COLUMBIA, S. C. Sunday Moraing. Mevember 27, 1870

It is to be hoped that the Governor will call the attention of the Legislature in his message to the incompleteness of was nudertaken by the late Oscar Lieber, "Mineralogical, Geological and Agricultaral Surveyor of the State." The mining interest of the State has assumed great proportions in the last few years, and the attention of foreign capitalists has been directed to our shores. They have, however, no guarantee of the reports that have gone abroad of the mineral wealth of the country, and eagerly await some official announcement of the extent of the seme. All the States of our Union have their geological survey, either completed or in operation, and the State of South Carolina should not, with such wealth swaiting development, be backward in following in the footsteps of her sisters.

LOSS IN RURAL POPULATION.—The New York journals are deploring the loss of rural population in the Empire State. The Tribune exhibits this loss by a table, presenting the comparative population of the census of 1860 and 1870, in onethird of the Counties in that State, which shows that there has been an actual loss in population, and affirms that "in another third there has been no considerable increase." This journal affirms that as a whole, the rural population of New York "has not increased since 1860, and has increased but little since 1830;" the gain is confessed to be confined to the larger cities and towns, and this interpreted to mean: "More of our people now work in shops and factories, fewer on farms than formerly." Why should fewer work on farms than formerly, when the increase of those who live in cities and towns, who work in shops and factories, creates larger markets and increased demands for farm products? It is not because of a national policy—a protective policy, which wars against the labor of the farmer, and fosters occupation in shops and factories. If labor upon the farm was equally as profitable as labor in shops and factories, would not farm population have increas ed pari passu? those who work on the farm and in the shops and factory increasing in the same ratio? Is it not clear that the shop and the factory is fostered at the expense of the farm? Is not this the whole gist of the protective policy—tax the farmer to enrich those who work in shops and factories? And is it strange, under such a policy, enforced by all the power of the Government, that there should be an increase in the population as to those who work in shops and factories, and a decrease as to the producers who work on farms?

ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERIES. -- Blancort says that the making of plate glass was suggested by the fact of a workman hanpening to break a crucible filled with melted glass. The fluid ran under one of the large flag stones with which the floor was paved. On raising the stone to re-cover the glass, it was found in the form such as could not be produced by the ordinary process of blowing.
Glass pearls, though among the most beautiful, inexpensive and common ornaments worn by the ladies, is produced by a very singular process. In 1656 r Venetian, named Jacquin, discovered that the scales of a fish called bleak-fish, possessed the property of communicating a pearly hue to the water. He found by experimenting that beads dipped into this water assumed, when dried, the appearance of pearls. It proved, however, that the pearly coat, when placed outside, was easily rubbed off; and the next improvement was to make the beads hollow. The making of these beads is carried on to this day in Venice. The These embrace a vast concourse, many beads are all blown separately. By means of a small tube the insides are delicately coated with the pearly liquid, and a wax coating is placed over that. It requires the scales of 4,000 fish to produce half a pint of the liquid, to which a small quantity of sal-ammonia and isingless are afterwards added.

Lundy Foot, the celebrated snuff-manufacturer, originally kept a small tobacconist shop at Limerick. On one night his house, which was uninsured, was burned to the ground. As he contemplated the smoking ruins on the following morning, in a state bordering on despair, some of the poor neighbors, groping among the embers for what they could find, stumbled upon several canisters of unconsumed, but half-baked snuff, which they tried, and found it so pleasant to their noses that they loaded their waistcoat pockets with it. Lundy Foot, aroused from his stupor, imitated their example, took a pinch of his own property, when he was struck by the superior pungency and flavor it had acquired from the great heat to which it had been exposed. Acting upon the hint, he took another house in a place called Black Yard, erected ovens, and set about the manufacture of that high-dried by the Federal Government, and begin commodity which soon became widely known as Black Yard snuff. Eventually he took a larger house in Dublin, and

They had a genuine sensation at Niagara Falls, on Sunday. A lady, apparently about thirty five years of age, well dressed and fine-looking, committed suicide by jumping from the Goat Island Bridge, her body going over the falls. She was stopping at the Spencer House, and had registered her name as Mrs. Hill, from Chicago, Illinois.

MR. PHOBMIX: You, as well as other parties, are bidding for the State printing. Mr. Denby, in the Union refers to parties unacquainted with the printing business, putting infor the work—where did he learn the business, we should like to know. He, also, indirectly appeals the geological survey of the State, that to the colored people; I can assert, positively, that, so far as the colored man is concerned, he made a material difference in the prices paid for labor. The printers received full wages—the same as other printing establishments paid— while the colored man was paid less. If this should he contradicted, we will simply call upon a colored member of the Legislature to prove it. A LOOKER ON.

Correspondence of the Phænix.

GREENVILLE, S. C., November 25. Audy Hill, colored, was executed to-day. between 12 and 1, in the enclosure of the jail lot, in this city, in presence of a large concourse of people. It was expected by many that he would have confessed his participation in the awful deed for which he suffered. True to his wellknown character, even on the brink of eternity, he did not acknowledge his guilt, neither did he positively deny it; but, in a few words, endeavored to involve others. At his own signal, he was precipitated from the platform; very little muscular motion was exhibited. After hanging twenty minutes, the body was examined by Drs. Hoke and Jones, who pronounced life extinct; in ten minutes more, the body was placed in the coffin and removed by his relatives. All arrangements were effectively carried out. Much credit is due to our worthy Coroner-Henry Smith, Esq.-for promptly assuming the duties of Sheriff, in the emergency, and who, aided by his competent deputy, W. T. Shumate, Esq., quietly and firmly performed the unples sant duty imposed by law. A posse of 100 resolute citizens, under command of Maj. T. B. Ferguson, were summoned to surround the enclosure. Everything passed off with the utmost quiet. About 1 o'clock this morning, a fire broke out at the beautiful suburban residence of our estcomed fellow-citizen, Rev. James P. Boyce, in the extreme North-castern part of our city. It proved to be a large two-story wooden building, used partly as a kitchen, rooms for servants, etc., adjacent to the family man-sion. The night was very stormy, and the fire distant, but our fire engines were brought into operation as promptly as possible, and by vigorous and well-direct ed efforts, the mausion and surrounding buildings were saved; but the building on fire was entirely consumed. Loss $2,500—insured for $1,000. M.

THE SPIRIT OF THE AGE.-We often hear the spirit of the age adverted to in an indefinite manner, as though it were a mysterious essence, the influence of which, pervading the world, is understood by everybody. Republicans and Democrats are apt to assert that they embody this spirit—that liberty, equality, and the inalienable rights of man, emblazoning their banners, are the soul of their parties.

But a cool, calm question may arise as to this assumption, which remains to be coolly and calmly answered. If it be wise and judicious for one nation to abjure kingly or monarchial rule, is it in accordance with the genius of a people educated to another form of government, averse to political changes, and attached to the time-honored usages of a long and noble line of ancestors? Does the irresistible spirit of the age demand that these should fall into Democratic or Republican ranks? By no means.

That which suits us, may be repellant to our neighbor, and he is no less a fool than a tyrant, who chooses for a neighbor either his social or political codes. It is well for all men, if possible, to confine their attention to private and per-

The curse of our own country has been a mushroom brood of raw politicians. of whom number among their highest accomplishments their capacity to vote, talk politics and fan excitement. Industrious and honest men, who adhere to their own avocations, ignoring bluster and all the rhodomontade about (so-called) civil rights—condemned by one party and admired by another-are the only truly wise men in a perverse, warmaking generation.

The spirit of the age, forsooth! what is it? Dominion by brute force, fire and sword. Are not these desolating Europe at this very time? Have they not re-cently desolated our own country? We heard, years ago, the doctrine advocated that the world was too enlightened for war—that it was something more savage than modern progress, would tolerate. Vain fallacy! This same modern progress has enriched our soil with dead This same resort to arms is dyemon. ing with blood the aucient soil of Eu-

The spirit of the age is doubtless more to entertain serious doubts whether we shall ever have a pure administration of it, unaffected by sectional and party making his customers pay literally biases. The consequence is, that our through the nose, amassed a great fortune for having been ruined.

The consequence is, that our people, indifferent to politics, are everywhere devoting themselves to the advancement of the material interests of the country, and, if not interfered with by Government, this change in the direction of the national energies may ultimately prove beneficial. We hope so.—New Orleans Times.
