am ashamed to confess it now, but I felt the angry blood burn in my cheek, and a flashing of the eyes, as I replied:

"I am quite sick, and wearied, and troubled, and hungry, and thirsty, and crowded, and here you come as an intruder and keep me from the mite of cool, fresh air that I am trying to get. Do you think you are doing as you would be done by?" said I, tartly; and without waiting for a reply, I rose and was letting down the window with an angry crash, as a naughty child would slam a door shut, when she laid her poor wasted little hand on my arm, and said:
"Oh, don't do it then!" and burst into tears, and leaned her head down on her baby, and cried bitterly.

The woman in my heart was touched; but putting on the injured air of a martyr, I compressed my lips, and took up a paper, pretending to read. Pretty soon my eyes grew dimmed. I could not see without crushing the tears often, and I resolved to ask pardon for my unkindness; but minute after minute glided away, and we soon reached her place of destination, and she rose to leave. I rose, too, and the words were on my lips, when a gentleman came to assist her out.

She turned her gentle, tearful eyes upon me with a sad expression, and bowed so sweetly that my hand was almost upraised for the forgivenessthe words were just dropping from my lips—but she was gone. It was too late; and I, a woman, with a woman's heart, was left with that stinging little barb sticking in it, and the sweet words and wasted little hand that could remove it, were gone from me forever. I sank back in my seat and wept bitterly.

The gentleman returned from assisting her, and as the car was full, he took up the place she had vacated. I inquired who the lady was, and he replied:

"Her home is in Wisconsin, and she has returned to the home of her childhood, to die. The whole family of brothers and sisters died of consumption, and she, the last one left, is going too."

Oh! I turned away sick at heart and tried to shut out from remembrance that pallid, appealing face, as I resolved, and re-resolved, never again in this poor life of mine to speak an unkind word .- Ohio Farmer.

A man who practiged somewhat at the bar of a saloon, asked a lady why she was so fond of peeping into a looking-glass. "Sir," said she, "the glasses that I look into help me to improve my appearance, while those you look into injure yours,"

BOOTH AND THE LORD'S PRAYER. Junius Brutus Booth (the father of J. Wilkes Booth) and several friends had been invited to dine with an old man in Baltimore, of distinguished kind-ness, urbanity and piety. The host, though disapproving of theatre going, had heard so much of Booth's remarkable powers, that curiosity to see the man, in this instance, overcame his prejudice. After the dinner was over, some one requested Booth, as a particular favor, and one which all present would appreciate, to read the Lord's prayer.

Booth rose slowly and reverently from his chair. It was wonderful to watch the play of emotion that convulsed his countenance. He became deadly pale, and his eyes, turned tremblingly upward, were wet with tears. As yet, he had not spoken. The silence could be felt. It became painful, until at last the spell was broken, as if by an electric shock, as a right towned ways from the white live a rich toned voice from the white lips syllabled forth, "Our Father who art in Heaven," with a pathos and solemnity that thrilled all hearts. He finished—the silence continued. Not a voice was heard, or a muscle moved, reading, and had sunk into a fitful in his rapt audience, until from a remote corner of the room a subdued sob was heard, and the old man, their host, stepped forward with streaming eyes and seized Booth by the hand. "Sir," said he, in broken accents, "you have afforded use a pleasure for which my whole future life will feel grateful. I am an old man, and every day from boyhood to the present time, I thought that I had repeated the Lord's Prayer, but I have never heard it before—never." You are right," said Booth. "To read that prayer as it should be read, has caused me the severest study and labor for me the severest study and labor for thirty years, and I am far from being satisfied with my rendering of that wonderful production. Hardly one person in ten thousand comprehends how much beauty, tenderness and grandeur can be condensed into a space so small and words so simple. The prayer itself sufficiently illustrates the truth of the Bible, and stamps upon it the seal of Divinity." So great was the effect produced

So great was the effect produced that conversation was sustained but a short time longer in subdued monosyllables, and almost entirely ceased, and soon after, at an early hour, the company broke up and retired to their several homes, with sad and full hearts.

A PROCLAMATION:

WHEREAS It is Excellency President Johnson has issued his proclamation, appointing me (Benjamin F. Perry) Provisional Governor in and for the State of South Carolina, with power to prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper for convening a Convention of the State, composed of delegates to be chosen by that portion of the people of said State who are loyal to the United States, for the purpose of altering ramending the Constitution thereof; and with authority to exercise within the limits of the State all the powers necessary and proper to enable; such loyal people to restore said State to its constitutional relations to the Federal Covernment, and to present such a Republican constitutional relations to the Federal Government, and to present such a Republican form of State Government as will entitle the State to the guarantee of the United States, therefor, and its people to protection by the United States against invasion, insurrection and domestic violence.

Now, therefore, in obedience to the proclamation of his Excellency Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, I, HENJAMIN F. PERRY, Provisional Governor of the State of South Carolina, for the purpose of organizing a Provisional Government in South Carolina, a forming the State Constitution and restoring civil authority in said State under the Constitution and laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim and declare that all civil officers in South Carolina, who were in office when the and laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim and declare that all civil officers in seath Carolina, who were in office when the Civil Government of the State was suspended, in May last, (except those arrested or under prosecution for treason.) shall, on taking the oath of allegiance prescribed is the President's Annesty Proclamation of the 28th day of May, 1885, resums the detics of their effects and continue to discharge them under the Provisional Government till further appointments are made.

And I do further proclaim, declare and make known, that it is the duty of all loyal citizens of the State of South Carolina to promptly go forward and take the eath of allegiance to the United States, before some magistrate or military officer of the Federal Covernment, who may be qualified for administering oaths; and such are hereby authorized to give certified copies thereof to the persons respectively by whom they were made. And such magistrates or officers are bereby required to transmit theoriginals of such oaths, at as early a day as may be convenient, to the Department of State, in the city of Washington, D. C.

And I do further proclaim, declare and make known, that the Managers of Elections throughout the State of South Carolina will hold an election for members of a State, in the city of Washington, D. C.

na will hold an election for members of a State Convention, at their respective precients, on the FIRST MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER NEXT, according to the laws of South Carolina in errec before the secsisin of the State; and that each Election District in the State shall cleat as many members of the Convention as the said District has members of the flouse of Representatives—the basis of representation being population and taxation. This will give one hundred and twenty-four members to the Convention—a number safficiently large to represent every portion of the State most fully.

to represent every portion of the State most fully.

Every loyal citizen who has taken the Anmesty oath and not within the excepted classes in the President's Proclamation, will be entitled to vote, provided he was a legal voter under the Constitution as it stood prior but secession of South Carolina. And all who are within the excepted classes must take the oath and apply for a pardon, in order to entitle them to vote or become members of the Convention.

The members of the Convention thus elected on the first Monday in September next, are hereby required to convene in the city of Columbia, on WEDNESDAY, the 13th way of September, 1865, for the purpose of alteriag and amending the present Constitution of South Carolina, or remodelling and making a new one, which will conform to the great changes which have taken place in the State, and be more in accordance with Republican principles and equality of representation.

And I do further proclaim and make to the great changes which have taken place in the State, and be more in accordance with Republican principles and equality of representation.

And I do further proclaim and make known, that the Constitution and all laws of force in South Carolina prior to the secession of the State, are hereby made of force under the Provisional Government, except wherein they may conflict with the provisions of this proclamation. And the Judges S.

And I do further of the State are hereby required to exercise all the powers and perform all the duties which apportain to their respective offices, and-specially in criminal cases. It will be expected of the Federal military authorities now in South Carolina, to lend their authority to the civil officers of the Provisional Government, for the purpose of enforcing the laws and preserving the peace and good order of the State.

And I do further command and enjoin all good and hayful citizens of the State to unste in enforcing the laws and bringing to justice all disorderly persons, all plunderers, robbers and marauders, all vagrants and idle persons who are wandering about thout employment or any visible means of freed persons will be kind to them, and not turn off the children or aged to perish; and the freed men and women are earnessity considered to the contracts, just and fair, for remaining with their former owner.

In order to facilitate as much as possible the application for pardons under the excepted sections of the President's Annesty Proclamation, it is stated for information that all applications must be by petition, stating the exception, and accompanied with the oath prescribed. This petition must be first approved by the Provisional Governor, and then forwarded to the President. The headquarters of the Provisional Governor will be at Greenville, where all communications to him must be addressed.

The newspapers of this State will publish this proclamation till the election for members of the Convention.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal. Done
