History of Steam.

About 280 years B. C., Hero, of Alexan-a formed a toy which exhibited some of ers of steam, and was put in motion

A: D. 540, Athenius, an architect, arrangseveral cauldrons of water, each covered rith the wide bottom of a leathern tube, hich rose to a norrow top, with pipes ex-aded to the rafters of the adjoining build-ag. A fire was kindled beneath the cauld-on, and the house was shaken by the ef-orts of the steam ascending the tubes. In 1343, June 17th, Blasco da Garay tried steamboat of 309 tuns with tolerable suc-as, at Barcelona, Spain. It consisted of a uldron of boiling water, and a movable cel on each side of the ship. It was laid be as impracticable. A handSome pre-however, was made to Garay. The first idea of a steam engine in Eng-d, was in the Marguis of Worcester's listory of Invention" published in 1663. In 1698 patents were granted to Savery th the wide bottom of a leathern tube,

In 1698 patents were granted to Savery the first application of the steam engine. In 1705 Newcomen, Cawley, and Savery ide the first steam engine in England. In 1736 Jonathan Hulls set forth the idea m navigation.

In 1769 James Watt made the first persteam engine in England.

In 1778 Thomas Paine first proposed this lication in America.

In 1781 the Marquis Jouffroy constructed steamboat on the Seine.

In 1789 Wm. Symington made a voyre in one on the Forth and Clyde Canal. In 1802 this experiment was repeated. In 1782 Rumsey propelled a boat by eam at New York.

In 1787 John Fitch, of Philadelphia, navated a boat by a steam engine on the Delvare River.

In 1793 Robert Fulton first began to apy his attention to steam.

In 1793 Oliver Evans, a native of Philaelphia constructed a locomotive steam enne to travel on a turnpike road.

We have been requested to publish the bove brief history of the early efforts of team engine inventors, as being useful for nture references by our readers. We cheerully do so with the necessary corrections to nake it truly historical.

Hero's steam engine was like a Barker later Wheel driven by steam-a rotary. was revived 15 years ago in this State.-book was published in Leipsic in 1597. hich describes a rotary steam engine like Jero's.

In 1615 Solomon De Caus, a French en-gineer, published a work describing the ower of steam to force water, but not by an gine.

The claims of Blasco de Garay are not ntitled to much weight, as they were only irst given to the world in 1826, and said to e from an old manuscript discovered in the Archives at Simaneas, Spain. In 1628, Branca, an Italian mathemati-cian propelled a wheel by a jet of steam rom a boiler.

Before Symington made his experiments he was engaged by Patrick Miller, of Dal-winton, and made an engine to propel a oat for that gentleman, who published a hamplet on the subject in 1787.

We were not aware before that Thomas Paine was claimed as being a proposer of team navigation.

John Fitch propelled a boat by steam on Collect Pond, in this city, about the date pecified above. We never read or heard f Rumsey doing so.

The first permanently successful steam engine in the world was that of James Watt, in 1769; and the first permanently successful steamboat, for which Watt built the engine, was that of Robert Fulton, in 1807, in ew York.

A DELICATE SITUATION .---- It is one of the disadvantages of the co-operation of the En-glish with the French troops in the East, that a sense of delicacy compels the British to veil the regimental devices which they earned in the great war in the Peninsular and the Netherlands, lest they should out-rage the feelings of their gallant comrades. The Scots' Greys are greater and The Scots' Greys are greater sufferers by their Waterloo distinction than any other corps, for it has caused them to be kept back altogether. They are literally covered with souvenirs of Waterloo, and must have alter-ed their uniform entirely if they had been sent to the Fart ent to the East.

THE Boston Post says that the following took place in Jewitt city, Connecticut. About eight years ago, Horace Ray died there of consumption. Since then two of his sons consumption. Since then two of his sons have died of the same disease, and another son being sick with the same disease, his friends, under the belief that the dead brothers were feeding on the living, went to the graves on the 8th, dug them up, and burned the corpses. This is an instance of supersti-tion such as the missionaries tells us of mong "the heathen." The above superstition is quite common in Asia, and in many parts of Europe. The corpse is supposed to feed on the living, and is called a vampire. This is one of those universal superstitions which are found in almost every nation and clime.

BETTER LOOK TO THE MONEY.—One of the improbable stories respecting the fillibuster-ing movements against Cuba is that the intended invaders have provided a military chest with a million of dollars, and that their army is to be commanded by an American general. If the fillibusters have anything like that sum of money at their command, they had better see that it is deposited in some secure place, for some of the men who are eager to plunder an island would like nothing better than a chance to dip into so well-provided a money chest.

DISEASE AMONG HORSES .- We learn that attended with very great fatality. It is a species of fever, very violent in all the symptoms of inflamatory attacks on the human system, and attacking all the principal vital organs, brain, lungs, intestines, &c. Bleeding is said thus far to have been the only treatment which has proved successful in some few cases. The loss to some stable keepers and others is reported to have been very large, We heard one represented to have lost forty horses by the disease .- N. O. Picayune, 31st. How willful is that judgment which shuts the door against Love, and opens it to his rival. The affections tap modesty, as always distrusting themselves, and fearing to obtrude. But hypocrisy is never without pretension, and we too frequently yield to audacity what is only due to prayer. Love may be likened to the hundle mendicant, who looks his unworthiness while he entreats your bounty. It is passion and selfishness only which, assuming his name, assail you on the highway, with their "Stand and deliver! " claiming as their right the boon which is only precious as a charity .- Egeria. SPEAKING of the Raben Gap Rail Road. the Anderson Gazette of the 31st ult. says

From all quarters we receive the most cheering accounts of the prospects of this road. In the neighborhood of Pendleton, Messrs.

Maxwell & Wright have a large contract, and are pushing forward the work with great success. They have in constant employment from seventy to one hundred lands. Nearly all the contracts between this point and the tunnel are taken by enterprising men, and will be completed within the limited time.

POTATOES IN CALIFORNIA .- The San Francisco correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, under date of May 1, says that "one year ago potatoes were worth in that market 15 cents per pound, now on-ly half a cent per pound. We note a sale of a large lot at Santa Cruz for the sum of fifty dollars. The same lot, one year since, would have brought between forty and fifty thousand dollars," TEMPERANCE IN TEXAS .- The last Legis ature of Texas passed a special act giving to the voters within five miles of Marshall the right to prohibit the sale of spirituous or vinous liquors, in any quantities, except for medicinal purposes. The vote was taken on the low on the 6th inst., and resulted for prohibition 136; for license 66. In August the vote is to be taken throughout the State on the same question.

Arriving at New York, he was care-ful to avoid the clutches of the abolitionists, who, he justly feared, would kidnap him and frustrate his designs. He was successful in eluding their nefarious tactics, and reached Baltimore on Saturday. He immediately sought a magistrate in that city, who he induced to accompany himto Washington, for the purpose of conferring with the Hon. A. H. Stephens, a friend of his master. The result is, that last night this gentleman, who had previously designed to make a brief visit to Georgia, and who was on the eve of departure, left the city, taking with him the slave for his earnestly sought home in the south. THE FIRST AND LAST DUEL IN ILLI-Nois .- Ford's "History of Illinois," recently published at Chicago gives the following reminisence:

The year 1820 was signalized by the first and last duel which was ever fought in Illinois. This took place in Belleville, St. Clair county, between Alphonso Stewart and William Bennet, two obscure men. The seconds had made it up to be a sham duel, to throw ridicule upon Bennet, the challenging party. Stewart was in the secret, but Bennet, his adversary was left to believe it a reality. They were to fight with rifles. The guns were loaded with blank cartriges; but Bennet, somewhat suspecting a trick, rolled a ball into his gun, without the knowledge of the seconds. The word was given to fire, and Stewart fell mortaly wounded. Bennet made his escape; but two years afterwards he was arrested in Arkansas, brought back to the State, indicted, tried, and convicted of murder. A great effort was made to procure his pardon but Gov. Bond would yield to no entreaties in his favor, and Bennet suffered the penalty of the law by hanging in the presence of a great multitude of people. This was the first and last duel ever fought, in Great Economy in Time & Labor. the State by any of its citizens. The hanging of Bennet made duelling discreditable and unpopular, and laid the foundation for that abhorrence of the practice which has ever since been felt by the people of Illinois.

SCARCITY IN FLORIDA .- The Wakulla (New Port) Times, says that it does not know when provisions have been so searce in Middle Florida as at present. Corn, bacon, flour, &c., ordered from New Orleans, are not received because there are not vessels enough in the trade to supply the unusual demand.

On a recent arrival of a vessel, many wagons from a long distance in the country were obliged to return empty and what is worse, with the prospect of finding an empty corn crib and smoke house when they got home.

A NEW AND BEAUTIFUL TREE IN OREGON. —Mr. Brooks, writing from Olympia, Ore-gon, says: "A strange and beautiful tree has lately been found here, which is from one to seven feet high, with a leaf resem-bling that of a pear, and the trunk and branches shoes of the orange. The upper side of the leaf is coated with gum, of the consistence of oil, and it is highly fragmant, the odos: resembling illast of bergamot or ripe fruit. It will be a highly ornamental and desirable addition to our gardens, as it is an overgreen. an evergreen.
