GEN. LEE'S APPLICATION FOR PARDON.—The Richmond Whig, referring to the various published statements concerning Gen. Lee's application for pardon, remarks:

His application for pardon, if we are not mistaken, had been prepared, and was about to be transmitted to Washington, when a super-servicable Judge, holding a Federal Court at Norfolk, caused an indictment to be found against him, with a number of other distinguished gentlemen, for treason. Thereupon Gen. Lee, instead of forwarding his application to Washington, enclosed it to General Grant, with a note calling his attention to what had been done at Norfolk, and remarking that, if according to his (Gen. Grant's) understanding of the articles of capitulation, he (Gen. Lee) was liable to indictment and prosecution for treason, then he did not feel at liberty to make the application for pardon. But if Gen. Grant's understanding was the reverse, then Gen. Lee would be obliged to him if he would forward the petition to the President, Gen. Grant, if we have not been misinformed, responded to Gen. Lee's note promptly, and in the most complimentary and friendly terms, enclosing a letter he had addressed to Washington in forwarding the petition, taking the ground that, under the terms of the surrender, the proceeding at Norfolk was wholly inadmissible. This brought to a sudden close the plan of Judge Underwood to make his name immortal by associating it with a trial in which Robert E. Lee occupied the prisoner's dock, and at the same time brought Gen. Lee's petition before the President in the mode most agreeable to himself and most honorable to his successful antagonist.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE.—We learn from his son, the particulars of an outrage upon Mr. Monroe, of the house of Bulger, Hukill & Co. It seems that about 8 1/2 o'clock, last night, while on his way home, when in the sandy lane below the old depot of the Alabama and Florida Railroad, two guards stepped out from a thicket and halted him. They demanded his pass to be but at that hour. Mr. Monroe then called to his son, who was in a buggy behind, to light a match that he might find the paper demanded, when one of the guard raised his gun to shoot Mr. Monroe's son, but desisted at the instance of Mr. Monroe. His son was ordered to go on home, and Mr. Monroe was taken into the thicket about 150 yards from the road, when they tied his hands behind him and robbed him of his purse, containing about twenty-five dollars. They further attempted to shoot him, which he prevented by throwing up the gun with one of his arms, by which the arm received a severe bruise. They also stuck a bayonet in his forehead and knocking him senseless, left him for dead. Mr. Monroe, when he came to, crawled as near as he could to the Stonewall Hospital, when he cried "murder," which brought some soldiers from the "Hospital," one of whom being a Mason, and recognizing a Masonic pin in Mr. Monroe's shirt bosom, procured a hack and had him carried to his home.

THE DEVIL ON TOP.—Under this heading, and in support of the statement involved, a Northern paper gives a list of recent outrageous crimes. We extract one from a number of the same character, which certainly constitutes an important link in the chain of proof. Under date of the 10th it says:
Early Monday morning, at day-break, the house of Mrs. Sarah Ketchum, a respectable widow lady living at seventy-seven West Fortieth street, New York, was entered by ruffians, who got into her bed-room, with the avowed purpose of outraging her daughter, a young lady of remarkable beauty, who slept with her mother. The daughter succeeded in escaping in her night clothes, and sought refuge at a neighbor's, while the baffled scoundrels seized the mother, choked her nearly to death, and committed an atrocious outrage. Afterwards, by threats of murder if she revealed it, they so intimidated her that upon the case coming up in court she did not testify. Her friends, however, will endeavor to obtain a new trial, as some of the rogues are known.

Sandwich Island dates of August 16 give thirty as the total number of whaling vessels known to have been captured by the rebel pirate Shenandoah in the North Pacific and Arctic Oceans up to the latest dates received. No later captures, however, than those whose names we have already published are reported. Of the thirty, twenty-six were burned and four bonded.

A riot took place among the colored people in Hampton, Va., last Monday night, which was quelled by a detachment from the First District of Columbia Cavalry, under Lieut. W. H. Wonderly. Twenty-one of the rioters were captured. They were all armed with revolvers, cutlasses and carbines, or shot guns.

SUMNER LECTURING ANDREW JOHNSON.—Senator Sumner, in his speech before the Republican Convention in Massachusetts, talked as though he were President of the United States and Mr. Johnson one of his subordinate officials, to whom he was issuing orders.

In one of the New England pin factories 192,000 of those useful little things are made, papered and packed every hour.
