Newberry Association.

At the meeting of this association on Monday last, the following resolutions, introduced by J. H. Giles, after some eloquent discussion, were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That all means, consistent with the honor of South Carolina and the present and future safety of the institution of co-operation of her sister States of the South in any measure of resistance to Northern aggression, which she may adopt in wisdom and with that prudent forbearance which has hitherto characterized all her acts in relation to her wrongs.

Resolved, That the honor of South Carolina requires that the State Convention, which has been called into being by the people, and clothed with their power, shall meet as early as practicable after the close of the next session of the Legislature, to consider the mode, measure, and time of resistance.

Resolved. That if, at the assembling of the State Convention, at the time designa ted in the forgoing resolution, there are no reliable and certain indications that longer delay will secure that co-operation all desire, then the honor and future security of South Carolina demand that she immediately secede from this Union, and "assume among the powers of the earth the separate and e qual staction to which the laws of nature and nature's God entitle her."

Resolved, That, from present indications, the separate secession of South Carlina is the only hope of securing the united resistance of the Southern States to past aggressions, and will thus become the efficient remedy for their past wrongs, and the sure guarantee of their future safety and independence.

The following gentlemen were nominated and elected delegates to the convention in Charleston: James C. Crosson, A. C. Garlington, Robert Moorman, H. Summer, P. Caldwell, Dr. W. H. Harrington, Dr. G W. Glenn, John P. Kinard, D. Nance, Gen. J. H. Williams, F. B. Higgins, Dr. Peter Moon, Col. B. F. Griffin, Col. James W. Ducket, and Micajah Harris.

At present he has a grand project in his head to induce Congress to give back to the Vera Cruz Rail Road Company the 6 2-8 per cent. duties invested in the Company, and in order to gain this object, the members of Congress will be tempted with the plan of a rail road to Acapulco. The present road leading out of Vera Cruz, only two miles long, has already swallowed some millions of dollars, say all the 6 2-8 per cent. duties on imports for the last eight or ten years. A brother of the Minister holds the right of a rail way as far as Medellan. The people of Vera Cruz, according to another letter in our hands, are decidedly hostile to the Tehauntepec road, so much so, that they were about to protest against it at the capital. It was thought, however, their protest would be of no avail.

The same correspondent mentions the failure, at the city of Mexico, of the great house of Drusina & Co., and says that their credits were offered at Vera Cruz at from SPARTANBURG, April 10. We have had for some fortnight past a great deal of rain. Several severe thunder storms have passed our neighborhood. On Saturday night last, the section of country some ten miles north east of our town was visited by one of the most terrific storms of wind and rain, accompanied with thunder and lightning, of which we have any experience in this latitude. Timbers of almost every size were swept down; orchards were literally rooted up; houses of every dimension and use were torn to pieces; the scene was one of imminent danger and dismay, while the footsteps of this dread minister of angry nature were marked with desolation and ruin. This is indeed quite extraordinary, so early in the season .- Spartan.

Re-Vaccination and Small Pox.

Messrs. Editors: - Medical men are very often asked if one vaccination is sufficient to protect the system through life from Small Pox-or how often it is necessary to have the operation performed. The late Dr. Fisher, of Boston, for a long time gave attention slavery, should be used by her to secure the to this subject, and in January last published, with others, the following propositions, which are supported by numerous statistical facts, and are fully relied upon by the pro-

"That one single and perfect vaccination does not, for all the time in all cases, deprive the system of its susceptibility of variolous

That one or more re-vaccination do ; and that, consequently, a physician should recommend re-vaccination, when questioned as to its necessity.

The system is protected from variolous contagion when it is no longer susceptible of vaccine influence, as tested by re-vaccina-

That vaccination will not fully prevent cople taking the small pox, is a fact beyond all dispute, for I was vaccinated, and the pox, I am told, was good-excellent in every respect; yet, when twenty years of age, I was smitten with small pox, and covered from head to foot with the "boils of that loathsome disease." My case was peculiar-I had no knowledge of coming in contact with any person who was infected, and was not in any house where the disease had been. I well remember the evening when I felt the first symptoms; it was in 1834, on Christmas Eve, and I lost a fine social feast by it. In no case, however, does the small pox, affeet those who are vaccinated as severely as those who are not; I have not a mark on my face, nor was my sickness over considered dangerous to myself, and I was up and at my business in four weeks from the time I took it. Some would lead us to believe that, after a certain time after vaccination, the whole of its effects disappear from the human system, and the individual who had undergone the process, is as liable to the dangers of small pax, as those who have not been vaccinated. This is not true. Of five persons who were smitten with small by contact with me in some way, one died who had not been vaccinated, and the other four (one as old as myself) were but other four (one as old as myself) were but all the best of the comparison to what I was, for I was literally covered. The nature of Doctors—

It is altogether a matter of experience; and it was by practical covered for the conting, that Jenner discovered has been a worderful blessing to our race. I have beard my grandfather say that, in his young days, you could scarcely see a European who was not terribly disfigured with the small pay. It terribly disfigured with the small pox. It was the terror of the beautiful and gay .-

The wonder now is, to see people distigured with this disease. I have heard an opinion expressed that vaccination was of little benefit to a child before it was weaned. I do not believe this; the four persons of whom I have spoken, were all vaccinated before they were three months old. Many recommend re vaccination as the only sure means to prevent variloid, or the mild type of small pox. I believe that it should be practiced; but, while I believe this, I also think that if every person born was vaccinated in early life, the small pox would soon be unknown.

New York, 1850.

Advertiser Major Richardson, formerly an officer in the British Army, read a paper on the "incidents of the war of 1812, embracing particulars connected with the death of Tecumseh. The Commercial Advertiser says: Major R. having been an eye witness of most of the matter described, and a personal friend of the great warrior, his narrative was of more than ordinary interest, and com manded almost breathless attention throughout. He related many instances of generos-The small-pox was said to be raging, to ity and chivalrous gallautry on the part of an alarming extent, in the cities of Aguar the Indian chief, which would have done no discredit to the knight of feudal times. We see in El Monitor, an account to the In relation to the manner of his death, Major cet that in Chihuahua there had been a R. is of opinion that he fell by the hand of Col. Johnson. Such, he says was the universal understanding on the night of the battle, when all the circumstances were fresh in the minds of the witnesses, and he sees no reason to dispute the fact at this late day. The question 'Who killed Tecumseh?' may therefore be considered settled." Major Richardson is known to the reading public as the author of "Wacousta," "Ecarte, and other novels.

Our Town .- We observe the signs of growth and of progress all around us. We have in successful business operation thirteen dry goods establishments; two confectionary and druggist stores; one furniture room—many articles manufactured here; three carriage manufactories; five blacksmith shops; two shoe and boot making rooms; three tailoring establishments; three es, and another in progress of constuction; next week treat our renders to the details of the picture.—We forgot to mention one A man too busy to take care of his health Jail with no solitary convict to pine within

PALMETTO REGIMENT.—The Winnsboro Register says: We have been requested to state by one of the gallant Palmettoes, who served through the Mexican Campaign, that it is the desire of many of the officers and privates, that a meeting of the remnant of that noble band shall be held in Columbia, on the 20th August next, which will be the anniversary day of the battle of Churubusco.

We learn that it is the intention of many who desire that the meeting shall take place to provide means for doing that which an unmindful, if not ungrateful, Legislature has failed to accomplish, the rearing of a monument to the memories of those gallant spirits Butler and Dickinson, who fell sustaining the honor of the Palmetto Regiment and the State of South Carolina at large. Success to the movement.

High River.-On Wednesday morning the water commenced coming in town, and continued rising until about eight o'clock, at night, which caused a very sudden rise in goods, wares, merchandise, &c. but none went off, and none of our merchants sustain ed any loss, but the trouble of removing their goods up-stairs, to the counters and otherwise, giving them a small elevation, and some draying their goods to the higher parts of the town. The damage to the streets, bridges, ditches and otherwise has been quite light, much lighter than was expected: what the injury has been to the planters on the river we have not, as yet, been able to ascertain. The river was thirty-one feet above low water mark.

We understand the Augusta Canal was damaged, but to what exent we did not learn. In consequence of the freshet, we have been compelled to come out one day later than our regular publication day, we hope, however, our patrons will look over this, as it is the first time we have failed to issue our paper on the day it was due; the water was about twenty inches deep in our office, and we didn't feel much like standing up to our case and picking types, and our feet in the water at the same time. - Hamburg Republican.

THE SOLEMNITY OF AN OATH.-One of those rather peculiar geniuses known upon the Apalachicola as timber getters, went down to the port of that name with a very valuable raft of cedar and other choice timber that he desired to ship "for Cowes and a market," or some other town of equal importance. One of the requisites to obtain a clearance was to make a certain oath before the Collector, for which purpose he appeared before that diguitary, who made out the form of oath, which having other things stated— "you do solomnly every that no part of this timber now sought to be shipped by you, was cut upon the parties le de of the United

"Stop stranger; what's that you say? must take my solemn affidavy to that? "Yes."

"And that I can't ship that raft of mine if I don't?" "Yes."

"And does other fellers what comes down here with rafts take that oath?" "Sometimes."

"You may go ahead, stranger-I cant lose that timber-it has got to be shipped any way you can fix it." Uncle Sam's land," said he, as he walked off, after taking the oath-how in thunder do I know where his lines run. I reckon that oath is nothin but form, no how-Un-
