successfully launched on Thursday, one week ago to-day.

The "two hundred and forty-sixth day of the siege" is chronicled as the quietest that the city has known for a long time. Not a shell was thrown at the town, and not a gun was fired at any of the hostile batteries which bristle around the entrance of the harbor.

VARIOUS ITEMS.

The Richmond papers of March 10th announce the presence of a Yankee gunboat and two transports, on York River, near West Point, and state that the object of their visit has not yet been ascertained.

The Fayetteville Observer says that seven Yankee deserters, sent to work on the mines near that place, re-deserted on the night of their arrival, and that five of them have been recaptured.

The Richmond Sentinel alludes to Col. Dahlgren as having "lately died 'the death of a soldier, with the disgrace of a felon."

The same paper denounces the negligence which allowed the capture at Smithville, near the mouth of Cape Fear river, of Capt. Kelley, Chief of Engineers to Gen. Hebert, by a boat load of Yankees, who slipped up past the forts.

REPORTED CAPTURE OF THE OUTER DEFENCES OF MOBILE.

Eight deserters arrived at Folly Island, last Saturday, and reported that Admiral Farragut had captured Fort Powell, below Møbile, with a garrison of over one thousand men. At last accounts from Northern sources, Farragut was attacking that work, with a good prospect of capturing it, and the expectation of soon reducing several forts above it.

Kilpatrick's raid was successful in all respects except so far as the possible capture of Richmond may have been anticipated. His columns penetrated to within two and one-half miles of Richmond, when, the enemy having made formidable preparations for defence, they withdrew with small loss. Great quantities of military stores were destroyed, with bridges, telegraph wires, &c. Col. Dahlgren, a son of the Admiral, and who lost a leg at Gettysburgh, led a detached column, and in some severe fighting in King and Queen county was killed. A portion of his command was captured. His body, according to rebel admissions, was treated with great indignity, the fingers were cut off for the sake of the rings, and after being dragged and kicked about naked, it was buried without shroud or coffin.

EXTENSION OF THE TIME FOR PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES.

General Gillmore has received the following Circular Telegram from the War Department, and has published it for the benefit of the troops in this Department :

"Commanding General, Department of the South, Hilton Head, S. C .: Congress has extended time for payment of the bounties, heretofore authorized, to first of April next.

"Re-enlisted Veterans will receive them ac cordingly, to that date. T. M. VINCENT, A. A.G."

EXPEDITION TO BULL'S BAY .- A small force from Gen. Terry's command sailed from Stono Inlet a week ago 'yesterday, for the purpose of making a reconnoissance of Bull's Bay. This harbor was the destination originally chosen for the Dupont-Sherman expedition, and is about twenty-five miles north of Charleston. The expedition of last week, comprising a dozen vessels, from both branches of the service, entered the Bay and landed without opposition from the few pickets in that vicinity. After remaining for twenty-four hours, sending out several reconnoitering parties, and accomplishing the object of their mission, the force returned. . •

COMMODORE ROWAN .- The promotion and confirmation by the Senate of the galiant Captain Rowan, of the New Ironsides, to the rank of Commodore, is only a tardy recognition of his distinguished services as an officer in our Navy. Since the beginning of this war he has doubly earned the honor, to which his previous years of service alone entitled him. Upon the Potomac, when that river was vigilantly blockaded by the enemy-at Roanoke Island, where his dash and energy won all the reputation which Ca Stringham gained-and especially before Charleston, where he now commands, he has always borne the part of a true patriot, a brave officer and a Christian gentleman. May he long remain at the head of the South Atlantic Squadron !

ACCIDENT AT THE ORDNANCE YARD.-While a party of workmen were engaged in withdrawing the powder from a 12-lb. spherical case shot, at the Ordnance Yard, last Thursday, the shell exploded, and three men were injured. Their names were as follows : J. H. Martus, ordnance sergeant, U. S. Army, severely wounded in left hand and leg; Robert Williamson, lately of Hamilton's Battery, seriously in left arm and side ; and Con. Daily, laborer, slightly wounded. Two or three others were knocked over, but were not much hurt. That no one amid the crowd of workmen and bystanders was killed, may be considered wonderful.

SUSPENSION OF LABOR AT FORT CLINCH. -Owing to the non-appropriation of the requisite funds by Congress, work has en suspended upon Fort Clinch, at for the past year has had the direction of the work, has received orders to "close up the concern." His laborers, of whom there were a large number, have reached this post and entered the service of the Quartermaster.

General Orders, No. 34, in our advertising columns, prescribes the terms of enrollment, and it will be seen that ablebodied colored men who do not volunteer and take the bounties are to be drafted.

DRAMATIC .- The Union Theater was opened on Monday evening, by the Barton Dramatic Association, composed of enlisted men in the 48th NY. regiment. The initial performance, all things considered, was a great success. The Association have incurred much expense, and have been most indefatigable in their labors, to fit up a convenient and commodious theater building.; and we are happy to state that their first entertainment was patronized by a large, remunerative and appreciative audience. The building itself is a wonder, with its large auditorium, elegant boxes, capacious stage, beautiful proscenium, varied scenery and extensive properties. Mr. C. L. Harrison, Scenic Artist and Costumer, and Mr. A. J. De Haven, Property Man, deserve much credit for energy and skill in their departments. All the arrangements are admirable, from the ventilating contrivances to the touches on the scenic canvas which heighten the effect of any theatrirical representation. It would be unfair to criticise the evening's performance, with first-class theatricals in large cities as a standard, but we can say with truth that we have seen professional actors do far worse with much better facilities, and never saw mere amateurs, under such unfavorable circumstances, do so well. Much of the success is doubtless due to the experience of Mr. James White, the Stage Manager, who has the advantage of a familiarity with the profession, and manages the stage business exceedingly well. The performance on Monday night was introduced by an impromptu but ap-

Mr. White, who welcomed the audience, promised the company's best efforts to entertain, returned thanks to several officers, prominent in their aid to the enterprise, and detailed some of the circumstances of the undertaking, in a style not at all stagy, nor embarrassed, nor affected. After Gen, Gillmore's Grand March, by an efficient orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Henry Murphy, Robert Macaire and The Spectre Bridegr som were produced in a satisfactory manner, with a good cast, with an amusing song, and a splendid tableau, most creditable to the Scenic Artist and Property Man. Gen. Vogdes, Gen. Terry and Gen. Foster were present, and headquarters was represented by the most of Cen. Gillmore's staff. The performance announced for last evening was postponed till to-night. The bills for Friday, Saturday and Monday evenings are published in our advertising columns.

SERENADES .- The Post Band, under the leadership of Mr. Murphy, paid Gen. Terry the honor of a serenade at the Port Royal House on Thursday evening. It was the most fitting compliment the Fernandina, Fla. Capt. A. F. Sears, who band could offer the General, to whom it is indebted for its existence, and for such tutelage, during its single year's practice, as has made it one of the finest musical organizations in the army. Col. Howell and Lt.-Col. Fuller were also the recipients of similar honors.

moved, responded in a manner suitable to the occasion. The sword, which was farnished by Tiffany, & Co., New York is very rich and costly, the hilt and mountings on the scabbard being of heavy and richly carved silver, and the sword knot and tassel of fine gold lace and bullion.

CHANGE IN THE ORDNANCE YARD .---Where Hamilton's Battery was formerly encamped-where the pioneer theater of Hilton Head was located a year ago-a new ordnance yard is soon to be established. The buildings pertaining to the old one on the beach, are, we understand, to be removed, and the site to be occupied by handsome edifices as officers' quarters.
