

CHARLESTON, June 7.

A British ship, from Jamaica bound to London, in ballast, was carried into Cape Fear River, on Sunday last, (the crew in a state of mutiny) by the U. S. revenue schooner Diligence, Capt. Burch. When the Diligence fell in with her, she was standing directly for the shore, with all her sail set, and no doubt with the full intention of running her on shore. The mate of the ship was at the head of the mutiny; the mutineers having handled the Captain very roughly, and at one time had pulled off his neck-handkerchief, with the avowed intention of cutting his throat. It is supposed there is a large sum of specie on board her, and that their intention was to have run her on shore, destroyed the captain, and escaped with the money.

On examining the British Naval Chronicle for the last two or three years, we find that its language, which may be considered as expressive of the national feelings of England, has undergone a great revolution in relation to America. Prior to the capture of any British vessels of war by our brave tars, the Chronicle affected to underrate and despise us as an enemy; it seemed or affected to consider us as beneath serious notice, and our hostility unworthy of any great preparations on the part of England to repel. By degrees the Chronicle writers have treated us with greater respect; and now, although its pages breathe a bitter and malignant resentment towards America, obviously produced by our naval victories over the wooden walls of old England, they speak of us as a brave and formidable maritime rival; they urge their government to build and equip such frigates and sloops of war as will be a match for ours, to man them better, and to drill and exercise them in the manner of the American; they are even willing to be instructed by us. Yet we observe, with all their new respect for us, they persevere in asserting the falsehood, that our navy never triumphed over theirs without having a superior force in every particular. Beat them as we may, Englishmen will be Englishmen still; they will boast the very moment they are flogged, and arrogate a national superiority in every thing. We do not wonder, after perceiving the incessant stream of falsehood which flows through every page of the Naval Chronicle, that the people of England entertain unfounded notions and preposterous prejudices against this country, as well as ridiculous ideas of their own superior qualities in comparison with other nations.

His Excellency, Mr. Pederson, envoy extraordinary from the government of Denmark to the United States, has, among his other important functions, interested himself in establishing a proper understanding between the literary and scientific characters of the two countries. In New-York, the honorable efforts of this gentleman have been aided by James B. Murray, Esq. Dr. Mitchell, and Mr. Hammeken, the consul general. A ship which lately sailed for Elsinour and Copenhagen carried with her, consigned to the particular care of the captain, the despatches destined to open this amicable intercourse. They are more particularly addressed to the Royal Academy of Sciences, and to the Royal Society of Medicine, patronized by his Danish Majesty.

WASHINGTON, June 6.

The President and his family left this city yesterday for Montpelier, where it is expected, he will spend the summer months; there being no public business, at this time, particularly requiring his attendance at the seat of government.

Hon. Wm. Pinkney and suit sailed for Naples from Annapolis on the 7th inst. on board the Washington 74, Commodore Chauncey.

NORFOLK, May 20.

The Merchants' Bank of ALEXANDRIA have come to a resolution to close the concerns of that institution, and a committee of three of their board appointed to carry the resolution into effect.

LOUIS XVIII'S KITCHEN.

On the Pont Royal a cannon was placed with an officer's guard to command it. A French soldier observed to the officer, that the situation of the cannon could not at all command the passage of the bridge. "I know my business," replied the officer, "yonder is the kitchen, and if dinner be not served upon his Majesty's table at the exact hour, I know what to do—I am placed hereto frighten the cook."

It is a fact (confirmatory of the above anecdote) that the expences of the ten month's first reign of Louis the XVIIIth in the kitchen department alone, exceeded one entire year of Bonaparte's household expences immediately after his marriage with Maria Louisa, when he resided at Fontainebleau—which was, as regarded his private expenditure, the most expensive year of his reign.

Camden Gazette.

THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1816.

Arrangements have been made by the General Post Office department for carrying the mail twice a week between Camden and Charleston. The double line has already commenced. Departures.—Saturday and Wednesday mornings. Arrivals, Tuesday and Friday evenings.

RALPHIGH, the seat of Government of N. Carolina, has been visited by a most distressing calamity: A fire broke out, occasioned, there seems to exist no doubt, by incendiaries, on the night of the 11th inst. which consumed Fifty Buildings of various descriptions. The loss is estimated at 100,000 dollars. "This dreadful visitation" says the Raleigh Star, "found us wholly unprepared for it. We had neither fire engines, buckets, ladders, matches, nor pulleys; and the few hooks we had were useless for the want of ropes. We were also unprovided with regulations to ensure a concert of exertion." How stands your accounts in these respects, Citizens of Camden? It is well to be prepared at all points; the incendiary gives no warning.

Every scrap of intelligence from South-America, is interesting. Every friend of liberty feels anxious for the success of the patriot arms now engaged in rescuing that immense and interesting continent from the grasp of Spanish tyranny. The Vice Royalty of Buenos Ayres, consisting of several provinces on the river Plate, or as the Spanish call it Rio de la Plata, is the only section of that country which may be considered as having completely effected a revolution, and established a settled form of government. The government is distinctly known by the appellation of the United Provinces of Plata River. From these provinces many expeditions have already emanated for the object of conquest, or of aiding their brother patriots in other provinces. The following memorandum of the provinces which compose the government of Buenos Ayres, is from a gentleman of first respectability and intelligence, a native of South-Carolina now in South America. Additional information, and observations elucidatory of the objects and the resources of the contending parties may be expected in some other number of the Camden Gazette.

Spanish American territories are usually divided into Vice Royalities, Intendancies, and Districts; the Vice Royalty of Buenos Ayres, now the United Provinces, consist of the following Intendancies and Districts, viz:

Table with 4 columns: Intendancies, Capital and Lat., No. of Districts, Buenos Ayres, Buenos Ayres, 34 34 So. Four, Chaquisica, La Plata, Four, Paragua, Assumption, 23 15 Five, Potosi, Potosi, 19 28 Six, La Paz, La Paz, 16 50 Seven, Cochabamba, Oropesa, 17 00 Four, Cordova, Cordova, 31 15 Two, Salta, Salta, 24 30 Six.

The inhabitants of the above thirty eight Districts are estimated at 1,200,000.

Extract of a letter from a Gentleman in Brazil, to his friend near Camden, in S. Carolina, dated Rio Janeiro, 27th March 1816.

"The old Queen of Portugal died on the 20th inst. aged 82. She enjoyed extraordinary good health until a few weeks before her death. Her funeral has been splendid and enormously expensive. Her body lay in state from Wednesday 12 o'clock till Saturday night, and the funeral honors did not cease till midnight. Cannon were fired during those three days and nights, at five forts, and from five or six ships of war, at intervals of from 5 to 10 minutes; and all free people are ordered to wear mourning for one year. The speculators in black cloth and other articles of mourning make enormous profit by this event. The Prince Regent, who now succeeds to the Crown, and the new Queen have been shut up during these mournful ceremonies, but will receive the diplomatic corps to-morrow."

New Post-Office.—FULTON, a new post office, has recently been established in Clarendon County, Sumter District, eleven miles below Manchester, on the mail route from the latter place to this city.

We understand that the unfriendly disposition of the royalists in Bordeaux towards us has determined Mr. Lax to visit the United States, with a view of fixing his family on their native soil. We will congratulate him on his return, for we have always considered him a valuable officer.

HYMENIAL.

MARRIED, on Thursday Evening last, by the Rev. Mr. Smith, Mr. BOND ENGLISH, to the amiable Miss LEONORA DICKINSON, both of this place.

Poetry.

PROVIDENCE.

Translated from the Italian of Filicia. Just as a mother with sweet pious face, Years towards her little children from her seat, Gives one a kiss, another an embrace, Takes this upon her knees, that on her feet; And while from actions, looks, complaints, pretences, She learns their feelings and their various will, To this a look, to that a word dispenses, And whether stern or smiling loves them still. So Providence for us, high infinite, Makes our necessities its watchful task, Harkens to all our prayers, helps all our wants; And e'en if it denies what seems our right; Either denies because 'twould have us ask, Or seems but to deny, or in denying, grants.

Battle of Waterloo.

A SCOTCHMAN. Huzza for the thistle! the Scots won the day, Where'er they appear boys, the foe must give way. AN IRISHMAN. The Scots was the day! such a tho't now don't cherish, One half of the Scotchmen that fought lad, were Irish! London paper.
