Professor Alexander C. Barry's TRICOPHEROUS.

O R Medicated Compound, for preserving, fastening, of softening and promoting the growth of the hair, elemning the head, and curing discusses of the skin, and external cuts, breises, de. The common consent and external cuts, breises, de. The common consent of all who have used Barry's Tricopherous, whether for the improvement and invigoration of the hair, or for eruptions, cuts, brnises, &c., places it at the Lead of all preparations intended for like purposes. This is no ill considered assertion. Figures and facts bear it out. The sales average a millions of bottles a year: the receipts, in eash, $100,060. This year the busi-ness will exceed that amount. The number of orders which daily arrive at the depot and manufactory, 137 Broadway, New York, addressed to Profes or Barry, enclosing cash, and requiring immediate attention would scarcely be bileved. The wholesale demand is from 2,000 to 3.000 bottles a day, probably exceeding that of all the other hair preparations conjoined. The popularity of the article everywhere, and the liberal terms to deavers, combine to increase its sales with great rapidity; and improvements in its compo-sition, made at considerable expense, adds to its repu tation as well as its intrinsic value. Nor does the length of time which seed may retain their vitality; bear any relation to the tenacity of life of the parent plant. Wheat is well known to be a tender and delicate plant, and that the vi-tarity of its berry is often destroyed on the stalle by a few days of unfavorable weather;

this fact, the inference is rather incidentally

Nut Grass

That the nut grass can scarcely be eradicated from the soil, we are well aware ; but this is dependent of the length of time that its nuts may retain their vitality. We are, however, of the opinion that it may be utterly destroyed. If an agent can be found which will destroy the ditality of the nuls or prevent their maturi-ty, then the object in accomplished. A suc-cessful experiment to do the latter, was made in this town a few years ago. A gentleman whose garden was overron with grass, and who had resorted to every other expedient without even partial success, made an experiment thus: He dag up and manared a spot. about six feet in diameter in his yard, and set it out thickly with nut grass, which he suffered.

to grow for two years; in which time, as the saying is, it was as thick as the hairs on a cow's back. In the spring of the third year, as fast as it appeared above the ground, he shaved it off with a hoe, by which he effectually prevented the growth of foliage. In the spring of the fourth year, there were but a few scattering plants, which he treated in the same manner. In the spring of the fifth year, nor since, has a spear of hut grass appeared. Encouraged by this success, he adopted the same plan with his garden; and the second year he was but little troubled with nut grass. Such a result might readily have been inferred from the known laws which govern vegetable economy. It is well known that there are few plants or even trees, which can bear being stripped for one summer of their foliage. Foliage is essential to maturing the nut of the grass which we are considering, and if you prevent this, you de stroy the plant, unless there are matured nuts of a previous year's growth on the soil which are not in a position to vegetate, but which subsequent tillage may bring into such a position.

Salt has been used to destroy the vitality of the nut, but with very partial success, in consequence of the large quantity required, and the difficulty of getting it in contact at the depth which the nuts penetrate. We have thought that perhaps the most efficient, as well as the least expensive, agent which could be applied to destroy the vitality of the nut of this plant, would be guano. We have heard of no experiment made with this article, but should infer of it intermixed with the soil, would prove a be taken at about blood heat. paragen. Particular attention should be given to such parts as the mimal cannot reach. I have seen both cattle and hogs cleaned in this manner, by one or two applications when they have been fairly alive with the vermin. Such treatment is of essential advantage to neglected, mangy pigs in the spring of the year, whether infested with vermin or not, as the oil has a great tendency to remove the dry scurf with which the body is always covered in such cases, preventing their growth by closing the pores of the skin, and obstructing that healthy, though insensible perspiration so natural to all creatures .-- Exchan.

> TO PREVENT A COW FAILING IN HER MILK -Wash the cow's udder and teats with pure cold water before milking, and then milk her morning and evening as dry as possible; negligence in this precaution, is one of the causes of cow's failing in their milk. The cow should, if possible, he milked by the same person, and while the process is going on, a small quantity of hay should be placed before the animal --This furnishes employment for her jaws, and draws her attention from what is going on, and the milk is in consequence yielded freely.
