

The Smiles I Love to See.

BY MAY LILIAN.

I love to see an infant smile:— Like sunbeams at their play, So purely bright and free from guile, Its every ray: A heart untainted by the earth, Speaks thus in childhood's day; Ere innocence and truth and worth Have fled away. I love to see a woman's smile:— In times of misery It comes to soothe our sorrows, while O'er life's wild sea,— Bright as the sun's awaking beam, It springs at Love's decree, And makes the lover's faintest dream Reality. I love to see a true friend's smile:— Oh! this I dearly prize; For tho' the world my name revile, And I despise, Yet here I meet the changeless one, Who all distrust defies, And hopes my foes have trampled on, Again arise. I love to see a mother's smile:— 'Tis ever fond and true; Its brightness will the day beguile Of darkest hue; And as I through the passing years, My onward path pursue, 'Tis this my every footstep cheers, When friends are few. I love to see a sister's smile:— From the bright scraph's heaven It glances 'mid the stars awhile In cloudless even: And here on earth another is, Whose every smile is given, To guide me to the port of bliss, When tempest driven. I love to see a Christian's smile:— When life's ethereal rill Is turgid with earth's weary toil— And woe and ill— And even when Death tears away Those who were cherished still, That patient, upward look doth say, "It is Thy will!" I love to see the dying smile:— Sweetly the light doth play Around that lip—ne'er touched by will Through all life's day; List! with unearthly melody, The spirit leaves its clay, And upward soars so joyously, Away! away!

RAY-RACKS FOR MORE STABLES.—It is a disputed point of what form the hay-racks in a work-horse stable should be. The prevailing opinion may be learned from the general practice, which is to place them as high as the horse's heads because, as it is alleged, the horse is thereby obliged to hold up his head, and he cannot then breathe upon his food. Many more cogent reasons, as I conceive, may be adduced for placing the racks low down. In the first place, a work-horse does not require to hold his head up at any time, and much less in the stable, where he should enjoy all the rest he can get. 2. A low rack permits the position of his neck and head, in the act of eating, to be more like the way he usually holds them, than when holding them up to an high one. 3. He is not nearly so liable to pull out the hay among his feet from a high rack. 4. His breath cannot contaminate his food more in a low than in a high rack, because the greatest proportion of the breath naturally ascends; though breathing is employed by the horse to a certain degree in choosing his food by the sense of smell. 5. He is less fatigued eating out of a low than from a high rack, every mouth-full having to be pulled out of the latter, from its sloping position, by the side of the mouth upward. 6. Mown grass is much easily eaten out of a low than a high rack. 7. And lastly, I have heard of peas falling out of their straw, when eaten out of a high rack, into the ears of the horse, and therein setting up a serious degree of inflammation. Stephen's Book of the farm.

How to EAT AN EGG.—It is not generally known that by the usual mode of introducing the salt, it will not mix or incorporate with the egg; the result is, you either get a quantity of salt without egg, or egg without salt. Put in a drop or two of water, tea, coffee, or other liquid you may have on the table at the time, then add the salt and stir. The result is far more agreeable; the drop of liquid is not tasted.

HIGHER.—A noble motto for a young man—higher. Never look down. Aim high—push high—leap high. If you cannot reach the stars you can have the satisfaction of drawing near them. He who stands on an elevated position is sure to catch the first rays of the glorious sun. So he who is always stepping up and reaching up will first catch the favors and blessings of heaven as they descend. There is no which we gaze that gives so much the upward and continued progress of culture and robust virtue of young men. When chains of the vision is clear—the affections and purer and still higher objects nobler purposes be elevated be at joy future generations the same glo.

Cotton Press.

We offer to the citizens of Abbeville and the adjoining Districts, our improved SWINGING FULCRE PRESS. The invention was not the result of mere chance, but of long experience and mathematical calculation. As to power, it is equal, if not superior, to any thing now in use. It requires less timber, easier framed, and put up in less time, and with less danger than a screw; and the Press will last as long as any timber protected from the weather or above ground. From the number of these Presses which are now in use from North Carolina to Mexico, we feel no hesitancy in saying that they will supercede the Screw; and there are ten of our Presses up to one of any other, and we feel justified in saying fifty to one. The average duration of Screws in this District is not more than four and a half or five years; and as there is not less than five hundred Screws, see what is paid out in one year. For single or individual rights, $15.00. We offer the District rights for sale on very low terms, which we consider a greater speculation than there is in the country. Persons wishing information respecting the Press, will find me for two weeks to come at the residence of Mr. James Cobb. I will build one more Press in this District for $50, every thing found to hand. Invented in Barnwell District, S. C. PROVOST, Patentee. June 9 15 1f
