

A Mississippian's Speech—He Goes in for Jones County.

One sturdy man in the Mississippi State Convention—a delegate named Crawford, from Jones County—made his mark as an original talker. One of his speeches was as follows:

"Mr. President—Sir: I have come up here to express the feelings of my constituents on the great subject. I come up here, sir, to represent my constituents where I come from. People hoot and wink up the streets, and say, 'there goes mossy-back from Jones'; but, sir, I have no prejudices; I am disposed to treat my enemies in a more Christian, a more missionary spirit than they treated me. I am a mossy-back, sir, and I stand here today to represent the county of Jones, otherwise known as 'the free State of Jones.'

"But let not people think to insult me with impunity. I love a dog for his faithfulness, but the yelping of puppies I despise. People said that the County of Jones, the free State of Jones, seceded from Mississippi. Yes, sir, we did secede from the Confederacy, and, sir, we fought them like dogs, we killed them like devils, we buried them like asses—yea, like asses, sir! My people down there in the County of Jones, did, in their sovereign capacity, did secede, and did become mossy-backs, sir. We did fight them like dogs, and will kill them like hellions—like hellions, I say; sir. But I didn't come up here to gas, sir, and I surrender my rights to the floor, expressing only the one sentiment, that I stand up for the County of Jones in general; yes, sir, I am for Jones all the time."

At another time, referring to the opposition to the Constitutional Amendment because it did not provide for compensating slave-owners, Mr. Crawford said:

"The principle of the opposition to the section introduced in the report of the committee seems to be remuneration. I agree to that amendment, were it broad enough, but in the essential all the provisos fall short. These provisos have only aimed at the remuneration to certain classes who have heretofore been the owners of African slaves, while I, Mr. President, represent women and children of the Caucasian race, whose cries are now ascending in my down-trodden county for bread. Yes, sir, in my suffering county of Jones, today, the wails of three hundred and eighty widowed women and shirt-tail children are ascending before the God of right, and appealing in tears to the powers appointed for relief; yet in the midst of these facts, it appears that the entire sympathies of this body are directed to that class who are presumptively suffering from the passage of the section under consideration. I appeal, in honesty, to this convention to remember the white race, and not to be wholly absorbed in the African.

COME BACK TO WORK.—Last week a young freeman (not a "freedman") of color, returned to his father's house, after a sojourn in Yankee-land for nine months. He left this place with Gen. Sherman's army in November, 1864. Though born free, and never having known anything of slavery, he was captivated by the idea of freedom among the Yankees, and left a good home, with his father, to try his fortune in distant lands. He tried it. He went to New York and to other places, and, after nine months experience, he has returned, as we have said, last week, content to go to work with his father for a bare support.

This able-bodied young man was born free, but he thought his father was too tight a master for him, so he concluded to unite his fortunes with other colored men of this place, and joined the grand army of runaways that left with Gen. Sherman. He drifted about in the sea of "freedom" for nine months, and finding it a "hard road to travel," returned, like the Prodigal son, to spend the balance of his days in the use of the shovel and the hoe, a wiser and a better man.—Milledgeville Union.
