

MISCELLANY

IMPORTANT FACT.—A letter from Paris to a New York cotemporary, in speaking of the cholera in France, and particularly in the capital of that country, states the fact as an important one, and one which carries immense weight, that with the cholera deaths at near a hundred a day in Paris the total bill of mortality is not increased, the reason being that people take proper care of themselves, and the other ordinary maladies which prey upon human life are not developed. Thus, if people were to eat correctly, clothe themselves correctly, avoid currents of air and sudden transitions from hot to cold, the mortality of the city of two millions might be reduced something approaching to a hundred per cent., or three-fourths its ordinary mortality.

The following populations of the cities of the United States, which number over 50,000, are from official data in the Interior Department. Several of these cities have largely increased since 1860. None, however, so much as Washington, which has, undoubtedly, doubled in population: New York, 805,650; Philadelphia, 585,529; Brooklyn, 286,661; Baltimore, 212,418; Boston, 177,812; New Orleans, 168,675; Cincinnati, 161,044; St. Louis, 160,773; Chicago, 109,260; Buffalo, 81,129; Newark, 71,914; Louisville, 68,033; Albany, 68,367; Washington, 61,122; San Francisco, 56,802; Providence, 50,666.

APPLE AND SAGO PUDDING.—Pare and core as many apples as will set into the dish in which the pudding is to be baked; fill the hole in the cored apple with ground cinnamon and sugar; take as many large spoonsful of sago as you have apples; mix it with a little cold water; turn in as much boiling water as will fill the pudding-dish; stir it all the time till it begins to thicken; then cover it up, and let it stand about two hours, until the sago swells; then turn it into the dish, set it into a pretty hot oven, and bake it two hours. To be eaten with sugar and cream.

The tailor to the King of Italy has just introduced an article that is likely to make a sensation. It is a black velvet dress coat, with jet buttons, and white satin lining. This coat is particularly intended to replace the old-fashioned black cloth dress coat. The waistcoat to accompany it is in white moire or white silk. The pantaloons in light grey cloth, falling over the bottine, which imitates an embroidered silk stocking.

Burning of the Museum.
LETTER FROM MR. BARNUM.
NEW YORK, July 14, 1865.
MESSRS. HERRING & CO.—GENTLEMEN:
Though the destruction of the American Museum has proved a serious loss to myself and the public, I am happy to verify the old adage, that "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," and, consequently, congratulate you that your well known safes have again demonstrated their superior fire-proof qualities in an ordeal of unusual severity.
The safe you made for me some time ago was in the office of the Museum, on the second floor, back part of the building, and in the hottest of the fire.
After twenty-four hours of trial, it was found among the debris, and on opening it this day has yielded up its contents in very good order—books, papers, policies of insurance, bank bills, all in condition for immediate use, and a noble commentary on the trustworthiness of Herring's Fire-Proof Safe. Yours truly, P. T. BARNUM.
