

MISCELLANY

September.
Sweet is the voice that calls,
From babbling waterfalls,
In meadows where the downy seeds are flying;
And soft the breezes blow,
And eddying come and go
In faded gardens where the rose is dying.
Among the stubbled corn
The blithe quail pipes at morn,
The merry partridge drums in hidd'n places,
And glittering insects gleam
Above the reedy stream,
Where busy spiders spin their filmy laces.
At eve, cool shadows fall
Across the garden wall,
And on the clustered grapes to purple turning,
And pearly vapors lie
Along the Eastern sky,
Where the broad harvest moon is ready burning.
Ah! soon on field and hill
The winds shall whistle chill,
The patriarch swallows call their flocks together;
To fly from frost and snow,
And seek for lands where flow
The fairer blossoms of a balmy weather.
The pollen dusted bees
Search for the honey-lees
That linger in the last flowers of September,
When plaintive mourning doves
Coo sadly to their loves
Of the dead summer they so well remember.
The cricket chirps all day,
"Oh! fairest summer, stay!"
The squirrels' eyes askance the chestnuts browning;
The wild fowl fly afar,
Above the foamy bar
And hasten Southward ere the skies are frowning.
Now comes the fragrant breeze
Through the dark cedar trees
And round about my temples fondly lingers,
In gentle playfulness,
Like to the soft caress
Bestowed in happier days by loving fingers.
Yet, through a sense of grief,
Come within the falling leaf,
And memory makes the summer doubly pleasant.
In all my autumn dreams
A future summer gleams,
Passing the fairest glories of the present.

The Columbia Herald, of the 9th instant, says: We heard a few days ago a very laughable idea of one of the lately liberated blacks, concerning the object of the bureau. An old lady of color came into one of the offices, in a city not far from this, and inquired if that was the place the Freedmen's Bureau was kept. On the clerk's replying in the affirmative, she placed herself akimbo and said she had come for her bureau, and she didn't want any little washstand put off on her; she wanted a big bureau with a big glass on top, so that she could see how to fix to go to these pic-nics. The history of the close of the war didn't tell how the clerk managed his part of the closing scene.
