The midnight mass in spite of the storm raging without, seemed to enceremony being performed within the church. The dazzling light from reflector and candles, the glittering vestments of the priest the ascending of incense al' tended to raise the thoughts to heavenly things. In a word the midnight mass in St. Peters will be long remembered and no doubt gladly spoken of by the Cat' o'c of Beaufort.

THE Abbeville Medium encourage capital and imigration to come to this State in the following cordial manner.

"Make then leave the Country. -Should the white Radicals who have dope so much to retard the growth of prosperity in this country and who have outraged all honesty and decency by their outraged all hone ty and decency by their corrupt and unprinciple political course be longer allowed to live amounst us? As long as they stay here we may expect nothing out trouble and violence. If they have property let the people buy them out at a fair price but let them understand by all means that they can no longer live in a country they have ourraged and ruined. Give them a chance to paok up their carpet-bags and let them go in peace for go they must.

In New York on Monday last, the tria of thirty milk dealers, accused of watering their milk, was begun. One dealer plead ed guilty and was fined fifty dollars which he paid. A test case was then put on trial before a jury. The offence of adulteration is a misdemeanor. The counsel for the board of health in opening, declared that out of one hundred and twenty millions of quarts of milk, sold as such in New York and Brooklyn, at least forty millions have heretofore been water, and that therefore four million dollars have been annally paid for water alone. The case is still on.

It is stated in legal circles that the effect of the late decision of the supreme court in the southern asurance cases reaches far wider than was at first suppos ed. It is said that the principle laid down by the court is such that all parties who have taken out a policy of life incurance and then failed through one cause or another to continue the payment of preniums can recover the equitable value of the amounts so paid by them. The e mpanies of course will not admit that such a broad latitude of construction shall be given to the opinion of the court, but the probability is that as this view is taken by so many of the legal profession con- of moment has been taken. The Chicago Tribune expresses the opinion that the compromision president president by throwing the election of the former into the house and the atter into the senate, would be a violaion of the spirit if not the letter of the constitution, on the ground that they loth reside in the same state. It suggests, if compre mise is to be made, that Hayes run "a burrow" and Hendricks be taken, and thinks that the Cincinna i Enquirer and other papers which opposed the nomination of Tilden

These self-sacrificng patriots can get them again next ses sion, and as there is not money just now to pay them, the p triots will lose noth ng by the operations. After sitting for month, recognizing Mr. Gleaves as president every moment of that time, it s a very cheap piece of claptrap to hand back the certificates. Great is humbug.

What Ben Hill Says Now.

A Washington special to the Baltimore American says: "Ben Hill, whose aspirations for the Georgia Senatorship are likely to be effected by his too honest utterances on the Senatorial question, said to-day that the, is not prepared to take back his honorable words, even if he should be defeated for the Senate. He said that the statements adverse to his Senatorial interests which were being put fourth, emanated from candidates for the Senatorship in Georgia who thought they could gain some strength by such procedure. He said that these people, and some few others, might find fault with his position, but he believed the people of Georgia would be with im to a mar. He regard this Senatorial prospects, if nything, better now than they ever have been.
