SINGULAR CASE OF FIRE.—The Boston Atlas says the following fact may be useful, not only in guarding against a similar occurrence, but in suggesting one among many causes of fire, which are, undoubtedly, often wrongly attributed to incendiarism: A few days since, a gentleman in the vicinity of Boston observed that the tassel to the shade of his chamber window was badly burned, and in a manner which gave no indication of the cause. He failed in his enquiries, and no person in the house could give him any information. A morning or two after, the domestic who was attending to the room, ran down in haste, exclaiming that the chamber window was on fire. An examination explained the mystery. In front of the window, which looked easterly, stood a shaving glass affixed to a moveable stand. A magnifying glass on the back reflected the rays of the sun, bringing them to a focus on the window; and whenever they struck on wood they burned into it, charring the frame in many places. A piece of paper placed against the widow was set on fire, and, indeed, the heat was so intense that it instantly burned whatever it touched. When first discovered the frame of the window was blazing. Had the fire extended, it is not probable that the origin of it would have been discovered, and it would have been placed among those incomprehensible causes which can find no other solution than wilful mischief.

ARMY AND NAVY OF FRANCE.-The standing army of France numbers over four hundred thousand soldiers. Three hundred thousand are at home: eighty thousand in Africa; twenty thousand at Rome. All these troops are well trained that city. effective men, constituting perhaps the best equipped army, in all particulars, of the world. They are drawn from the middle classes by a peculiar system, making it impossible that there ever be a failure of men. About eighty thousand too Provost of the town was hang in chains and are disbanded each year, of whom but a sm: portion re-enter the ranks. . Seven years is their most the whole population of the Empire are in turn trained to military life. By retaining any year the eighty thousand usually distanded, tem of conscription, among all classes, of such as have been seven years in the army, a rigidly trained and effective force might at any time be them, or to approach them by sea. enrolled, such as the great Napoleon never could have commanded.

The French Artillery amounts to thirty thousand well trained and disciplined men, and five hundred large field pieces, admirably horsed and mounted. Besides these guns belonging to the regular army, near a hundred trophies taken in the Imperial and Algerian wars, are ready to be brought into active service, if necessary.

The French Naval force amounts to three hundred and thirty vessels, manned by thirty thousand sailors, mostly of French birth. Of these vessels one hundred and fourteen are steamers; forty ships of the line. The fleet of France is principally stationed in her ports or crushing in the neighboring waters.

. The French Army and Navy are, at the present time available by being concentrated at home. A large force is not necessary at Rome; that in Algeria might, without danger, be diminished. A few vessels are on voyages of survey and discovery, of which the French are very fond, but could be recalled at any moment. No people have more more accurate ideas of the physical world : their maps, charts, estimations, &c., are considered most valuable. - Savannah Courier.

Corrox Prospects. - George G. Henry, a well-known commission merchant in Mobile, and one too favorably known for correctness in his estimates of previous cotton crops and prices, in a letter to the editor of the Cotton Planter, estimates the crop at 3,000,000 bales,

"Should the receipts run up to 3,000,000, the crop has been then at least 250,000 bales heavier. I have doubted, taking all things into consideration, if indeed it really were heavier. Last year at least 250,000 bales of cotton came to hand, which, depressed throughout the cotton region, is held for other years. This crop will lose that sort of aid. It will all come forward, I believe, as I do not know of any feeling in favor of holding cotton back in the country anywhere.

"Well, with all the favorable concurring elements, if it is found the crop will not exceed 3,000,000, middling cotton, I think will go to 7d, before the 1st of July in Liverpool; and if the worms, which made a pretty respectable commencement last year, should acquit themselves with their usual taste and impartiality, (and they are fully due this year, as it is the seventh since 1846,) why, prices will go to 8 or 9d, for middlings next fall.

" Middlings which we sold this time last year for 6 3 4c., we are now selling at 8 1 2c., and such as were selling at the same time in Liverpool at 4 1 4d., and were at last dates, selling at 5 7-8d. this year-a difference here of 1 3.4c. higher. The pressure of our re- esting, the more important cases being left for the ceipts, and our anxiety to sell, put us lower than we should be evidently if these receipts could have been diffuse throughout the year.

"I think, therefore, the prospects of the cotton planter are extraordinarily propitious; that cotton must advance this season further, and prices will also be good another year.

"How much good depends, as usual, on accidents! If the worm does his seventh year's work, 15c. next year will be a common price.'

THE LIVERPOOL MARKETS - The sales of Cotton for the three days have comprised 14,000 bales of which Speculators and Exporters have taken one thousand each. The oports during the same period amounted to 75,000 bales. Messrs. Wright and Gaudy, in their Circular received by this arrival, quote Cotton as steady with a fair business up to Tuesday, the 8th inst., when a decline of an ighth of a penny took place in consequence sry. of the unfavorable tenor of the Ningara's American advices, the market closing dull and gloomy.

The quotations are-Fair Orleans 61-4d; Middling Orleans 558; Fair Upland 57-8d; and Middling Upland 5 1.2d.

Flour was in moderate demand, and had experienced a further decline of sixpence per bbl. of 196 lbs.

Trade in Manchester had slightly declined. HAVRE COTTON MARKET.-The advices from Havre brought by the Atlantic are to the 7th inst. The demand for Cotton, however, was but moderate and there was little or no change to notice as operators were awaiting the receipt of the Niagara's advices. For Rice and Ashes there had been a moderate demand from the trade and for export.

Foreign ITEMS. - In Lombardy the confiscation of the property of those suspected to be connected with late insurrectionary movements had commenced. The frigates Comberland and St. Louis had taken many fugitives on board.

Outbreaks are threatened throughout Ausria and Germany, and great military precautions are being made by the respective Governments of those countries. Arrests and excutions are of daily occurrence. One of the victims who suffered death at Mantua was an old man aged seventy.

The Court.-The Court of common pleas is now in session at this place, Judge Frost presiding. So far the proceedings have been uninterend of the week. The court during the first of the week has been occupied trying assault and battery cases, in which the point is, "who struck the first blow?" which is about as hard to deter | Morphine, Hydriodate of Potash, Iodine, &c., &c. mine in some cases, as who struck Billy Patterson? - Darlington Flag.

DANAWAY, on last Saturday, the 12th inst., my boy RICHARD, answers to the name of Dick, a white mulatto about five feet 3 or 4 inches high, tol erably stout built, and about twenty-five years old, withstraight light colored short hair, has a very sulky appearance, and answers quick and short when spo-ken to. When he left he had on a black overcoat and a pair of common negro cloth pants, a low crown dove colored furd hat. The boy has a very down look—I have had the word "Slave" written on his fore-head with India Ink, just above the eye-brows, though I have no doubt he will try to hide it by tying some hing round his head, or he may put a plaster over it. He will be certain to try and pass for a white man.— The above reward of Twenty-five Dollars will be paid for his delivery in any jail in the State.
