

THE DAILY

PHENIX.

PHENIX.

BY J. A. SELBY

Let our just censures
be our just censures

COLUMBIA, S. C., TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 1, 1876.

Attend the trib event

CHEAP

SUBSCRIPTION

SUBSCRIPTION

TO

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

ADVERTISING

Additional City Items.

FALSE ALARM.—An alarm of fire was raised this morning, about half past 2, by the fire engine No. 14.

Quarantine Warnings.—The Vigilant Boat Engine Company, (colored), Captain Wm. Mitchell, agent, had permission to visit the harbor today.

U.S. Day.—The 4th being a legal holiday, the market will be closed at 8 o'clock A. M.

The Post-Office.—The Post-Office will be open fully from 8 to 9 A. M.

Suspension.—According to custom, the regular publication of the PHENIX will be suspended to-morrow. Should any special news come to hand, an extra will be issued.

Welcoming in the Day.—The youngsters' delight in inaugurating the 4th, last night, through the medium of horns, the crackers, and the city bell started up sleepers at 4 o'clock, this morning.

Found Expensive.—The property owners of the foundry have been discovered, and the parties are not to be forward at once, and have it cared for, where it will be another trial.

STABBING.—A stabbing affray occurred on Bridge street on Saturday morning. Charges of assault and battery had been made by an employee against the wife of his employer, and she, becoming indignant, went for him with a butcher knife and stabbed him several times through the arm.

TRIAL.—The trial will investigate the matter.

THE CELEBRATION TO-DAY.—The colored citizens will celebrate to-day. A procession will be formed in front of the State House, at 9 A. M., and marched to Sancy Park, under command of Col. Wm. Simons, Marshal of the Day, and Assistant Marshal S. B. Thompson, Representative A. J. Jones will read the Declaration of Independence.

TRIAL.—The trial will investigate the matter.

THE CELEBRATION TO-DAY.—The colored citizens will celebrate to-day. A procession will be formed in front of the State House, at 9 A. M., and marched to Sancy Park, under command of Col. Wm. Simons, Marshal of the Day, and Assistant Marshal S. B. Thompson, Representative A. J. Jones will read the Declaration of Independence.

TRIAL.—The trial will investigate the matter.

THE CELEBRATION TO-DAY.—The colored citizens will celebrate to-day. A procession will be formed in front of the State House, at 9 A. M., and marched to Sancy Park, under command of Col. Wm. Simons, Marshal of the Day, and Assistant Marshal S. B. Thompson, Representative A. J. Jones will read the Declaration of Independence.

TRIAL.—The trial will investigate the matter.

THE CELEBRATION TO-DAY.—The colored citizens will celebrate to-day. A procession will be formed in front of the State House, at 9 A. M., and marched to Sancy Park, under command of Col. Wm. Simons, Marshal of the Day, and Assistant Marshal S. B. Thompson, Representative A. J. Jones will read the Declaration of Independence.

TRIAL.—The trial will investigate the matter.

THE CELEBRATION TO-DAY.—The colored citizens will celebrate to-day. A procession will be formed in front of the State House, at 9 A. M., and marched to Sancy Park, under command of Col. Wm. Simons, Marshal of the Day, and Assistant Marshal S. B. Thompson, Representative A. J. Jones will read the Declaration of Independence.

TRIAL.—The trial will investigate the matter.

THE CELEBRATION TO-DAY.—The colored citizens will celebrate to-day. A procession will be formed in front of the State House, at 9 A. M., and marched to Sancy Park, under command of Col. Wm. Simons, Marshal of the Day, and Assistant Marshal S. B. Thompson, Representative A. J. Jones will read the Declaration of Independence.

CARPET-BAGGER

Anticipating the Result of the Fall Elections.

Disappointed.—An order has just been issued, prohibiting all parties from bathing in Hampton's Pond, or encroaching upon the grounds. This will disappoint many individuals, who expected to spend the day about there.

CHARGE.—A. Montague was committed by United States Commissioner Wilkes, for attempting to pass counterfeit United States currency.

Private McEvoy was fined $1 and costs by Justice McCord for assault and battery on George Washington.

Trial.—Justice Marshall held out Albert Gardner in the sum of $100, for indications of injury done to a stable.

Trial.—Justice Thompson issued warrants for the arrest of George Washington and John Volney, charged with stealing a pair of boots, valued at $12, and a police warrant for Anthony Bradley, who was arrested and had his case continued.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN.—Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

the leather words, peace is fully restored. The details are to be arranged, but the understanding is that Patterson is to be satisfied. Chamberlain is to receive the nomination for Governor. R. B. Elliott will be the Lieutenant-Governor. Dunn is to be Comptroller-General again. The members of the senate and party Cardozo will be expected to hear that he is booked for the Treasury. Judge Carpenter will subside, and be Attorney-General. Governor Chamberlain will go to the South on the 4th of March, and Elliott will be Governor. Hoge, Wallace, Rainey and Smalls are to be re-elected, although Patterson wants Carpenter instead of Hoge, and the matter is not fully determined. Bowen will represent Charleston, and Ed. Mackey will look elsewhere for a situation. Judge Mackey is to be elected Judge, while Stone is booked for to go to the Legislature and be Mr. Speaker. The above is all that is definitely fixed as yet, but there is to be another convocation of Columbia, I believe shortly. It was the subject of remark among the clans at a meeting, that this schedule would not suit the News and Courier, but the gentleman settled that by remarking, with a wink that "money heals the sore."

I have just heard that the Union Herald is to be resuscitated, revived and enlarged; that Tom Cavender will be permitted to draw a salary from it, and write occasional editorials. The old Senators whose terms expire will be returned. Woodruff and Jones will be clerks and public printers, if they want it. Only Moses and Whipper are yet unprovided for. It has been stated that Gov. Chamberlain himself had no part in this programme, and the proceedings were to be subject to his approval. What he will do remains to be seen. Grave doubts are entertained of his acquiescence.

Marshal Bazaine has published in Spain an account of the part acted by him in the late Franco-Prussian war; special prominence is given to the siege and surrender of Metz, and he endeavors to vindicate his conduct as a commander.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.

THE R. R. ONCE AGAIN. Senator, a correspondent of the Sundry San writes: "This much I learned as a fact from one of the Chamberlain men, who was so clafed that he was like to burst with the developments. You may rely on what I tell you. If I could give you the name of my informant you would have no hesitating in giving your own name, and in fact, there is not even a sign of the place where it was cracked. The lion and the little limbs all repose quietly together.