entirely excluded such provision for the country press. They have, however, a fair prospect in the revival of making on another try.

Notwithstanding we were not among the privileged few, or rather, may we witness the contest for victory between the River and Flood Whig.

It was our pleasure while in Charleston, to make the acquaintance of Hon. Mr. McKnight, Esq.

On Friday we called on several of the merchants in Charleston, and found them in anticipation of an increased business.

We shall walk with peculiar delight the drawing of that period when the Southern people shall no longer be dependent on the aid of the North.

The great misfortune in this doctrine of non-resistance is the imagination you are bound to touch the pockets of the Southern people.

On Saturday morning we left the city, in company with a goodly number of acquaintances and friends.

Our first object was to visit the city of Columbia, and to see the residence of Mr. W. M. Crosson.

On our route we were struck with nothing that seemed grand, glorious and peculiar.

Gale's Carriage Emporium.

This establishment has become one of the real attractions of Charleston. While the inventive and mechanical genius of the country has developed...

Notwithstanding the claim of Mr. Gale, we are not aware of any more assertion, there are others who are ready to attest that he is fully able to demonstrate the truth of what he asserts.

It has been our good fortune recently to take a hurried walk through the lower suburbs of Mr. Gale's establishment.

Those who, in visiting the city, contemplate purchasing an equipage, will find it to their interest to go to Mr. Gale.

The annual Report of the President and other Financial Agents of the South Carolina Rail Road.

President Caldwell has certainly managed the affairs of the Road with success and practical good sense.

The Gross Income, as shown by State-ment No. 3, is $1,595,655.72.

And there is left in Net Income of $27,618.11.

And carried to Surplus Income Account.

The total amount is somewhat greater than in 1858.

By resolution adopted by the Stockholders at their last annual meeting, the Directors were instructed to adopt measures for reorganizing the Road.

It is a wise one, and the efficient effect of the Road will be directed to its accomplishment.

position of an idle, un sympathizing spectator.

Will our people tamely submit to this practical segregation of Virginia from the other Southern States? Will they consent to see the Southern States meeting in conference for the purpose of devising means for the protection of Southern rights...

The wrongs and insults so recently inflicted upon Virginia, the invasion of her soil and the murder of her citizens, have occasioned the proposal for a Conference of the Southern States.

Under such circumstances, a refusal upon our part to unite with those who have so indignantly and exclusively espoused one quarrel, would alienate from us the good feelings of the whole South.

The New Speaker.

A matter of information to our readers, we publish the following sketch of the career of Speaker Pennington, from a forthcoming edition of Lammie's "Dictionary of Congress."

John William Pennington was born in Newark, New Jersey, where he has resided all his life.

He was educated at the University of the City of New York, and was admitted to the bar in 1838.

He was elected Speaker of the House of Representatives in 1855, and served in that position until 1857.

Pickens.

It is altogether probable that the contemplated meeting on Monday next, to take initiatory steps in regard to a district subscription to the railroad, should be a full one.

We have succeeded in much of our purpose this week in the very able speech of Mr. Manning, the Commissioner to Virginia.
