

Dreadful Assassination.

The following are the details of a horrible assassination in the Island of Java, contained in a letter by the last overland mail:— It appearing for some time past that peculations in the coffee stores of the Government in Ponorogo, Madiven, had been going on, an investigation was ordered. The native store-keeper, (dissatisfied or perhaps alarmed, and wishing to be discharged before an enquiry was instituted,) in his official correspondence with the controller addressed his last letter to the controller, without any other title of respect, as is usual in the proper style of a native; and the moral sense of men of correct principles must approve it. The favor with which the law has been received by other States—the efforts made to add the same law to the statute books of other commonwealths, is an evidence of its approval by the good, the wise and the benevolent of our country.

Restriction upon the traffic in intoxicating drinks is not contrary to the genius of democratic governments. Democracy teaches to act for the greatest good of the greatest number—to legislate against whatever is immoral—whatever saps the foundation of social virtue or weakens the power of independent action. Intemperance does more than this. It spreads a moral blight over society; it deluges the land with pauperism and crime, breaks up families, peoples prisons, destroys hope, and having destroyed the life of its victim, leaves his immortal spirit a wreck upon the ocean of eternity. And does not republicanism teach the necessity of bringing the arm of the law to the support of weak, erring men? Should it not in all its power proclaim the doctrine that the State must protect individuals—nay, masses, from evils so dire? Does it not forbid the law to sanction the wholesale destruction which fills the land with mourning?

Even revolutions so sudden and so total as that effected by this law, will not in this case react and thus increase the evil it seeks to remedy. Reflection only is wanting for the common sense of men to assent to its truth.—Change of the direction of capital will destroy opposition. The rapid decrease of the army of drunkards will destroy the assaults of the law. But the voice of woman, the greatest sufferer by intemperance, is in its favor. She holds it as a harbinger of future safety. Let her no longer look upon her sons, the pride of her life, with fear and trouble, as she attempts to read their future destiny. Woman is omnipotent when she casts her influence into the scale. In favor of this law she can act without leaving her sphere; with her husband, her children and brothers, around the circle of her own fireside, she has only to exert her influence, and the law is safe; and drunkenness will be banished from the land.—Southern Organ.

A violent war is raging for the possession of a tract of land near Venice, opposite St. Louis, Mo. The land, embracing three or four hundred acres, was sold to a wealthy citizen by the heirs then owning it, all of whom signed the papers of sale with the exception of one, who was then absent: believed to be dead, probably—and entirely overlooked. Subsequently, the prodigal returned, and learning the existing state of affairs, sold his claim to another party, which other party is endeavoring now to obtain possession of the property, so as to compel the adverse claimant to institute suit. The purchasers each have employed a number of hands to take possession, the armies on the ground for the past week numbering each about 40 members. They are well armed with pistols, guns, knives, &c., but as yet have had no general battle. Both have built shanties, which stand side by side on the disputed ground, and thus far have satisfied themselves with slight skirmishes, maintaining strict military discipline, standing guard, &c. To carry on a war properly, however, necessitates heavy expenditures; and we understand the campaign has caused an outlay of $1,000 or more, to one of the parties, in a single week. Under such circumstances, success may be measured in proportion to the length of the parse.

Homicide.—We understand that Mary Moil, an English miner, who recently returned from California to this District, where he left a wife and children, came to his death on Saturday week, by a gunshot wound inflicted by his father-in-law, Stephen Jordan. The particulars can only be elicited by a judicial investigation, which will take place probably at the fall term of our court.—Cherish Gazette.

Money. Money is often dreadfully abused and called the root of all evil, by some who act so inconsistently as to show that they look upon it as the next thing to the "balm of Gilead," if not a little better. With most people it is a barometer of affection. To the monied man they are all cordiality; they could almost squeeze the blood out of his fingers in giving him the grasp of the hand. Thus they exhibit the ardor of their feelings along down the scale of wealth and competency, till they reach the freezing point of poverty. It is thought by some modern theorists that money is the soul of friendship, so that when it is said friendship is but a name, that name is money. But instead of such a train of thoughts as this, we intended to indulge in a very different one. The man who would deny the power of money, and the universal devotion to it, ought to be watched, lest in some moment of lunacy he might harm himself or others. What we intended to set forth is, that the love of money is a good thing. Men ought not to be idle, for an idle brain is the Devil's workshop. Of all things in life, the love of money is the greatest antidote to idleness. What if one love it a little too much. That is very natural. If a man were suffering for want of a dinner, it would be a great relief to him to be able to raise the money to get it, if he could not get it without it. That would impress him with its value. It would impel him to some exertion to raise the means for a supper, or the next day's dinner, and thus by degrees he would be forced to habits of industry. This case illustrates many others on a larger scale.

If people were not devoted to making money, there is no telling what they would do. We believe they would sink into barbarism.—Thousands of them would resort to caves and hollow trees for shelter, and get their living as other savages have done and still do. Of course there are some evils attendant upon the accumulation of money as upon almost every thing else. A rich man will sometimes oppress a poor one. He will sometimes worship his money more than his God. Men occasionally go so far in their devotion to it, as to neglect all public improvements and useful institutions and enterprises. Others, though very few, become misers and actually die of cold, poor living, and perturbed imaginations. One of this poor, miserable, trembling class of money-worshippers, fell into a swoon upon seeing a snake issuing from his chimney, caused by a small fire which some one had imprudently lit. He thought his house was on fire and his hoarded wealth was gone. Some people will see a man ruined, whom perhaps they call a friend for fear they might lose an insignificant sum which would relieve him. All such persons use their money without the possession of those traits which morally entitle them to possess it. They will have their reward.

But our object has been to take a philosophic and somewhat moral view of the mere influence of money in causing men to exert themselves in a variety of useful, profitable and industrious ways, by which means they are kept out of evils far greater than those which flow from its possession. The sublime idea of the good man who exclaimed upon seeing a railroad train for the first time, "great are the works of God, but those of man are greater," never would have beamed upon his soul, but for money. But we shall pass by all the monuments which it has erected as evidences of its triumphs, because the single view referred to was all we intended to present in its vindication, against the abuse of those who take care to fill their pockets with it as fast as they can. Georgia Home Gazette.

The best evidence that can be adduced in favor of the efficaciousness of Hoodland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, is the unprecedented demand for them from all parts of the Union; and although there may be many compounds prepared and represented as being worthy of a liberal patronage, yet we feel constrained to remark, that the vast number of testimonials with which the worthy doctor has been honored, by persons of the highest character and respectability, who found it necessary to have recourse to his preparation, is testimony sufficiently conclusive, that it is a more effectual remedy for the almost immediate relief of those afflicted with that dreadful malady, dyspepsia, has never been discovered.

POISONING. Thousands of parents who use a Vermifuge composed of Castor Oil, Calomel, &c., are not aware, that while they appear to benefit the patient, they are actually laying the foundations for a series of diseases, such as salivation, loss of sight, weakness of limbs, &c. In another column will be found the advertisement of Hoodland's Medicine, to which we ask the attention of the friends of humanity. In Liver Complaints and all disorders arising from those of a bilious type, should make use of the only genuine medicine, Hoodland's Liver Pills. Do not be deceived by cheap imitations, but seek for Hoodland's Worm Syrup and Liver Pills, and observe that each has the signature of the Proprietor, J. N. HOODLAND, as none else are genuine.

ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC WONDER. IMPORTANT TO DYSPEPTICS. DR. J. S. HOUGHTON'S PEPsin, THE TRUE DIGESTIVE FLUID, prepared from RENNIN, the FERMENT OF THE STOMACH OF THE OX, after directions of BARON LIEBIG, the great Physiologist, Chemist, by J. S. HOUGHTON, M. D., Philadelphia. This is truly a wonderful remedy for INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, LIVER COMPLAINT, CONSTIPATION and DEBILITY, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the GASTRIC JUICE. Pamphlets, containing Scientific evidence of its value, furnished by agents gratis. See notice among the medical advertisements.

TO THE SICK. For the effectual rooting out from the system of a disease brought on by indigestion, biliousness and immoderate use of the bowels, it is a widely and well known fact that WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS are the great PANACEA. Throughout the entire South, these Pills have long been held in the highest respect, both by private individuals and by the Medical Faculty of our country. Southern fevers and Southern diseases generally, yield to their influence at once; and the unfortunate victim to "earthy ill and woes" is made to thank Heaven that a sovereign balm has been provided. Let each try them for himself and if the medicine fails to satisfy, the experiment shall cost him nothing. THOS. J. WORKMAN, Agent for Camden, S. C., and sold by Druggists and Merchants throughout the country. June 28—1y.

$25 REWARD. RANAWAY, on last Saturday, the 12th inst., my boy RICHARD, answers to the name of Dick, a white mulatto about five feet 3 or 4 inches high, tall, slender, stout built, and about twenty-five years old, with straight light colored hair, and a very sulky appearance, and answers quite for a white man. When he left he had on a black overcoat and a pair of common negro cloth pants, a low crown dove colored fur hat. The boy has a very down look—I have had the word "Slave" written on his forehead with India Ink, just above the eye-brows, though I have no doubt he will try to hide it by trying some thing round his head, or he may put a plaster over it. He does not know any style of Churn. He is only considered previous to the last Monday in January next, when a final settlement of the estate will be made. Feb 3—4m SAMUEL BASKIN, Adm'r.
