Selected Poetry.

AUTUMN. BY LONGFELLOW.

O, with what glory comes and goes the year!-The buds of spring-those beautiful harbingers Of sunny skies and cloudless times-enjoy Life's newness and earth's garniture spread out; And when the silver habit of the clouds Comes down upon the Autumn sun and with A sober gladness, the old year takes up His bright inhertuace of golden fruits, A pomp and pageant fill the splendid scene.

There is a beautiful spirit breathing now Its mellow richness on the clustered trees, And, from a beaker full of richest dyes, Pouring new glory on the autumn woods, ing in warm light the pillar'd clouds. d dipping in warm ngue the phila ins up her purple wing; and in the vales tle wind-a sweet and passionate woo Kisses the blushing leaf, and stirs up life Within the solemn woods of ash deep crimsoned And silver beech, and maple yellow-leaved,-Where autumn, like a faint old man, sits down By the way-side a-weary. Through the trees The golden robin moves; the purple tinch, That on wild cherry and red cedar feeds,-A winter bird -comes with its plaintive whistle, And pecks by the witch-hazel: whilst aloud From cottage roofs, the warbling bluebird sings; And merrily, with oft repeated stroke, Sounds from the threshing floor the busy flail.

"O what a glory doth this world put on For him who, with a fervent heart, goes forth Under the bright and glorious sky, and looks On duties well performed and days well spent! For him, the wind, ay, and the yellow leaves, Shall have a voice and give him eloquent teachings. He shall so hear the solemn hymn that Death Has lifted up for all, that he shall go To his long resting place without a tear.

zine, an English work: Hogs. - Athur Young, the celebrated agriculturist, made, about seventy years back, several experiments to test the most profitable mode of fattening hogs. He found potatoes given raw, whole peas, peas crushed and given dry, and beans both whole and crushed, alike unprofitable. The mode that succeeded best with him was one he never tried before-that of keeping the food till sour before being given. He observes, "Hog-cisters for keeping wash are common in Sutlolk, and it is remarkable that the hogs thrive greatly on it when many months old and quite sour; tried the experiment in fattening, of reducing peas, bar ly, and beans to flour, in the proportions of 25 bushels barley, 18 1.2 peas, and 5 1.2 beans; mix them with water till rather thicker than milk; four bushels of corn, which make about five of meal, appeared to be a proper quanti ty for a vessel that holds 100 gallons; filied it up with water, and stirred it twice a day with a rudder till sour, and during use."

In one experiment, 4 hogs, a cross between a Chinese boar and Berkshire sow, (the most profitable breed that A. Young was acquainted with) eat 17 bushels of barley soured, and gave a profit of £1 18s 9J. besides the ma

A. Young observes on this method "that the barley or peas should be very dry and good, they may be ground quite to flour. If they break coarse, the meal does not mix well with the water, which is an essential point. I have tried it of various degrees of thicknessfrom thin cream to a thick hodge podge; but I think it does best when it is the thickness of common cream-that is, five bushels of meal to one hundred gallons of water.-Much attention should be used in stirring, before the hogs are fed, that it may be equally thick; otherwise much meal will be left at the bot tom; and more water must be added." This mode, so highly advocated by Young, is now practiced rather generally; still it may prove novel to some of your readers. A correspondent of Arthur Young's describes the only mode in which potatoes can be applied profitably in fattening-that of cooking them, which rende s the root more digestible, and deprives it of its deleterious properties; and then of mixing some other substance with it, abounding in ingredients in which the potatoe (itself principally ctarch) is defficient.

Three large hogs were fattened with a mix ture formed of 32 bushels of potaties (80 lbs. to the bushel) I cwt. of bran, and 5 bushels tail barley. "The potatoes were clean washed; and boil ed in a furnace; they were taken out hot and beat to a mummy, and at this instant the bran and ground barley added, in the proportion of about 12 1-2 lbs. of the latter to one bushel of potatoes. This is the general practice of this county (Hampshire) and potatoes are not supposed to answer for fattening hogs in any other way. The bogs were finished up with 16

Although potatoes are more nutritious than any other roots or tubers-containing one fourth of their weight in solid matter, while swede turnips contain less than one tenth, while turnips one-fourteenth, mangold one-tenth, car rot one-sixth, and parsnip one-fif h-yet at the present price they are decidedly dearer than corn for feeding, as in these the proportions of organic matter are reversed; and barley, beans, and peas, contains only one sixth to one-eighth of water.—Thus badley meal at 4s. a bushel would be quite as cheap as potatoes at 1s.; and unless potatoes can be afforded at the latter price, they will be a dear and un-profitable food. But probably the real cattle potatoes-as the Yam, the Ox-noble, the red and yellow Cluster, and the Rohan-could be grown at this price; crops affected with the disease could be purchased for even less money per sack, and preserved-if boiled, mashed, and well sprinkled with salt in air-tight cisterus-for a considerable time. Small refuse potatoes, and those left over at the close of the season, could be often purchased at a very Early Seed Corn.

Farmers are too negligeat in selecting corn for the next planting. The usual way is to wait until the crop is gathered, and then, while husking, to select some of the best looking ears for seed; but this is not the best way. My friend. Farme D., is some that noted as the passessor, or a value of youlety of corn, and, discovered of the being three with on Lerthins the usual varieties, his neighbors consider them.

selves fortunate if they can get their seed of him and he is sometimes annoyed by the repeated drafts upon his choice se ection of ears. Now, what is the secret of this superiority? Let me tell you, and then let me say, "go thou and do likewise." Farmer D. has always planted the common kind of corn, the same as his neighbors; but for quite a number of years he has made it a practice to pass through his field every few days after his corn begins to turn, and select the ears that first tipen, and care fully hask and hang them up. Each lot he keeps by itself, so that he can tell which came off first, which second, &c; and when he plants in the spring, he uses first that which he first selected. By continuing this course of pravtice, he now has the satisfaction of having hicrops about thee weeks earl or than his neigh nor, besides being of a superior quality. Try it this year, my friends, and also bear in mind the fact that the same principle will apply to all kinds of seed. If you wish early peas, beans, potatoes, &c., just take little pains to select the earliest ripe, and look out for them next spring when planting time co.nes. From much bservation, I am convinced that more depends upon the selection and proper care of the seed than upon early planting. Have your seed and ground ready, as d'do not be in a hurry to plant until the ground is well warmed. A vey old man has told me that it was time to lant corn when the bobolinks made their first appearance, and not before. Just bear this in mind, in connection with the selection of you -end - Correspondence Maine Furmer.

Edward Harrison's

Unequaled Flour and Grain Mills. IMIIS Grist Mill has never been equaled, either in its simplicity, portability, compactness, or beauy of design. The frame work and casing are of cast on, as also are the hoppers. A casting consisting of triple-shaped base, with three columns resting uc it, constitutes the frame-work which supports the easing. The easing is the cylindrical portion, or main body of the Mill, resting upon, and secured to the columns, and serves the purpose of inclosing and holding the stones in their places. The easing is made in two equal parts, and each part is composed of a plate and rim. The edges of the rims are closely fitted together and are secured by three bolts. frame and easing thus connected readily admits the advantage of three babit metal boxes for the support of the spindle. One in the center of the base, and one in the middle of either plate of the casing. arrangement renders the parts peculiarly adapted to stand the pressure of grinding without yielding in the least degree, and therefore it is that these Mills are known to grind the same quality of flour and meal, whether fed at five or twenty-five bushels per hour. The spindle being secured firmly and rigidly to the running stone, takes its bearings in the three boxes above named, and sustains the weight of the stone and the pressure of grinding, by resting upon a moveable step inserted in the center of the base. The hopper, which holds two bushels of grain, is supported upon the top of the Mill, by three pillars which screwed into the upper pl te of the easing. The grani is fed and regulated by an ordinary shoe and a slide in the hopper. The stones are driven by a pulley of fifteen inches diameter, and eight inches face, wich is placed upon the lower end of the spindle between the columns. The arms of the pulley are constructed in the form of spiral wings, or the purpose of driving a strong blast of air through apertures in the easing, in contact with the stones, to keep them cool

One of these entire Mills, including the hopper, with stones two feet and a half in diameter, and each of them cut from a solid block of burr, weighing in all about 1,300 pounds, and warranted capable of grinding, in the best manner, twenty-five bushels per hour of flour or meal, may be packed in a cask thirty-four by forty-two inches inside, and the transorted in safety to any part of the world.

Farmers will find them adapted to be driven by their iorse powers. And although they are large enough to do the greatest amount of work, they will also grind two bushels per hour of fair meal with a one orse power, and more in the same proportion. The demand for a Mill which can be driven by horse pow er, and grind grain to advant ge, without getting out of order, has not heretofore been supplied; mills of peck measure dimensions do not seem to be big enough. The objection to this Mill, if any, is not-that it does not work well, but that it costs too much, perhaps; but others must decide about that, as there are enough cheaper ones. They have given satisfaction in all cases where they have been tried, and are now used in place of common mill stones, in many of the best establishments throughout the country, with decided advantage, both in the power required and in the quantity and quality of the flour and meal. The first remiums have always been awarded them, over all empetation, at all the Fairs where they have been xhibited, viz: two Gold Medal's from the American Institute, in 1849 and 1850, and a Silver Medal from ie Massachusetts Charitable Mechanical Association, n 1850; Diploma in 1851, from the Middlesex Me chanics' Association, and a Premium of $40, from the New York State Fair, September, 1852.

Persons desiring a further description, will be furnished with a circular containing all necessary information on application to W. W. TRYON & Co., gents, at Camden, .. C., who will soll the Mills at the Manufacturers prices.
