A FRIEND of ours, aving not far from Pontiac, was one pleasant day importaned by oratory and other premises. As they come his wife to take her to ride. The gentleman being a man of business, pleaded his engagements when his wife replied with the old story, that she must be "tied down at home." The husband rejoined that if any person would furnish him with clothing to wear, and enough to ent and drink, he would be willing to be "tied down at home."

A few days after, the gentleman came liome earlier than was his custom, and, being fatigued, lay down on the sofa and fell into a sound sleep. His wifetook cords, and slily tied his hands together, served his feet in the same way, and made him fast to the sofa. She then sat a table, with all that the house afforded, and placed an extra suit of clothes within his reach. This done, she started to pay a friend a visit. Upon her return, late in the evening, she found her one thousand eight hundred men to make subject of domistic decipline as she left him, complete man.
