They | went in pursuit of the other two, and while they were absent he untied himself with his teeth and escaped. They told us where the murdered men lay. We marched forward in double quick time, and when we arrived at the swamp there they lay sure enough, stripped entireley naked, and chopped and mangled in the most horrid and savage manner. The man who escaped said there were 70 of the murderers, each man with a pistol and hatchet, and that they went into a ranche or town some distance from here. We returned to Rinconada and made them feed us and our horses, and at 1 o'clock in the morning charged into this ranche and took every d-l of them. I was sent round the town in search of skulkersfound several-two of them were ploughing with oxen, and I drove them from their ploughs, thinking at the same time twenty of them would not drive me from mine in old Baltimore county. We marched just our own number (nineteen) into the castle, prisoners. This was about twenty miles

THE BAPTISM OF HENRY CLAY. A notice was very generally circulated step. He has always been known to have quires filling up .- Edgefield Advertiser. the highest respect for the institutions of Christianity, and to have been a decided be-Christian religion-his amiable and now deeply afflicted wife, having for many years been an humble follower of its Blessed Auving as he does, a mile aud a half from the church, Mr. Clay has always been a regular attendant on its services, and for two or three years past, having had more leisure from public duty, his attention had evidently been turned to the high considerations connected with things spiritual and eternal -his life having been devoted so intensely to the good of others, as scarcely, until this period of retirement, to leave him an opportunity to think of himself. But he has at length consecrated his great powers to God. He was baptised in the little parlor at Ashland, on Tuesday afternoon, the 22d June, together with one of his daughters in-law, (the other being already a member of the Church,) and her four children, by the Rev. Edward F. Berkley, Rector of Christ Church, Lexington. The baptism was ad-ministered privately, for the reason that the congregation of Christ Church are replacing their old church with a new edifice, now in rapid progress of erection, and are not suitably situated for the most solemn and descent administration of this rite in

When the minister entered the room on this deeply solemn and interesting occasion, the small assembly, consisting of the immediate family, a few family connexions, and the clergyman's wife, rose up. In the middle of the room stood a large centre-table, one side of the room hung the large picture of the family of Washington, himself an Episcopalian by birth, by education, and a devout communicant of the Church; and immediately opposite on a side-table, stood a let of withered flowers hung upon his head, nesses of such a scene. Around the room were suspended a number of family pictures, and among them, the portrait of a beloved daughter, who died some years ago, in the triumphs of that faith which her noble father was now about to embrace; and the pic-ture of the late lost son, who fell at the battle of Buena Vista. Could these silent lookers-on at the scene about transpiring have spoke from the marble and the canvass, they would heartify have approved the act which dedicated the great man to God. There was a deep emotion pervading that small assembly, at the recital under such circumstances, of the sublime ordinal of the Church, and every heart thrilled with a solemn joy when the merciful and glorious covenant was sealed, "in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

This act will be publicly ratified at the visitation of the Bishop, on the third Sunday in July, in the Apostolic rite of Con-

What a noble and powerful recommendation of Christianity to the world! to see this great old man, the greatest man of his day, in all the vigor of intellect, and ardency of feeling, bending the knee before God, and with the simplicity of a little child, receiving upon his head a handful of water, I had a full view to day of Mount Oraza- in the name of the holy Trinity!—thus attesting his faith in the Christian religion, and his determination to live and die by its sacred principles.

One of the prominent sins of the present day is, that the great men of our country, as your teeth ache, and in all the towns among a body, although it may be, for the most part, speculative believers in Christianity, are, nevertheless, not regardful of religion, and of God. Let them review their groundlet them look at the tremendous influence they wield in behalf of irreligion and of evil, and consider the mighty power they might think ten would be nearer the mark; and exert for religion and for good. Let them as for strength, I could go into it with one fix their eyes upon the practical testimony exert for religion and for good. Let them hundred men, and bid defiance to Mexico. to the truth and value of Christianity, given by the giant in intellect, whose name stands at the head of this paper, and, go and do

A MEXICAN BLANKET .- Among other curiosities in the possession of Capt. Brooks, which he kindly submitted to us for inspection, we saw a Mexican Blanket, such as is treacheous, blood-thirsty hounds, than there centre, through which the wearer slips his is in a rabid dog. They will reach out one head, and it falls in graceful folds around the person. It affords quite a warm coverthe other plunge the assassin's stiletto to ing in the winter, and is impenetrable to your heart. I have seen so much of their rain. The blanket in the possession of Captain B., he informs us, is an ordinary They not only murder and rob their victims, one, but it appears to be quite a warm article, and doubtless, rendered him some good service. A first rate Mexican blanket is a of heaven. Would any but a savage foe very beautiful and substantial article of commit such acts of violence to decency, to dress, and costs several hundred dollars.—say the least of? But our gallant captain Until we saw the blanket above mentioned, is made of the right material to cope with we had no idea, that it was so becoming to them. "Even his name" is equal to a host, the wearer. We respectfully suggest to and we cannot coax even a d.c-nt fight out the fashioners of dress in our midst, to make up some garments after this style, and we believe that they will take well. Certain we are, that if one should be offered to us, we would take it.

Attention is called to the advertisement through the public papers of the country of Captain Brooks, who is appointed as a some two or three years ago, to the effect recruiting officer at this place. EXTRAORDINARY INLAND CITY.—The liever in the divine authenticity of the New Orleans National, in its sketch of Col. Donaphin's late remarkable expedition, gives the following: About the time Col. Donaphin made his treaty with the Navathor. When the weather permitted it, li- jos a division of his command was entirely out of provisions, and the Navajos supplied his wants with liberality. A portion of the command returned to Cuvano. Major Gilpin's command, together with Col. Donaphin, went to the city of the Sumai Indians, living on the Rio Piscow, which is supposed to be a branch of the Gila, made a treaty of peace between the Sumai and Navajos, and then returned to the Rio del Norte. These Sumais, unlike the Navejos, live in a city containing probably 6,000 inhabitants, who support themselves entirely by agriculture. The city is one of the most extraordinary in the world. It is divided into four solid squares, having two streets crossing its centre at right angles. All the buildings are two stories high, composed of sunburnt brick. The first story presents a solid wall to the street, and is so constructed that each house joins, until one fourth of the city may be said to be one building. The second stories rise from this vast solid structure, so as to designate each house, leaving room to walk upon the roof of the first story between each building. The in habitants of the Sumai enter the first story of their buildings by ladders, which they draw up at night as a defence against any enemy that may be prowling about. In this city was seen some Albino Indians, who have no doubt given rise to the story that there is living in the Rocky Mountains on which was placed, filled with water, the a tribe of white aborigines. The discovery magnificent cut-glass vase, presented to Mr. of this city of tha Sumai will afford the most C. by some gentlemen of Pittsburg. The emigrants have sent an express to the fort asking for a company to relieve them from their delicate position. The Indians have still in their possession upwards of 400 mules belonging to the Government.

"NORTHERN ALLIES .- We published some time since the resolutions of the Legislatue of New Hampshire, approving of the Wilmot Proviso, and instructing their Senators in Congress to support it. The Legislature of Maine have followed in their wake, and have passed the following resolutions, which we find in the Albany Atlas, (Mr. Wright's organ,) to which they were ransmitted by the Hon. Hannibal Ham-

Resolved, That Maine, by the action of her State Government, and by her representation in Congress, should abide cheerfully by the letter and spirit of the concessions of the Constitution of the U. States; at the same time resisting firmly all demanbs for their enlargement or extension.

Resolved, that the sentiment of this State is profound, and almost universal, that the influence of slavery upon productive energy is like the blight of mildew; that it is a moral and social evil; that it does violence to the rights of man, as a thinking, reasonable, and responsible being. Influenced by such considerations, this State will oppose the in-troduction of slavery into any territory which may be acquired as an indemnity for claims upon Mexico.

Resolved, that an acquisition of any free territory, whether by purchase or otherwise, we deem it the duty of the General Government to extend over the same the ordinance of seventeen hundred and eighty-seven, with all its rights and priveleges, conditions and Ressolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to suppot and carry out the princi-ples of the resolutions.

Resolved, that the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of the above resolutions to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, and to the Governors of the several States.

It will be recollected that the resolutions of New Hampshire and Maine are the responses of Democratic Legislatures to the Messages of Democratic Governors.

Look out for Counterfeits.-We received by Tuesday evening's mail from a subscriber at Anderson C. II., a counterfeit Eight Dollar Bill on the Bank of Charleston. The signatures are remarkably well executed, but on comparing it with a genuine bill of the same denomination its baseness can be readily detected; as the plate is entirely different from that of the genuin .

We are informed that the Bank has called in its issue of this denomination of bills, in consequence of the many counterfeits that are in circulation .- Hamburg Journal.

SINGULAR .- At a recent sacrament at the Seceder Church, at Cadiz, Ohio, while the members were at the table, some six or eight persons were attacked with a violent fever so suddenly, that they were compelled to leave the church for home and a sick bed. The disease spread rapidly through the congregation; upwards of one hundred members have since been taken dangerously ill-whole families have been prostrated and a considerable number have since died.

THE MONKEY AS A RIDER .- A late friend and neighbor of mine in the country, kept a monkey who took to riding his hogs, especially one of them which he commonly singled out as fittest for his use, and leaping upon his back, his face toward the tail, he whipped it unmercifully and drove it about until it could run no longer. The hogs lived under such continual terror of him that when the monkey first came abroad in the morning they used to set up a great cry at the sight of him.

A well known nobleman once had a wild horse which nobody could ride. "I know not what your lordship can do with him," said one, "but set the monkey on his back." So they put a pad on the horse and set the monkey upon it with a switch in his hand, which he used upon the horse and set him into a furious kicking and galloping, but Pug kept his seat and exercised his switch.—The horse lay down on the ground, but when he threw himself on one side the monkey was on the other. a tree or a bush occurred on one side the yards left the country, refused to have any monkey skipped to the other side till at last who was to have been confirmed in the intercourse wit the modern Mexicans, look- the horse was so fatigued and broken spirit-

Speech is an imperfect delineation. The lovliest verses are those which we cannot write. The words of every language are incomplete; and every day the heart of a man finds in the shades of his sentiment and imagination, or in the impression of visible nature, ideas that his lips cannot express. The heart and imagination of a man are, in fact, like a musician forced to play on an octave of notes, the infinite variety of which the whole scale is susceptible. It is better o be silent; silence is the finest poetry at certain moments of existence: the spirit hears it-the Creator understands itthat is enough.—De Lamartine.

In Greenwood, Abbeville District, (UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE BAPTIST DENOMI-NATION.)

The Board of Trustees would take this opportunity to express their high gratilication at the success with which their efforts have met in endeavoring to establish the above school. Having labored under much inconvenience the past session for want of comfortable buildings in which to accommodate the Instructors and their pupils, they are happy in being able now to announce to the former patrons of their school, and to the public generally that the large and commodious building, situated in a convenient part of the village and on a most delightful spot, which they have erected, is ready for the occupancy of the Female school, the past session having closed in it. The Male school will also be conducted in a convenient and comfortable house pleasantly situated. The board would avail themselves of the present opportunity of returning their most cordial thanks to the friends who have so liberally patronized them, and solicit a continuance of their patronage: At the same time, with great pleasure, repeating, what they have on a former occasion entire confidence in the high moral character and literary qualifications of the several Instructors in both department of these schools.

The 2nd session will commence on the 26th Instant, and from the number of pupil the past session, (40 in the Female and 26 in the Male department,) and from promise of others, the Board feel assured that the schools will be more prosperous than during the previous session. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls, the principals of the Female school, having expressed their determination to locate perminently in this place for the purpose of imparting instruction in the various branches of Female Education, the Board would respectfully command them to the favorable notice of all friends of Female education and bespeak for them that liberal share of public patronage, which they so justly merit. Having determined also to employ every year in the male department, an Instructor in every respect, worthy of public confidence, (as has been their good fortune the present year in the person of Mr. W. L. Harris,) they feel confident that the schools under their control will prosper being established upon a rmanent basis.

Good board can be obtained at $8 per month. Terms of Tuttion, in the Male department, per session of five months.
