

(WRITTEN FOR THE BANNER.)
"The Flowers that Bloom by the Wild Sea-Shore."

The flowers that bloom by the wild sea-shore,
Mid the splashing spray and the breakers' roar,
While the loud, wild roar of the crested wave,
Sings a requiem now of their early grave.
They bloom like the maiden's cherished thoughts,
Of the Love her early hopes have sought,
Like an angel's face through the stormy sky,
Or the cherished smile near the saddened sigh,
They stand on the verge of Flora's land
Like the sentries of her flowery band,
The first approach of the blast to meet,
The first of the morning's beams to greet;
No zephyred breezes soft and slow,
Waft music o'er this rock-gilt shore,
While the storm's rash fury, wild and loud,
Leaps by in its haste from cloud to cloud;
But oft when the sun has gone to rest,
And Heaven in her starry robe is dressed,
Low zephyrs sigh wild, sweet and slow
O'er the flowers that bloom by the wild sea-shore—
They bloom like the touch of an angel's lyre,
Or the strains that's raised by love's sweet fire.
Oh! may I see, may I sing once more
Of the flowers that bloom by the wild sea-shore.
Darlinton. CONSTANCY.

MARY.—Who does not love the common, yet beautiful name of Mary? It is from the Hebrew, and means a "tear-drop." What sweet and joyous hours of other days—what pleasing associations does not the very name call up in every heart! Who knows aught ill of Mary? Who does not love the name? If there is anything gentle and valued, and womanly, what Mary that possesses it not? Was it not Mary who was "Last at the Cross, and earliest at the grave?" And was not Mary the mother of the Savior of the world?

MOURNING STORE.—The N. York Sun says:—Among the improvements of the times, we find in England mercer shops, in which articles of mourning are exclusively sold, and to be consistent the storekeeper and his clerks are all clad in the habiliments of woe. A gentleman who calls in to enquire if he could have a pair of dark grey gloves, was requested to step into "the mitigated affliction department," an inner room, where second mourning was kept.

Prentice tells the following—of course there is more fancy than fact in it:—

One of the papers recounts an anecdote which perhaps illustrates as clearly as anything could do it, the amount of intelligence exercised in some parts of the country by the voters who decide great questions at the polls. "How does your county go this year," asked a zealous politician of a Berks county (Pennsylvania) man. "Well I can't tell much," replied the honest Dutchman, "de man what tells us how to vote has not been round."

SMOKING.—"What harm," said Mr. Puffwell, "is there in a pipe?" "Nun, that I nose on," regular down easter, who has more of the philosopher in him than the scholar, 'scept smoking leads to drinkin', and drinkin' leads to drunkenness. Now, perhaps drunkenness might fetch on the bile, and the bile gives you the 'specky, and the 'specky gives you the consumption, and the consumption fetch on old death, that's all. Now Mr. Whiffer, put all them ar things in your pipe and smoke 'em.

Good humor is the sky of the soul on which every star of talent will shine more clearly, and the sun of genius encounter no vapors in its passage. 'Tis the most exquisite beauty in a fine face—a redeeming trait in a homely one. It is like the landscape harmonizing with every color, mellowing the glories of the bright and softening the hue of the dark.

The Dutch proverb saith, Stealing never makes a man rich; alms never makes a man poor; and prayer never hinders a man's business."

A POINTED BLOW.—An Individual sent for a physician, and after detaining him for some time with a description of his pains, aches, &c., he thus summed up:—
"Now, Doctor, you humbugged me long enough with your good-for-nothing pills and worthless syrups, they don't touch the real difficulty. I wish you to strike the cause of my ailment, if it is in your power to reach it. "It shall be done," said the doctor, at the same time lifting his cane and demolishing a decanter of gin that stood upon the sideboard.

DR. HULL'S
Vegetable Fever and AUGE and anti-Fever PILLS.
Among all the advertised remedies of the day for ague and Fever, or Chill and Fever, none seem to meet with such rapidity of sale and give so much general satisfaction, as Dr Hull's celebrated Pills. Wherever they have been introduced, all tonics in whatever shape, all mixtures and Pills and preparations of every character, designed for this disease, have been discarded, and Dr. Hull's AUGE PILLS have been received as the only permanent cure.
They stop the Chills and Fever the first day, and do not sicken the stomach or operate on the bowels. Young children and persons of all ages, sexes, and conditions may use these Pills, not only with safety, but with the certainty of success.
Reader, please notice the following testimony from your own friends and neighbors:
"Abbeville District, April 9, 1846.
"This is to certify that I have sold several dozen boxes of Dr Hull's Vegetable Fever and AUGE PILLS within the last three years, and have used several boxes in my own family, and I have never known them fail curing the Chills and Fever in a single instance. I would recommend all those persons subject to Chills and Fever to use Dr. Hull's Pills.
[signed] JOHN KELLER.
Mr Lewis Covin, of Abbeville District, says he has known the Chills and Fever of twelve months' standing completely cured by taking only half a box of Hull's AUGE and Fever Pills.
Mr B Gassoway, of Anderson District, writes, in the fall of 1844, "I was severely attacked with the Chills and Fevers, which continued on me until February, 1845. I tried several remedies, and was for some time under the treatment of a Physician, but received no lasting benefit from his prescriptions; my disease continued to increase in the frequency and severity of its attacks. I at last had recourse to Dr Hull's Vegetable Fever and AUGE PILLS, and in using only one box was permanently cured, and have remained in good health ever since. I think they are a superior remedy in Chills and Fevers, and would cheerfully recommend them to all persons subject to this complaint."
We might give scores of references and certificates, but we refer the reader to our agents, where they may obtain a pamphlet (gratis) giving a full description of the medicine and its manner of use.
Price, $1 per box.
Dr. Hull's Cough Lozenges.
Every family in the United States should keep a supply of Dr Hull's Cough Lozenges in the house, not only as a preventive medicine against the consumptive tendencies of the climate, but as an effectual remedy in all cases of Coughs and Colds.
Ceder Grove, Abbeville Dis. Apr 19, '46
The Travelling Agent of Drs Hull and Spencer left us about eighteen months since what he thought a supply of Dr Hull's Cough Lozenges. Since then we have sold them all out and could have sold as many more if we had been supplied. We have made use of them ourselves and in and in our families, and consider them an excellent medicine for the relief of Coughs, Colds, and all Pulmonary complaints.
