A TELEGRAPHIC despath brings the melhelligence that the Governor of recently appointed Governor of Burt was a brother of Hon. Armis-State, where for a time he devoted himself to the study and practice of the legal pro-fessions, and also occupied; with great abili-ty, the editorial chair of the Pendleton Mesministration to power, Mr. Burt was appointed Third Auditor of the Treasury, and per-formed the duties of his office with great zeal and fidelity, until the Governorship of the new Territory of Nebraska was conferred forty-three years of age, and has left, we be-lieve, a family to deplore his loss. In politi-cal as well as in private life, he was greatly esteemed, and has amongst his warmest friends some of the most distinguished citi-zens of the Republic, who will deeply regret to learn that he has been prematurely re-moved from the sphere of his labors.

The Japan Expedition.

Apvices from the United States store ship, late as the 16th of June, have been re ceived. She was then at Simonda. All well on board. Visits have been made to by exhibiting to them-not in reality, but sundry villages along the cost. The inhabi-tants generelly were of a friendly disposition. The United States ship Southampton, Capt. Boyle, was to sail in a few days, direct for Washington, bringing the presents to this country from the Emperor of Japan. The treaty made by Commedore Perry with the authorities of the Loo Cheo Islands, provides that they shall supply American ships touching there with whatever they want, at fair prices; furnish them with pilots to and from the harbor of Napa, assist shipwrecked vessels, and allow persons from American ves-sels to come on shore, and be at liberty to ramble about peaceably. At Tumia is a buriel ground for the citizens of the United States, where their graves and tombs shall not be molested.

Terrible Calamity.

THE Augusta Chronicie & Sentinel of Wednesday has been permitted to make the following extract from the private letter of a gentleman to a friend in that city:

"Martos, ALA, Oct. 16th, 1854 .- I am sorry to inform you, in this connection, of a very sad occurrence which took place here on last (Sunday) night, about 12 o'clock— that is, the burning down of "Howard College," There were sleeping at the time, in the tirird and fourth stories of the building. about 26 or 28 young men and two negro men; all of whom were required to jump from the windows, a distance of from 30 to 40 feet, to the ground below. And, horrible to tell, 22 of the number, were mangled at the livery stable. in a frightful manner, some more and some less. There just come in from a visit to them with my very heart sick. Some of the boys are burned very badly, in addition to other injuries. Our town is in mourning, and looks gloomy enough, I learned, a few moments since, that one of the black men was dead; he rushed down through the dames to the door. Two or three of the boys are expected to die-the rest will probably recover. There is, however, no knowing exactly the extent of their injuries. I trust all things are better than we now think. The College building, with everything in it, is in ruins. Nothing was saved, as I understand. It is supposed now that the building was set on fire, though I cannot at present believe it. Such a flendish act could scarcely be perpetrated by any one in this commu-nity. The truth will be known in a few

A postscript says another had died.

The Patent Revolver Hammer Pistol.

To such perfection has the manufacture of this weapon been brought, that it would have seemed difficult to make an improvement, or even find where one would be desirable. Colts revolver was such an improvement on the old style of pistol that for a long time every one was disposed to be satisfied trace is already a superabilitance of thought in the world. The market is chittered with it. It occupies too much space, and attracts to it the attention that should be given to action. So false are our systems of education and society, that young people, instead of exerting themselves to bring about a practical realization of some one or more of the noble thoughts that have been before the world for the last fifty years, are scouring the universe for more new ideas, and hunting up more new thoughts—forgetting that it up more new thoughts-forgetting that it would require the collective energy and practical wisdom of the world to be employed fifty years in acting out the stock of thought already on hand. In this age, an ounce of action is worth a pound of thought. If money be regarded as a means of doing good and promoting happiness, a man would certainly be embarrassed by the possession of so much wealth that would require all his time to take care of it. The very end he had in view would be defeated by the superabundauce of his means to accomplish it.

A PELLOW advertises in the Baltim

Reformatory men, so called, or, rather, reformatory writers, and theoretical writers generally, know well enough-for they everywhere hear it—that the people will not read their long articles; and they (the wri-ters) whine about being neglected, and cant to us about popular ignorance, &c. But the people are wiser than they. There is a reason for this neglect. They know instinctively that there is something, wrong at this late day, in boreing them and torturing them, on paper—as many blessings, spiritual and material as there are combinations of forms and colors in the kaleidoscope; while the positive, actual, every-day sufferings of the people remain the same. They feel, through every pore of their skin, that, however much remote posterity may be affected by theory, it would be better, practically, for them, the workers of the present age, if all the reformers in Christendom would combine together, and, neglecting, for a time, all other things, would devote themselves to the accomplishment of a single reform that would, in any one direction, positively meliorate the condition of the men and women, now livingthat would secure them only a single comfort, no matter how trifling, which they do not now enjoy.—New York Leader.

Consins.

A COUNTRY gentleman lately arrived in Boston, and immediately repaired to the house of a relative, a lady who had married a merchat of that city. The parties were glad to see him, and invited him to make their house his home, as he declared his intention of remaining in the city but a day or two. The husband of the lady anxious to show his attention to a relative and friend of Twitty, Chapman Carpenter, Wm D McMawhere the merchant kept. . "Well said he," "I am going now."

"Are you?" said the merchant, "Well good bye sir.'

"Well, about that horse, the man says the bill must be paid for his keeping." "Well, I suppose that's all right, sir."
"Yes—well, but you know I'm your wife's

"Yes," said the merchant, "I know you are, but your horse aint!"

ancient proverb:

"A Rolling Stone Gathers no Moss."

Well, what of that? Who wants to be a mossy old frome, away in some damp corner of a pasture, where sunshine and fresh air never come, for the cows to rub themselves against, for snalls and bugs to crawl over, and for toads to squat under among the pois-onors weeds? It is far better to be a smooth and polished stone, rolling along in the brawling stream of life, wearing off the rough corners, bringing out the firm crysta-line structure of the granite or the deficate veins of the gate or chancedony. It is this perpetual chafing and rubbing in the whirling current that shows what sort of grit a man is made of and what use he is good for The sandstone and soapstone are ground down to sand and mud, but the firm rock is selected for the towering featress, and the diamond is cut and polished for the monarch's crown.

LYING IN BED.—The Medical Journal says, it is often a question amongst people who are unacquainted with the antimony and physiology of man, whether lying with the head exhalted or level with the body was the most wholesome. Most, consulting their own ease on this point, argue in favor of that which they prefer. Now, although many delight in bolstering up their heads at night, and sleep soundly without injury, yet, we declare it to be a dangerous habit. The vessels through which the blood passes from the heart to the head are always lessened in their covities when the head is resting in bed higher than the body; therefore, in all diseases attended with fever, the head should be pretty nearly on a level with the body; and people ought to accustom themselves to sleep thus, to avoid danger.

A Boy called a doctor to visit his father, who had the delirium tremens. Not rightly remembering the name of the disease, he called it the 'devil's trembles.'

A young preacher out west who had just started on his travels as an itinerant, was one evening holding forth on the deluge, and after describing the manner in which Noah built the ark and filled it with animals of every kind by pairs, closed his solemn tone thus —"You must know, my dear hearers, that it was an arduous task for Noah and his sons to get a pair of whales into the ark"—A tight squeeze, certainly. Some accounts say that Noah employed a whele for a rudder. Other accounts any that the whales in them days were quadrappels—fish not being fieeded to the ark. How doctors differ!

Searcely are dried the clods upon the grave of one "early lover and lost," or the decate one "early lover and lost," or the death of another affectionate, loving and beloved son. True by the dispensations of Providence seem mysterious when we see the beloved, the youthful and gay called suddenly from time to eternity. But God in his wisdom cannot err. His friends weep not as those who have no hops, for the deceased gave full assurance of his preparedness and willingness to die, and therefore feel that their loss is his eternal gain, and though he has been called from the companionship of the world he has found a home in the Paradise of God, there to enjoy the society of all the happy apirits in praising his God and Savior forever. It is a happy reflection to know, that although his friends are deprived of his company here, they may meet him again where parting is ne more, where additional field are world for the decape of the providence seem to full.
